ROOSEVELT'S TALK BREAKS STOCKS, METALS

Assails Rising Price of Durable Goods.

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt declared today that prices of durable goods, particularly copper and steel, are too high and that the time has come for the government to discourage federal expenditures for such items. In so doing the President handed the security and commodity markets a jolt which left them groggy when the trading sessions closed.

The President's pronouncement received a somewhat confused but mostly unfavorable response in financial circles and the stock market at once registered investors' dislike of the statements in a severe decline.

Effect on Market Prices.

The immediate effects of the Roosevelt statements, made at a press conference, were:

1. The New York stock market broke $1 to $6 a share in a long list of issues with the shares of heavy goods industries suffering most.
2. Futures quotations on copper, one of the principal targets of the President's proposals, broke sharply, the May option falling about ½ cent a pound, a sizable drop for one trading day.
3. Nearly all principal commodities in the futures markets declined, largely in sympathy with the downturn of the leaders of the recent steady price advance.
4. Financial and business interests were tossed into a state of confusion over the possible effects of the shift in federal policy.

Wants Change in Spending.

The presidential dissertation on the trend of prices came in response to a question as to his position on the future of the Public Works administration. He began his lengthy informal discussion by saying that he told five house Democrats apprehensive over the fate of PWA who called on him yesterday that federal expenditures should be shifted from durable goods in an effort to spread the national income more evenly and halt rising prices of steel, copper, and other heavy products.

He said he told the representatives that instead of spending federal funds on steel bridges, huge cement dams and similar permanent projects, government relief spending should be diverted as far as possible to dredging, construction of earth dams, and other projects which do not draw on durable goods.

Sees Danger of Slump.

Expenditures on the latter type of projects, he said, would bring about a more equal distribution of the national income to Americans at the bottom of the economic chart. The effort should be directed, he said, at spreading the national income more evenly from top to bottom as a means of halting the rising price spiral.

This spiral, he asserted, citing economic conditions of 30 and 40 years ago, constitutes a danger signal. Too rapid a rise in durable goods brings danger of a slump in both durable and consumer goods, he said.

The President singled out copper and steel from the durable goods pointing out that steel has increased in price $6 a ton and copper is now selling at 17 cents a pound. The steel rise made people wonder how much of the increase was due to higher wages so he directed the central statistical board to look into the matter, Mr. Roosevelt said. He reported he learned that steel is far too expensive as compared with the steel wage rate.

Tells of U. S. Purchases.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the government has purchased 250 million dollars' worth of steel in the past six months exclusive of navy steel buying. Foreign navy building has also aided in running up steel prices, he said. The New Deal has spent billions on steel, cement, and other durable goods under PWA and WPA alone.

Taking up copper, the President said that many mines in the country could operate profitably on a price of 5 or 6 cents a pound and others—naming the Anaconda properties at 8 and 9 cents a pound for their product. Yet that commodity is selling at 17 cents a pound, he pointed out.

The President said that every one studying the existing economic situation is pretty well agreed that from

$600,000 BLAZE ENDS AN EARLY CHAPTER IN ZION

Voliva Blames Fire on Fanatics.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Shiloh tabernacle in Zion city, which since the turn of the century has been the center of the colorful religious activities of the late John Alexander Dowie, self-styled Elijah the Restorer, and his successor, Wilbur Glenn Voliva, who holds that the earth is flat, was destroyed yesterday by fire which Overseer Voliva says was of incendiary origin. A nearby brick structure housing radio station WCBD also was razed.

The three story wooden tabernacle, which in the days of Dowie's glory seated 8,000, with white robed choir of 500 surrounding the imposing, white-bearded figure of the first apostle of the Christian Catholic church in Zion, disappeared in smoke and flames in 40 minutes.

The loss was placed by Voliva at $600,000, including a $30,000 pipe organ. Insurance was only $23,000, but Voliva says he will rebuild. He attributed the fire to enemies of the Passion Play, whose current presentation in the tabernacle has been interrupted by the fire. He said certain religious fanatics objected to a man's enacting the role of the Christ.

A Monument to Industry.

In 1900, when the tabernacle was built from the tithes of the faithful, Dowie had a following of 20,000 and seemed in a fair way to realize his dream of building a religious-industrial center on the shores of Lake Michigan. He transformed the marshes, where the pines, the white birch, and numberless wild flowers had grown unmolested since Indian days, into a center of industry, with bank, lace and candy factories and farm lands, all paying a tenth into the church of which Dowie was the dictator.

He turned the wilderness into a $7,000,000 property by the magnetic character of his teaching and healing, his power to arouse in the hearts of his people the dream that is as old as humanity. That is the dream of peace, abundance, and security, a human utopia.

A Scene of Regal Splendor.

Soon after the tabernacle was built he stood before his great and adoring audience and said:

"Members of the Restoration Host, do you accept me, John Alexander, as the first apostle of our Lord Jesus Christ and the Christian Catholic church?"

"Yes," came the answer.

"Officers of the church, do you accept me as the first apostle of our Lord Jesus Christ and the Christian Catholic church?"

"We do," said the 400 deacons, deaconesses, and elders.

The white robed choir sang, the uniformed guards stood at attention, the drum and bugle corps played.

In the center of this stage stood Dowie, robed in white satin and flanked by hundreds of crutches and braces snatched from the devil, as he said. They had been thrown away by those who had come to be healed by the touch of the prophet—reminiscent of the king's touch in the middle ages. This collection of crutches, plaster casts, high-heeled women's shoes, liquor bottles, cigars, guns, and other personal items was one of the State to Open Dozen Syphilis Stations Soon

Dr. Frank J. Jirka, state director of health, announced plans yesterday for the establishment of more than a dozen clinics throughout the state for the treatment of venereal diseases. A federal grant of about $300,000 is available for this purpose and Dr. Jirka hopes that all of the clinics will be operating by July 1.

These syphilis and gonorrhea treatment centers will be operated by municipal agencies—in Chicago, for example, by the board of health. Whether new clinics will be established in Chicago or the federal funds allocated through existing clinics will be a matter for Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president, and his board of health to decide.

Many Downstate Requests.

Requests for downstate clinics have come from many cities, Dr. Jirka added, and more are coming in daily as the drive against syphilis continues. Among those likely to be granted are for Evanston, Springfield, Cairo, Rockford, Danville, and either Rock Island or Moline.

Other cities being considered in central and southern Illinois are Litchfield, Carbondale, and Harrisburg.

Hopes for Approval of Fund.

The health department is hoping for approval of its appropriation request for $300,000 to carry on the state's share during the biennium beginning July 1. Whatever the sum appropriated, it will be matched with a federal grant. Although Gov. Horner has told Dr. Jirka that his department must curb its requests, the director is hopeful that next week's decision on the department's budget may be reached without reducing the allocation for fighting syphilis.

CLAIMS KINSHIP TO A BRITISH KING; SEEKS $1,000,000 ESTATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 2.—Announcing he is a great-great-grandson of King George IV. of England [who occupied the throne from 1820 to 1830] and the king's morganatic wife, Mrs. Maria Anne Fitzherbert, William Matthew O'Leary, a British customs official, disclosed last night that he intends to lay claim in the courts to the $1,250,000 Fitzherbert estate.

The estate, which consists of land in various parts of London, was given to Mrs. Fitzherbert by George IV. to provide her an income of $30,000 yearly.

O'Leary declares he spent his early years at Ramsgate, where he was brought up by a fisherman who kept his parentage a secret.

Two years ago, through an uncle living in London, O'Leary claims to have picked up threads of his family history and discovered from records that his grandmother, Maria Anne Shea, was born in 1837 and was the granddaughter of George IV. and Mrs. Fitzherbert. His grandmother died in a London poorhouse.

Mrs. Fitzherbert, who was born in 1756, met George when he was prince of Wales. The prince went through a form of marriage with her in 1785 and the couple lived together at Brighton, London, and Richmond. It has been accepted as a fact by British historians that the couple had no children.

Mrs. Fitzherbert was received at court, but royal approval for the match was withheld and later George was forced to marry Princess Caroline, whom he refused to admit to his coronation.

NO SITTER IS THIS SETTER; HE HIKES 350 MILES HOME

Skippy came home yesterday and thereby qualified as the country's first canine hitch-hiker. Or perhaps he hoofed it the 350 miles from Ottumwa, Ia. Skippy can't say. He is a black Irish setter with a trace of police dog in his family tree, owned by Hollis S. Austin, 110 South Butrick street, Waukegan, and the pet of the Austin children, LeRoy, 11 years old, and Florence, 9.

Last Thanksgiving Austin decided Skippy would be happier with a farm to roam about on, so left him with Brother Elmer Austin, near Ottumwa. Yesterday there was a noise at the Austins' back door. When it was opened Skippy bounded in. "Skippy's home!" shouted the children. And, added Austin later, "he's home to stay."

Sen. McAdoo's Daughter Is Given Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., April 2.—(AP)—Ellen McAdoo de Onate, 21, daughter of United States Senator William Gibbs McAdoo and granddaughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson, obtained a divorce today from Rafael de Onate, 40, an actor, on a charge of nonsupport.

She and her husband both testified in her contested divorce action that they were supported during their married life by Senator McAdoo.

To Mrs. de Onate's charge of neglect and nonsupport, De Onate countered that McAdoo induced them to go to Europe after their marriage in 1934, preventing him from obtaining film employment.

The young wife testified her husband often left her alone at night and that when he returned he "usualy was slightly intoxicated" and "used abusive language."

Mother Is Witness.

Wilson's daughter, Mrs. William G. McAdoo, divorced wife of the senator and Ellen's mother, denied she influenced the De Onates to go to Europe. Asked if the senator objected to the marriage, Mrs. McAdoo said:

"The senator told me that if she loved him [De Onate] he would not prevent their marriage."

"It was Ellen's idea to go to Europe," Mrs. McAdoo testified, "and I thought it was a good idea, too, because of the newspaper publicity, which was very annoying."

When Mrs. De Onate testified she was asked by Col. William H. Neblett, McAdoo's law partner, "Who suggested that you go to Europe?"

"I suggested to my father that we go to Europe to avoid the publicity," she replied. "We had been hounded by reporters."

"How did it happen that you did not return for two years?"

Child Born in Europe.

"My health would not permit, and then after our child was born it was necessary to wait until he was old enough to make the trip."

"Did your husband support you while you were in Europe?"

"No, we lived on money my father sent me at my request."

De Onate was called as an adverse witness.

"How did you live while you were in Europe—who paid the bills?" he was asked.

"My wife was getting money from her father—an allowance."

De Onate said after his return here he made unsuccessful attempts to obtain film work, although McAdoo gave him letters to two executives.

MINNESOTA GOVERNOR TURNS OUT PRISONERS

Albert Lea, Minn., April 2.—[Special.]—Strike rioters who did $15,000 worth of damage to a factory and injured a sherif when he attempted to enforce the law climaxed their day of disorder here late this afternoon with the release of 54 prisoners from the Freeborn county jail.

Release of the prisoners was at the direct order of Gov. Elmer A. Benson, who came here from St. Paul when it appeared that Sherif Helmer Myre and 150 deputies could not control the mob. Gov. Benson gave the order to open the jail doors when the rioters approached the building.

The first riot broke out this morning when Sherif Myre and his deputies went to headquarters of the Independent Union of All Workers to arrest two men for whom he had bench warrants, charging contempt for violation of an injunction obtained by the American Gas Machines company, whose plant had been closed for two weeks by a strike.

Unionists Driven Out.

Myre announced his intention to arrest the men. He gave them 30 minutes to come out. In answer burning blankets, hot water, and other missils were hurled from windows. Then the sherif's men fired tear gas into the building and drove the strikers out. In the street fighting that followed the sherif was injured.

Despite head injuries Myre finally arrested the two men for whom he held contempt warrants and 48 others for rioting. All were taken to jail.

This morning deputies had been placed on guard at the plant and about 250 workers in the factory and office returned to their jobs. Late in the afternoon the mob, composed largely of outsiders, said to have come from Austin, Minn., 20 miles away, stormed the Gas Machines plant, drove workers and deputies to the third floor and proceeded to wreck the plant, smashing windows and damaging machinery and the interior.

Tonight the governor criticized the sherif for breaking the picket line with deputies to permit workers to enter the plant. He called the sherif's performance of duty an outrage.

Destroy Police Car.

In the disturbance at the plant the rioters destroyed a police car and damaged two trucks used by deputies. The police car was burned. From the plant the mob began its march upon the jail.

Gov. Benson and Lieut. Col. J. E. Nelson, assistant adjutant general, had arrived here at the time the mob was smashing the Gas Machines plant and were considering the situation as

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—While the senate was debating the sitdown strike issue, on which it is apparent it will have to commit itself, the house rules committee this afternoon voted for a house investigation of the use of labor's newest weapon.

The house committee acted after Chairman John O'Connor [D., N. Y.] had conferred with President Roosevelt at the White House. Mr. O'Connor said that the proposed investigation was discussed although he had not gone to see the President for that specific purpose.

A resolution calling for the investigation of sitdowns was introduced by Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.]. The measure would create a committee of seven congressmen to investigate all phases of sitdown strikes and the industries which they affect. It is expected that the house will vote on the resolution next week.

Senate Democrats Split.

A split among administration leaders of the senate, with implications threatening for the first time the President's control over that body, defeated all efforts of Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson to avoid a vote on the sitdown issue. For the second day he was forced to move a recess without final action on the pending Guffey coal price fixing bill, but this time it was clear that the senate would have to commit itself on the sitdown strike.

For five hours the senate was held in uproarious debate over the amendment of Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.], which would add to the Guffey bill's declaration of policy on labor relations a condemnation of the sitdown strike. In this debate President Roosevelt was accused by two Democratic senators, Walter F. George of Georgia and Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, of inspiring lawlessness by his assaults on the Supreme court and by his failure to crush John L. Lewis when the latter demanded support in return for his election contributions.

Garner Encourages Byrnes.

Far more significant, however, was the fact that Vice President John N. Garner encouraged Senator Byrnes in demanding a senate vote on the sitdown strike. Moreover, the Vice President encouraged Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], president pro tempore of the senate, in the offering of a substitute resolution which, nevertheless, would condemn the sitdown strike.

Majority Leader Robinson moved at the outset to refer the Byrnes amendment to the committee on interstate commerce with instructions to report back in 30 days, but during the progress of debate on this motion Senator Pittman announced that he would sustain a point of order against it, thus forcing a vote on the Byrnes amendment.

Senator Pittman, after announcing that he would sustain a point of order against Senator Robinson's motion, asked him to agree to a temporary laying aside of the Guffey bill in order that the senate might vote on a simple resolution declaring sitdown strikes to be "illegal and contrary to public policy." Senator Byrnes readily agreed to this procedure, but Senator Robinson objected.

Disagree with Roosevelt.

The majority leader only two weeks ago issued a statement saying the sitdown strike situation was "rapidly approaching a crisis" and that congressional leaders would have to consider some action. But President Roosevelt returned to Washington from Warm Springs, Ga., and informed Mr. Robinson that there was nothing the federal government could do about sitdown strikes. That now is his view, but it is not shared by such hitherto loyal administration leaders as Senator Byrnes, Senator Pittman, and Vice President Garner.

Robinson finally agreed to a proposal by Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.] that the sitdown strike resolutions be referred to the interstate commerce commission with instructions to report in one week, at which time the report would be made the pending business. However, Senator Bailey objected to waiting even a week, and Robinson was forced to withdraw his motion. In resigned and weary tones he declared that he was willing to take a vote on the sitdown resolution whenever the debate upon it and upon such amendments as might be offered should be concluded. He indicated that this might require several days.

Packing Foes Urge Action.

With few exceptions the demands for a vote to condemn the sitdown strike came from senators who are opposing Mr. Roosevelt on his proposal to pack the Supreme court with six New Dealers, indicating that the wounds inflicted upon his party by that measure will not soon be healed. Besides Senators Bailey and George, the Supreme court packing foes who demanded condemnation of the sitdown strike included Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.], both hitherto ardent New Dealers and champions of organized labor.

On the other hand, the most violent opposition to a vote on the sitdown strike came from those who most loudly denounce the Supreme court and clamor to pack it—Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.], and Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [D., Wash.].

Hits Dilatory Tactics.

Senator Byrnes assailed the dilatory tactics of the administration leaders who sought to refer his resolution to a committee for thirty days.

"You can ask the average layman how much time he would need to consider this question and he would certainly think that thirty minutes would be nearer the time than thirty days," Byrnes declared. "But if any individual did not want to vote upon it he would find thirty days a very short time. O, gentlemen may say that they are afraid their action will be misunderstood, but there is no question of how the people of this nation will understand this. We cannot dodge the implications of this question."

"There has been in this country too much lawlessness for many months past," said Senator George. "It has not been confined to lawlessness upon the part of labor, organized or unorganized; but there has been too much general disregard for law and order. In high places pronouncements have been made that were calculated to undermine the confidence of the people of this nation in their government.

"You may say what you please about it, but every man who takes an oath to uphold the American constitution takes an oath to defend the three branches of government created by the constitution—at least, I do—and it is just as much my duty to defend the legislative branch as it is to defend the executive branch in the exercise of its powers, and it is equally my duty to defend the judicial branch in the exercise of its powers under the constitution . . . By the primal law of increase, every lawless act tends to bring forth seed after its own kind. . . ."

Senator Assails Lewis.

In the course of his remarks Senator George said:

"Who involved the President of the United States in this situation? I did not. The senate did not. The senator from South Carolina [Mr. Byrnes] did not. John Lewis did. We had just as well confront that fact. He stood upon the housetops of this land and in an excess of arrogance announced that he had elected Mr. Roosevelt President; that he had contributed half a million dollars to the campaign fund and demanded that the President of the United States of America come to his deliverance and take his side. That is the way it started. Capital did not start it. The owners did not start it. John Lewis started it, and America will finish it—do not worry about that!"

Suggests Answer to Lewis.

"That is the way it started. I am going to be a little bit more definite. I will not criticize the President about it. But his answer to John Lewis left a great deal to be said, and a great deal more to be imagined. He said this is no time for headlines. Perhaps it was not. It was the time for John Lewis' headline. I say this with all my heart:

"I wish that the President had said, I am very grateful to Mr. Lewis for his help in the election. I deeply appreciate the contribution he made to my party. I am proud of the vote of the 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 or 5,000,000 people that he claims to have delivered. [I do not think that he delivered them.]

"But I am the President of the United States and the servant of all the people. I do not intend that any one shall ever say to the President that he has to do this or that or he has to deliver that. I wish he had said that and there would have been an end to such a situation in America. But he did not say it."

Borah Disagrees.

Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] took the view that the sitdown strike was illegal but that the sole responsibility rested upon the governor of Michigan. Moreover, he expressed sympathy with the methods of Gov. Murphy "in seeking peaceable settlements."

"I do not believe the national government has any authority to proceed in the matter in any respect whatsoever," Senator Borah said. "If the governor of Michigan is unable to maintain law, preserve peace, put down domestic violence, and he so informs the national government, or if his legislature so states, the national government may then step in and take charge of the situation, but never until that happens has the national government any power whatever to proceed in the premises."

Senator Prentiss Brown, Michigan Democrat, assumed that the Byrnes amendment was directed specifically at his state and expressed resentment, saying:

"I am a little surprised that a senator from South Carolina should seek to impose upon the people of the state of Michigan some advice about how they should run their internal affairs. It seems to me that South Carolina raised something of a rumpus about federal interference within the boundaries of that state sixty or seventy years ago. Further, I wish to say that, as a representative of my state and a citizen of Michigan, we do not need any advice from the United States senate as to how to run our internal affairs."

POLICE REVIVE CAMPAIGN; RAID 28 HANDBOOKS

Twenty-eight handbooks were raided by police yesterday, four of them in the loop. Forty-four men were arrested and booked for arraignment in police court today. Hundreds of patrons were chased out. The raids were led by Capt. Martin Mullen of the gambling squad, and joined in by district police.

COAL INDUSTRY TAKES SICK IN AGE OF POWER

Strength Sapped by Oil, Gas and Electricity.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Soft coal mining has had the unenviable distinction of being America's sickest industry ever since the world war. The economic factors which have brought the industry to its sad state are so numerous and complex that even an outlined discussion would fill a book. Stripped to the barest essentials the troubles are these: Too much coal, too many miners, and a steadily declining demand for the product.

America's coal reserves have been estimated at more than five trillion [5,000,000,000,000] tons. In more than a century we have mined only about 28 billion tons. Leaving aside lignite and semi-bituminous coal, for which there is little industrial use as long as better grades are available, we have some 1,500 billion tons of good soft coal still in the ground. Reserves in the principal eastern and midwestern producing states, in billions of tons, follow:

West Virginia	152	Kentucky	129
Alabama	67	Oklahoma	53
Ohio	93	Missouri	82
Indiana	53

Inexpensive to Open.

Furthermore, it is comparatively inexpensive to open a coal mine. Once opened, the principal expense—two-thirds of the cost at the minehead—is for labor. To make the situation worse, it is usually cheaper to operate a mine than to shut it down and reopen when the demand for coal increases, so that marginal producers tend to keep in the market.

Production of soft coal in 1935 was 359 million tons, less than the level of production from 1906 to 1910. Soft coal furnished 70 per cent of the nation's energy in 1913. In 1935 it furnished only 45 per cent.

Other Sources of Power.

Coal has lost part of its market to other sources of power, notably to oil, to natural gas, and to electricity generated by water power. But an equal loss has been suffered through the technical efficiency which saves fuel.

Mine operators, in the wage negotiations completed yesterday, asserted that they were already producing coal at a loss. They hope to regain that loss and the wage increases granted miners by regimenting production and fixing prices under the NRA provisions of the Guffey coal act.

Critics of this policy point out that many of the technical improvements resulting in decreased use of coal have been brought about and made profitable by high coal prices.

400,000 Miners End Strike with Signing of Wage Pact

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—A two year agreement providing an 85 million dollar increase in wages for some 400,000 miners was signed late today by the Appalachian conference representing operators and the United Mine Workers of America, headed by John L. Lewis, czar of the sitdown strike movement.

With the scratching of pen on paper a one day strike in the mines ended. Union officials said the men would go back to the pits tomorrow.

Another result of the pay raise will be a boost in the price of coal to the consumer in the next two years. Charles O'Neill, president of the United Eastern Coal Sales corporation and chairman of the operators' delegation at the conference, said the cost of bituminous coal at the mine would go up at least 25 cents a ton.

Lewis Voices Satisfaction.

Both Lewis and O'Neill engaged in mutual congratulations and photographs on the conference platform after the agreement was announced. Lewis pronounced the new contract "eminently satisfactory," while O'Neill said it was "conservative" and justified by the "economic trend of the times."

While the contract is binding in the Appalachian area embracing twelve coal mining states, especially the fields of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, it serves traditionally as the basis for the separate agreements negotiated in Illinois and Indiana. Its terms will affect an estimated 300,000 miners in the east and 100,000 in the middle west.

The most important provision of the agreement was an increase of 50 cents a day in wages. Since the regional differentials under the old contract will remain in effect, the new terms will provide a jump of the daily wage in the northern fields from $5.50 to $6 a day and in southern mines from $5.10 to $5.60.

Overtime Pay Granted.

The principle of paying extra for overtime also was inserted in the contract for the first time. Time and a half will be paid for miners working overtime, but the provision was expected to affect only a few miners. Miners seldom work past the whistle, it was said, but the provision was negotiated because the time and a half pay has been an important talking point of Lewis in his campaign to organize other industries into his Committee for Industrial Organization [C. I. O.].

The miners lost a fight to reduce the work week to 30 hours. The 35 hour week, or 7 hours a day and 5 days a week, which was in effect under the old contract, will remain.

At the same time the miners lost a battle for two weeks' vacation with pay and a guarantee of 200 days of work a year.

JUDGE AWARDS $9,850 AGAINST SIT STRIKERS

Company to Collect if the Contempt Is Renewed.

Anderson, Ind., April 2.—(AP)—Aladdin Industries, Inc., won a $9,850 judgment against striking employés at the Alexandria plant this afternoon, but the damages will not have to be paid unless the workers again violate a court order against occupancy of the factory during the strike.

Judge Charles E. Smith issued the judgment which found the strikers guilty of civil contempt after hearing evidence in the company's $100,000 damage suit against the strikers.

Closed Since March 2.

The Aladdin plant has been closed by a strike since March 2 and sitdown strikers occupied the factory for several weeks. The strikers, members of the United Automobile Workers of America, are demanding a new wage scale, collective bargaining, and the dismissal of a woman supervisor whom they accuse of being antagonistic to their organizations.

Judge Smith assessed $5,000 damages against the strikers collectively. He returned judgments of $1,000 each against Victor Reuther and Elmer Davis, organizers, and Robert Pugh, president of the local union of the UAWA.

Claims $100,000 Damage.

Sixty-one others were assessed amounts ranging from $25 to $100. The company claimed in its complaint it had been damaged to the extent of $100,000 by the sitdown strike and the loss of business.

FAMOUS MELLON FARM WILL CLOSE AT ROLLING ROCK

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 2.—[Special.]—Dissolution of the Mellon "barony" at Rolling Rock was announced today by Richard K. Mellon.

Angered by a strike of farm laborers, whose demands he termed "impossible," the 38 year old sportsman, banker, and nephew of Andrew Mellon, announced he is selling his equipment and abandoning his fox hunts and steeplechases.

The strikers—independent farmers for generations—told him to go ahead and abandon and see who cares. They charged that their farms had been overrun by horses chasing the fleeing fox, and that this had injured their crops. Mellon, however, declared:

1. That 240 farmers in the Ligonier valley have maneuvered him and his family into an impossible situation.
2. That as a result he is closing his Rolling Rock farms, producer of blue ribbon cattle and swine.
3. That he is abandoning the famous annual Rolling Rock fox hunt, second probably to none in the world.
4. That he is canceling the Rolling Rock steeplechases, which culminate in the annual contest for the gold cup.

His decision, Mellon emphasized, does not affect Rolling Rock Country club, where many of America's first families play golf.

STRIKERS BREAK INTO FACTORY IN MINNESOTA

the rioters approached the jail. Declaring that he did not want to see any lives lost, the governor immediately ordered release of the men arrested earlier in the day and also four others held on contempt warrants.

Tonight Gov. Benson, who at the time of the recent General Motors strike in Michigan declared his sympathy for sitdown strikers, was meeting with leaders of the union. There was no indication of the outcome of the conference.

Bargaining Agency Is Issue.

Workers in the Gas Machines plant received two wage increases in recent months and the main issue in the present controversy was said to be a demand of the Independent Union of All Workers for recognition as sole bargaining agency for plant employés, although the union membership represents only a minority of the employés.

Recently another union was organized and the Independent group feared the company might recognize it as the bargaining agency. The present strike was precipitated upon the discharge of four men for incompetency, the company said; for union agitation, organization leaders replied. The union is demanding that these men be restored to their jobs.

Only two locals of the Independent union exist, one here and another in Austin. Neither is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor or the Committee for Industrial Organization.

1ST STRIKE AGAINST FORD

Detroit, Mich., April 2.—(AP)—The first United Automobile Workers' strike affecting the Ford Motor company broke out today as union officials were negotiating disputes with the two other members of the motor car industry's "Big Three"—the General Motors and Chrysler corporations.

Workers estimated to number 600 to 1,400 began a sitdown strike in the Ford assembly plant at Kansas City, Mo., after they said the company laid off 350 employés without regard to seniority.

Ford officials at Detroit professed no knowledge of the strike. Henry Ford, who in an interview at Ways, Ga., recently advised workers not to join any union, could not be reached.

Explain Strike's Inception.

Messages from Kansas City, however, indicated the strike there had its inception as the result of a thwarted strategy in Ford's effort to keep out unionism. U. A. W. organizers, it was said, had regarded the Kansas City plant as the "weak spot" in Ford's anti-union defense and consequently prepared to strike there first in their unionization campaign. Aware of this plan, it was reported Ford officials had planned to shut down the Kansas City plant when news of this strategy leaked out and precipitated today's sitdown.

Homer Martin, U. A. W. president, declining to say whether the strike was called by the international union, said Ford's admonition "evidently fell on deaf ears," and added that "the eventuality will be an agreement with the Ford Motor company."

Within a few hours after General Motors demanded of union officers that they "see that its obligations are observed by the members," 3,000 sitdown strikers who occupied the huge Chevrolet Motor company plant, employing 14,649 workers, at Flint, Mich., evacuated the premises.

General Motors officials contended that this and nearly 30 other stoppages of work by union members—affecting 30,000 of their employés—since the March 12 agreement that ended a nationwide labor dispute violated a U. A. W. pledge in that pact.

Soon after General Motors officials issued their determined appeal for respite, high U. A. W. officers hurried to Flint to attempt a hasty settlement of what they termed a spontaneous strike.

But before they arrived the vote was taken and the men marched out of the big assembly plant which they had occupied since last night.

Knudsen Charges Violation.

Although Martin, who was in the party that went to Flint, termed the new strikes unauthorized and spontaneous, he charged they were caused by violations of the peace agreement by General Motors' plant managers and foremen.

William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, on the other hand, declared the agreement ending the nationwide January strikes had been violated by the new sitdowns.

John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, supporting the automobile strikes, and Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the Chrysler corporation, whose Detroit plants have been closed by a strike that started March 8, headed for Lansing, Mich., to resume their negotiations for a settlement of that dispute.

More than 60,000 Chrysler workers are idle as the union seeks recognition as the bargaining agency for all employés.

"UNION" CHIEF

Mike O'Connor, 18, named temporary head of C. I. O. telegraph messengers' union in walkout yesterday.

Fifty Western Union messenger boys signed up last night with the United Electrical and Radio Workers of America and made plans to promote a strike of all messengers in the city this morning. The union is an affiliate of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization. A national representative, John M. Smith, addressed the boys at 222 West Monroe street. Michael O'Connor, 18 years old, is head of the new local.

At the same time 200 members of the Association of Western Union Messenger Boys, a company organization, were meeting at 427 South La Salle street. They said they had no quarrel with the company and that pay increases granted after the walkout of March 4 were satisfactory.

The strike idea bobbed up again yesterday when a few boys employed on loop offices walked out.

END STRIKE TYING UP SERVICE AT BIG HOTEL IN DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., April 2.—[Special.]—A strike of employés at the Book Cadillac hotel, one of the largest downtown hostelries, ended this afternoon when about 350 workers voted to return to their jobs pending settlement of differences.

Their walkout yesterday suspended service to hundreds of guests in the 27 story building and caused 300 guests to check out. The management announced, however, that 622 remained in addition to 125 permanent guests.

The strike started as a sitdown, but the employés left peaceably when 400 policemen massed at the hotel under orders of Mayor Frank Couzens to clear the place of strikers, "by force, if necessary."

WPA WORKERS WALK OUT, FIGHT NONSTRIKERS

San Francisco, Cal., April 2.—(AP)—Fighting marked the extension today of bay district WPA workers' walkout against what they termed "starvation" wages and stopped issuance of paychecks here to strikers and nonstrikers alike.

Pickets and nonstrikers fought with shovels, picks and bare fists in East Oakland. Two men were injured. Police broke up picket lines on several San Francisco projects and strike leaders protested bluecoat activity to Mayor Angelo J. Rossi and Police Chief William J. Quinn.

Strikers occupied WPA administrative offices in San Francisco and Oakland but were ejected from the latter by policemen.

DEMAND SIT STRIKERS LEAVE HERSHEY PLANT BEFORE NEGOTIATIONS

Hershey, Pa., April 2.—(AP)—The Hershey Chocolate corporation demanded late today that striking workers vacate its plant before it would negotiate with union representatives for settlement of a sudden "sit-on-the-roof" strike at its factory.

A five hour conference of officials of the company, representatives of the United Chocolate Workers union, and two state mediators broke up late today without an agreement being reached to end the dispute which closed the plant, employing 3,000 workers.

William R. Murrie, president of the company, said he notified the union representatives the strikers must leave the plant before the company would negotiate for a settlement. John Loy, Hershey organizer for the union, affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization, said the strikers will continue to occupy the factory until their demands are met.

A number of the strikers spent the day on the roof of the plant, shouting greetings to pickets below. At nightfall, however, the men went inside the building and the women were sent home.

Law Passed in Vermont to Bar Sitdown Strikes

RADIO BLOCKADE SEALS DOOM OF FLEEING ROBBER

North Suburbs Co-operate to Get Their Man.

Alfred Maurice Hopland, a Minnesota ex-convict armed with a stolen pistol and driving a stolen car, attempted to break into a Kenosha filling station early yesterday. When a policeman approached he leaped into the car and sped out of town in safety.

But before he passed the south city limits of Kenosha, headed for Waukegan, the police radio of the Wisconsin city snapped out a warning. City and county stations in Waukegan picked it up and rebroadcast it.

Misses Death by Inches.

In a few minutes twenty-five squad cars, manned by state, county, city, and village officers, were speeding to pre-assigned stations. Three times Hopland swerved and ducked as police bullets smashed into his car, missing him by inches. When he finally wrecked the car in Lake county, every road by which he might have escaped was blocked. The radio blockade, answer of the law to the modern criminal, had passed its first Lake county test successfully.

South out of Kenosha two squad cars roared to the state line, where they took posts to prevent the fugitive doubling back north on Sheridan or Green Bay road. At Zion Hopland, driving at 70 miles an hour, passed the first of his pursuers, Lieut. Moody Simpson of the Zion police. Simpson chased him toward Waukegan, firing seven shots at him.

Runs Gantlet of Gunfire.

Waukegan's three squads, equipped with two way radio, were alert. Hopland passed the first of them, heading out to meet him, in Sheridan road. They reported his approach to headquarters. He sped on south in Sheridan road, a half block east of the Waukegan station, with Simpson and the Waukegan car trailing.

South of the Waukegan business district, at Sheridan road and Genesee street, a second Waukegan squad greeted him with gunfire. He spun his car about and headed north. At Washington and Genesee streets Policeman John Vleck, on foot, blazed away at him again. He whirled west in Washington street. Three blocks west a Lake county highway police car, driving south in West street, saw him dash past and took up the chase.

It was well that Hopland changed his line of flight from south to west, for southward a dozen hornets' nests awaited him. A Waukegan squad took its station to the southwest of that city. North Chicago posted two squads on Sheridan road. Lake Bluff had one car out, Lake Forest three, barring Sheridan and Green Bay roads and highways leading west from them.

Other Squads Wait.

Highland Park's two cars went south to the Cook county line, where they guarded Sheridan and Green Bay roads. West of them on the county line three Cook county highway squads were waiting on Skokie, Waukegan, and Milwaukee roads. Three Illinois highway police squads, and the Libertyville and Mundelein cars enforced the blockade west of the lake shore, in Lake county.

Hopland left Waukegan in Washington street, failed to lose his pursuers in the muddy lanes of a subdivision, went north to Grand avenue and west through Gurnee. By this time he had outdistanced his immediate pursuers, but other squads waited ahead of him.

At Wedges Corner, ten miles west of Waukegan, he attempted to swerve north on Route 45, toward the safer roads of Wisconsin. But his car skidded and smashed into a door of the tavern of Roy Bracher, former Lake county treasurer. As Bracher and his sons ran out to see what had happened, Hopland backed away and fled on west.

He passed through Lake Villa and from that moment his fate was sealed. Grand avenue ends at its intersection with Route 59 west of Lake Villa. Behind him Lieut. Simpson and two Lake county highway patrolmen, Robert Webb and Edward Zersen, were closing in. Coming up from the south, where it had been warned that the fugitive was heading west, another county car blocked Route 59 north of Fox Lake. A third county highway squad waited at Antioch.

Wrecks Car in Skid.

Hopland wrecked his car in a skid as he turned from Grand avenue into Route 59. He fled on foot into the Otto Lehmann estate nearby, was captured as he attempted to break into a garage there and steal another automobile.

At the Lake county jail Hopland told Chief Deputy Sherif Thomas Kennedy, who was the leader in drafting plans for the radio blockade, that he was released from the St. Cloud, Minn., reformatory last June after serving three years for burglary.

The automobile he was driving he stole in Minneapolis. In it he had several hundred dollars' worth of garage and engineering tools and instruments which he also stole in that city, and a typewriter which he said he took from a parked automobile, along with the pistol he was carrying, in Racine, Wis.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan of the Circuit court yesterday sentenced Edward Le Mar, an interior decorator, to jail for six months when his wife, Sarah, 3515 Dayton street [Florence avenue], said he owed $278 for support of their daughter, Dolores, 7 years old. The wife was represented by Attorney Norman Becker. When Le Mar suggested there might be some way for him to make restitution, Judge Finnegan told him that the jail prisoners would appreciate the fresh new touch of a skilled decorator in the somber prison surroundings.

CRASH ON SOUTH SIDE "L" IS LAID TO MAN FAILURE

Man failure was blamed yesterday by rapid transit lines officials for the crash Thursday night of an Englewood express and a Howard street express which injured 15 passengers and shook up more than 100 others. The accident occurred at 18th street and Wabash avenue. Preliminary investigation by both the company and the Illinois commerce commission indicated that the tracks and the braking equipment of both the elevated trains were in good condition. According to the company no passenger was seriously hurt. Only one, Mrs. Ethel Kritzberg, 28 years old, 4738 North Lawndale avenue, still remains in the hospital.

City Must Pay High School Boy $5,000 for 3 Toes

For the loss of three toes incurred when he slipped on the ice and fell under a street car, Robert Strappelli, 15 years old, 6120 School street, won $5,000 from the city yesterday in a sealed verdict returned by a jury and opened by Judge John T. Cummings of Kewanee, sitting in the Circuit court. The Chicago Surface lines was dismissed as a defendant. Strappelli is a pupil at the Lane Technical High school.

KILLS WIFE, SELF; BLAMES LOSS OF HIS $17,500 JOB

Fear of Poverty Is Told in La Grange Notes.

A will and farewell letters left by Darwin Hanauer, 52 years old, former wealthy mechanical engineer, disclosed last night that the loss of his $17,500 a year job and fear of poverty caused him to kill himself and his wife in La Grange yesterday morning.

Hanauer, after 16 months of brooding, shot his wife, Frances, 50 years old, with a small automatic pistol, as she made the beds on the second floor of their well furnished eight room home at 336 South 7th avenue in the suburb. Then going to a room across the hall, Hanauer shot himself to death.

Blames Former Employer.

On a table near Hanauer's body were the will and four letters. One blamed Fred A. Nachmann, president of the Nachman Spring-Filled corporation, 2030 South Kolmar avenue, where Hanauer had been plant superintendent from 1929 until November, 1935, and Charles R. Simmons, another official of the company, for the loss of his job.

Nachman said Hanauer was dismissed for inefficiency. The company manufactures bed springs.

The Hanauers had no children. The will directed the home be sold to satisfy the mortgage and the remainder be used to settle bills. Hanauer asked that his wife's body be cremated and the ashes sent to a sister, Mrs. Marie Fickenger, in Astoria, N. Y. He offered his own body to the University of Chicago science department.

Death Pact Indicated.

One part of the will indicated a death pact. It read:

"Things went from bad to worse and I have therefore decided with Frances that although we have some equity in our property it is best to say good-by."

The inquest will be held in La Grange this morning.

HELD TO JURY FOR CAR THEFT.

Frederick Mensinges, 31 years old, 1903 Warren boulevard, was held to the grand jury in bond of $2,500 yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell on a charge of stealing a car belonging to Allan Friedman, 1931 West Madison street, his former employer.

REALTY DEALER ADMITS $3,000 RECEIVER FRAUD

Bills and Vouchers Faked by Morris M. Wilcox.

Morris M. Wilcox, a real estate man, was arrested yesterday after he confessed drawing spurious vouchers for $3,000 on the accounts of a building for which he was formerly the receiver. Judge Grover C. Niemeyer of the Superior court, who ordered Wilcox's arrest, directed the state's attorney's office to investigate two other cases in which Wilcox acted as receiver.

Morris M. Wilcox.

Wilcox, who is 45 years old, said he prepared fraudulent vouchers to support his accountings to the court on an 18 apartment building at 8104 Vernon avenue, for which he was appointed receiver in 1933. He lives at 2328 Lincolnwood drive, Evanston.

In the last two years, Wilcox has presented six reports to the court. On Feb. 25, he was removed as receiver by Judge Niemeyer for alleged irregularities in his accounts. On Wednesday he was summoned to court to explain an item of $1,500 for payment of back taxes.

Wilcox's report stated that the payment was made a year ago, but an examination of the records of the county treasurer's office showed it was made only a few hours before he appeared in court Wednesday.

False Bills on True Letterheads.

Yesterday witnesses testified before Judge Niemeyer that they had not presented bills for $3,000 which appeared on Wilcox's report as having been paid by him out of the building account.

Questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright, Wilcox admitted drawing the bills on billheads which he had somehow obtained and then writing vouchers to pay these false claims.

Wilcox said he had retained an attorney and he asked for a continuance until Monday morning. He was freed in $3,500 bail.

TARPEY ON STAND ALL DAY IN TRIAL FOR FAKE CLAIMS

Attorney Leo M. Tarpey, on trial with two other defendants on charges of conspiracy to present fake accident claims, spent the whole day on the witness stand yesterday under the state's cross-examination in the Criminal court of Judge George Fred Rush. Tarpey, questioned by Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown, insisted that he did not know of the fraudulent activities of George L. West, confessed ambulance chaser. At the conclusion of his testimony court was adjourned until Monday.

JUDGE CALLS FOR EARLY ACTION ON OLD DIVORCE BILL

Suit on File Eight Years; Separation in 1909.

Nina and Chris Ebbole were married in 1900, separated in 1909, and in 1929 Mrs. Ebbole filed suit for divorce, charging misconduct. Yesterday she appeared in the Superior court, seeking to have Ebbole committed to the county jail for being $3,457 in arrears on a $12 a week alimony order. During the nine years they lived together the Ebboles had five children.

Mrs. Ebbole's bill charges that her husband set up a second domestic establishment in 1909 with Dora Lightheart, by whom he has two grown children. In 1932 Ebbole served two months in jail for alimony arrearage.

Judge Donald S. McKinlay agreed with Ebbole's attorney, Benjamin H. Vanderveld, that no emergency appeared to exist, since the divorce bill has been pending for eight years and the couple separated for twenty-eight years. He ordered a final hearing on the bill within two weeks. Mrs. Ebbole lives at 1810 South Ridgeway avenue.

Wins $10 a Week Award.

Mrs. Gerdes Whitney was granted $10 a week temporary alimony yesterday by Judge McKinlay from Eugene Whitney, head of the A. Acme Landscape company, 3315 North Oakley avenue. Mrs. Whitney is seeking a divorce and custody of Arlene, 5 years old.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan of the Circuit court granted Mrs. Hazel Montgomery, 29 years old, 7355 Vincennes avenue, a divorce from Frank, 30 years old, 7932 Normal avenue, a WPA clerk, on grounds of cruelty. Mrs. Montgomery was awarded $15 a week and custody of their three children—Frances, 5 years old; Sally, 3, and Gilbert, 2. Mrs. Montgomery's twin sister, Mrs. Mabel Kaatz, 6325 Kenwood avenue, testified Montgomery beat his wife.

Settlement Agreed On.

Judge John C. Lewe of the Superior court granted Mrs. Alice Nash a divorce from Attorney John A. Nash on grounds of deserting her a year ago. Under the terms of a settlement, arranged by her counsel, Frank Teed, Nash agreed to pay a year's rent on an apartment at 999 Lake Shore drive and turn over a block of stock to his wife, whom he married in Philadelphia in 1912.

Mrs. Hedwig Plath, 629 Deming place, appeared in the Superior court seeking an increase in the $10 a week support order for her daughter, Ruth, 10 years old. Her former husband, John Plath, who has since remarried, had a counter claim for custody of the child. Judge Lewe, however, dismissed both petitions.

North Chicago Boy, 12, Loses Eye Playing Indian

Playing Indian yesterday, George Burkich, 12 years old, 1626 Sheridan road, North Chicago, suffered the loss of his right eye when he was accidentally struck by a shot from the airgun of Henry Van Laeke Jr., 12, of 1424 Hervey avenue in the suburb.

Lie Detector Test of Young Suspect Held Inconclusive

Neil Lincoln, 21 years old, 4352 Kenmore avenue, under indictment on a charge of assault to commit murder and another charge of robbery, voluntarily submitted to a lie detector test at the Northwestern university crime detective laboratory yesterday in an effort to clear himself of the charges. Dr. Leonarde Keeler, director of the laboratory, said after the test that it was inconclusive. Lincoln denies the crimes, declaring that he was in Ottawa, Ill., with friends when the robbery and assault to murder were committed in Niles Center.

M'KINLAY GIVES SELF UP; FREED ON $5,000 BOND

Avers Innocence in Zintak Jury Scandal.

Robert W. McKinlay, a federal court receiver, surrendered yesterday in the Criminal court after $5,000 bond had been posted for him on two indictments charging bribery and conspiracy, returned earlier in the day, in the Zintak jury scandal.

The indictments, returned before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court, were voted by the retiring March grand jury. They resulted from the testimony of Gustave Anderson, 58 years old, 330 West 58th street, a juror in the first embezzlement trial of Frank V. Zintak, ousted clerk of the Superior court. Anderson, who is being held on a charge of contempt of court, testified that McKinlay paid him $25 and promised him a city job if he would hold out for a not guilty verdict.

Brother Posts Bond.

McKinlay's brother John, a former State street merchant, appeared before Judge McKinley at 3 p. m. with a certified check for $5,000 to cover the $2,500 bonds fixed for each of the two charges. Soon afterward Robert McKinlay walked into the courtroom with his attorney, George Guenther.

After his release had been arranged McKinlay issued a statement declaring he was innocent and anxious to prove in court that the charges were groundless.

McKinlay explained that he was in Biloxi, Miss., on a vacation on March 25 when his son, Attorney Robert Todd McKinlay, telephoned to tell him of Anderson's charges made that day before three judges of the Criminal court sitting en banc at a contempt of court hearing.

Explains Delay in Appearance.

On his attorney's advice, McKinlay said, he took a train for Chicago at 8:30 o'clock the next morning. At his son's suggestion, he added, he got off the train in Kankakee to evade newspaper men and came to Chicago by automobile. His attorney advised him, he said, not to appear in court until a formal charge was made.

"If I had followed my own inclinations," McKinlay declared, "I would have walked into court Monday morning and demanded a showdown. I never ran away from anything in my life."

Attorney Guenther said he was anxious to try the case as speedily as possible and would ask for a delay no longer than will be necessary to prepare his case.

The jury in the first Zintak trial was discharged after a forty-one hour deadlock. Zintak was acquitted at his second trial.

Sentenced to a Day in Jail for Jury Summons Disposal

Judge Walter J. La Buy of the Circuit court sentenced George H. Bailey, 54 years old, 5489 Harper avenue, to one day in jail yesterday for turning over his jury summons to a man he met in a tavern. Bailiffs still were seeking the man, identified as Fred Lilly, a barber, who served in Bailey's stead for two days.

FIND STRUT FROM MISSING "AIR" DUCHESS' PLANE

YARMOUTH, England, April 2.—(AP)—An airplane strut, washed up on the shore today, was identified as being from the plane of the duchess of Bedford, missing since March 22.

Aviation experts declared the meager bit of evidence apparently confirmed their theory the "flying duchess" was carried off her course by winds and met disaster in the sea.

The duchess, who was 71, disappeared as she was flying alone in the vicinity of Woburn, seat of the duke of Bedford, about 40 miles northwest of London.

Girl Triplets Are Born to the Kubovys of Berwyn

Girl triplets were born yesterday to Mrs. Laddie Kubovy, 26 years old, of 2123 Scoville avenue, Berwyn, at Wesley Memorial hospital, 2449 Dearborn street. They weighed 4 pounds 7 ounces, 5 pounds 2 ounces, and 3 pounds 9 ounces. When queried as to their names the father replied: "Names? I haven't thought of names. We expected twins . . . but not three of them!" The Kubovys have another child, a son, 2½ years old.

SPANISH REBELS HURL CRACK ARMY AGAINST BILBAO

All Day Battle Rages; Loyalist Lines Hold.

BILBAO, Spain, April 2.—(AP)—The Fascist rebel high command today hurled picked troops against the Spanish government's defense lines in the region of Ochandiano in an unsuccessful all day effort to break the resistance of the Basque régime, loyal ally of the Madrid-Valencia government.

Ochandiano is twenty-five miles southeast of Bilbao, the Basque capital and apparent objective of the furious offensive launched by the insurgents' northern army yesterday.

[Dispatches from the rebel front said the attack had reached a point only twenty miles from Bilbao.]

Rebels Using Best Troops.

Tonight the Basque president, Juan Antonio Aguirre, received reports that the loyalist lines had held in the face of terrific artillery pounding, repeated infantry and tank assaults, and attack by airplanes dropping bombs and machine gunning the Basque trenches.

Gen. Francisco Franco, insurgent commander, appeared to be devoting his best equipment and the flower of his armies to this attempt to swing the tide of the civil war back to the insurgent side. Government commanders insisted he would be unable to break through.

Promptly at dawn the insurgents launched their assault on the Basque trenches. Withering machine gun fire met the masses of rebel infantry as they approached the Basque positions. Both attackers and defenders used hand grenades freely. Repulsed in charge after charge, the insurgents persisted in their assaults throughout the day.

Rebels Trapped on Mountain.

At nightfall, however, no important changes were reported in the positions of the two armies.

A rebel cavalry detachment which was surrounded on Gorbea mountain Thursday night was cut to pieces today. Thirty of the cavalrymen were killed and three captured.

The rebel attack today was centered around the town of Aramayona. A rebel officer who had been in charge of fortifying that district for the Basques was revealed to be a rebel spy.

With the information received from him the insurgents were able to direct their attacks at vital, vulnerable points, but the government forces, quickly shifting their artillery placements, were reported to be holding their own.

The rebel cruiser Espana bombarded the Bay of Biscay coast between Castro and Santona today.

Delayed and official figures of Wednesday's rebel air raid on Durango listed 800 casualties, including 180 dead.

Smash Rebels in Cordoba.

MADRID, April 2.—(AP)—Continued smashing government successes along a wide and strategically important front in Cordoba province were described tonight in dispatches from the southern battlefield.

Three vital points along the front north and northwest of Cordoba City fell before the slashing government drive. They were Ovejo, 16 miles north of Cordoba; Villaharta, 10 miles west of Ovejo, and heights dominating the valuable coal mining region of Penarroya, about 25 miles northwest of Villaharta.

The dispatches said that a government advance of five miles southwest from Ovejo would cut the main highway running northwest from Cordoba and isolate that city, provincial capital and main supply base of the southern insurgent army from the bulk of its forces in the field.

Rebel artillery batteries late today subjected Madrid to one of the most severe shellings in weeks.

Seventy persons were killed and many more wounded at Jaen during what government sources described as a "terrific bombing" by rebel planes last night.

10,000 ITALIAN PILOTS IN ROME WILL HONOR UNKNOWN HERO TODAY

King Victor Emmanuel will present banners to various air squadrons. Premier Mussolini will attend. By Jan. 1, 1941, Italy will have 93 air squadrons, with total personnel stepped up to 7,670 pilot-officers, and 12,647 noncommissioned pilots.

QUALITY DETECTIVES

Field Manufacturing No. 5

By CALEB

WE had been making in our own mills for some seasons a blanket fifty per cent wool and fifty per cent cotton. The blanket had sold well from the time it was first introduced. It represented excellent value. It was considered above reproach by our customers. For it received compliments but never complaints.

With the advent of our Fieldcrest branding program that blanket was submitted to every test modern science has devised to determine scientifically just how good a blanket it was.

The Better Fabrics Testing Bureau of the National Retail Dry Goods Association in New York received this testing assignment. Finally the laboratory pointed out that in spite of its excellent properties and its great popularity, there was one direction in which it could be improved. It shrank beyond the limit which the most exacting standards of manufacture would tolerate!

It became the problem of our Quality Control Department at Spray, North Carolina, and the superintendent of the blanket mill to find a way to overcome this shrinkage while retaining the original, very popular properties—and the solution must not increase the price!

Now making a blanket is not exactly a mysterious process, but it is a process full of intricate and sensitive details. The Quality Control Department set about some sheer detective work.

With infinite patience, detailed processes were analyzed. Every possible clue was pursued through our mills and the following facts were gradually dug out. Forty-seven per cent of the shrinkage we wished to eliminate could be overcome by stretching the fibers a little less in one operation. Ten per cent could be overcome by twisting the yarn a little less in another operation. Forty-three per cent could be overcome by slightly changing the type of wool we used.

The entire one hundred per cent of excess shrinkage could be eliminated by changing the specifications of wool and two processes of manufacture!

This was done. A splendid value was made better and that's how one item won its right to the Fieldcrest name. It is a game of high purpose to make every Fieldcrest item, regardless of class or price, meet rigorously high standards.

SUDDEN STRIKE HITS CORONATION STAND BUILDING

After 4 Men Rest All Go Back to Work.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 2.—Despite a lightning like strike yesterday, all hands were back at work today on the stands being built along the route of the procession which will feature the crowning of King George VI. of England on May 12.

Five hundred men building stands along The Mall, walked out yesterday because four of them were fired by a foreman. He said they were loafing. They said they were resting. The others backed them up and a one hour strike won reinstatement for the four men with an apology from the foreman.

Most Stands Nearly Built.

The whole affair was so rapid that the story leaked out only today. The Mall, like all other parts of the route lying through parks, is lined with raw pine stands, most of them nearly finished.

Nearly every bit of the six mile procession route bears marks of preparation. Seating stands, flagpoles, and signs offering "choice seats" blaze the trail the king and queen will follow to and from Westminster abbey on coronation day.

There is evidence, too, that some householders will be disappointed in their hope of seeing the spectacle from windows. Swank Park lane has been one of the most sought after points along the route for apartments and rooms. One flat was rented there for $6,500 a week.

But the procession will go through Hyde park along the "east carriageway" instead of Park lane, which parallels it just outside.

View to Be Shut Off.

In Parliament square, beside Westminster abbey, where the coronation will take place, stenographers and office boys of certain buildings believed that for once they were to get a break. The windows of their offices provided front row seats.

The government office of works announced recently, however, that stands will be built in front of these buildings. Seats were offered at special prices of from $7.50 to $10.

WALLY TO STAY AT CHATEAU TWO MONTHS, REPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 2. — Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson intends to stay at the Château de Cande at Monts, France, until the end of next month at least and will make no definite plans as to the immediate future until then, according to a dispatch in the Daily Mail from a special correspondent at Tours, France. During Easter, the correspondent said, there was a small house party at the château, where Mrs. Simpson, fiancée of the duke of Windsor, the former King Edward VIII. of England, has been since March 9. Mrs. Simpson will entertain again from time to time in the course of coming weeks, he said.

Reverses Pursuit

MRS. NAN BRILL.
[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 2.—(AP)—It was "I've chased you—now you chase me" today with Mrs. Nan Pierson Brooks Macy Brill of New York and her young millionaire husband, William Hunsaker Brill, with whom she began a hide and seek honeymoon five days ago.

She found him and he vowed he loved her and said he was just getting in his auto to rejoin her. Then his mother appeared—and he rushed back to his penthouse apartment.

Meanwhile, 75 miles away, Attorney Albert Kidder Jr., filed a suit for annulment at Ventura for Brill. It charged fraud, that Brill was wed when under the influence of intoxicants.

It was an exciting scene at the garage near Brill's penthouse. After detectives located him with his mother, the bride went there today.

"I was just packing up to rejoin you at the hotel," said Brill.

Soon the bride dashed out with the keys to the car. She jumped in and drove away. Later she telephoned to him:

"I don't want your old car, I can buy dozens of them," she cried. "I don't want your mother either, I can buy dozens of them, too.

"What are you going to do if we have twins?"

BARE JAP PLOT TO WAGE POISON WAR ON RUSSIA

Mysterious "Mr. H." of Spy Trial Is Unmasked.

MOSCOW, April 2.—(AP)—A Japanese official described by defendants in Moscow's January treason trial as an agent plotting the wrecking of the soviet railway system, left Moscow tonight, and with his departure sensational portions of the trial testimony became public.

He is S. Hiroshima, authority on transportation, who has been attached to the Japanese embassy here for the last five years. He was identified as the mysterious "Mr. H." of the treason trial.

Of the thirteen Russians executed as a result of that trial, at least three went to their deaths because they confessed to participation in wrecking activities inspired by Hiroshima.

During the trial, it was revealed tonight, "Mr. H." was described by defendants as a sinister plotter who suggested contaminating soviet army troop trains, supply depots, and hospitals with disease germs in event of a Russo-Japanese war.

Hiroshima, about 37 years old, a slight, smiling, mild spoken man, has been transferred to the Japanese legation at Warsaw. He left in company with Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese ambassador to the soviet union, who is going for a vacation in Berlin, Paris, and London. Officials expressed belief that an obstacle to better soviet-Japanese relations had been removed.

Because of his diplomatic status the soviet government took no action against Hiroshima.

Testimony Is Revealed.

The most incriminating testimony concerning Hiroshima was that of I. Alexandrovitch Kniazev, former chief of the Southern Urals railway, who died for offenses he confessed.

Kniazev was found guilty of proceeding, on orders given him by J. A. Livschitz, former vice commissar of railways, who also was executed, to "carry out the commission given him by Mr. H. to organize during wartime the blowing up of railway structures, the burning of military stores and army provision bases, the wrecking of troop trains and the deliberate infection of trains, provision supply depots and sanitary centers of the Red army with highly virulent bacilli."

JAPANESE CABINET PLANS NEW PARTY TO FIGHT IN ELECTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 2.—Unable to obtain the support of a single existing political party, Premier General Senjuro Hayashi's government today placed the crisis facing Japan squarely before the people. The government launched a nation-wide campaign by distributing pamphlets to 17,000,000 voters.

It seeks to win public support in the general elections to be held on April 30 by explaining in the pamphlets the reasons which led it to ask Emperor Hirohito to dissolve the lower house of the national diet.

Premier Hayashi is extremely embarrassed by the fact that none of the parties is willing to support him. He plans to go on the stump himself to back independent candidates and urge the organization of a new party.

ATTACKS PUBLIC DEFENDER LAW TO ESCAPE CHAIR

An attack was made on the legality of the public defender's office yesterday by Attorney William Scott Stewart before Judge John J. Lupe in the Criminal court in a petition to set aside the death sentence imposed on Joseph Schuster, paroled convict, for the murder of Policeman Arthur Sullivan.

Schuster was sentenced to die in the electric chair April 16 by Judge Lupe on March 8 on a plea of guilty to the murder charge. The paroled convict confessed shooting Policeman Sullivan to death when the latter arrested him for robbery on the elevated platform at the Kedzie avenue station of the Douglas park branch on Jan. 14.

Two Affidavits Filed.

Attorney Stewart filed with his petition for a new trial two affidavits, one by Schuster and the other by his sister, Mrs. Ruth Besserer, 2537 South Sawyer avenue. Mrs. Besserer, in her affidavit, declared that an assistant to Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach informed her that her brother would not be given the death penalty if he pleaded guilty to the murder.

The affidavit filed in behalf of Schuster stated that the paroled convict pleaded guilty at the suggestion of his sister, who informed him of the assistant public defender's statement. The defendant was represented in court by the public defender's office.

Attorney Stewart, in his petition, argued that the state statute creating the office is unconstitutional because it is special legislation, serving a special class only. He also contends that it is invalid because it is discriminatory in that it affects only defendants arraigned in the Criminal court in Cook county.

Hearing Set for Today.

Attorney Stewart asserts that because the office is unconstitutional it had no right to advise or appear in behalf of the defendant.

Judge Lupe ordered a hearing on the petition for this morning.

Following the filing of the petition Attorney Bachrach revealed the record of the work done by his office since it was created Oct. 1, 1930. According to the public defender, his office handled a total of 11,955 cases during that time. Of that number, 14 defendants were electrocuted for murder while three others are under sentence of death. Schuster is one of the three.

Mr. Bachrach said that the office has obtained acquittals in 42 per cent of trials before the court and not guilty verdicts in 36 per cent of trials before juries. He has four assistants.

Gen. Merrill to Be Assigned to a Command in Capital

Brig. Gen. Dana True Merrill, commandant at Fort Sheridan for the last two years, received unofficial notice yesterday that he is to be transferred, probably June 15, to Washington, D. C., where he will be in command of the Washington provisional brigade. Gen. Merrill received his information from Brig. Gen. P. D. Roberts, now commander of the brigade, who is retiring in June.

STORY IN PICTURES

Firemen at Schenectady, N. Y., strive in vain to revive James Mann, 4, after he and two sisters had drowned in a cemetery pond. Theresa, 3, went down as ice broke; James plunged in after her, and Charlotte, 5, jumped in to save the other two.

Collapsed on a tree stump, James Mann Sr. grieves for his three children who lost their lives when pond ice gave way. The grief stricken mother was taken to a hospital for care.

6 PLAN IN 1917 TO MEET IN 1937; 5 OF THEM FAIL

Fort Worth, Tex., April 2.—(AP)—Six young lieutenants, returning from the Mexican border, dined together here in 1917 and promised to return for a reunion twenty years later.

Only M. Bellmard, Kaw Indian from Ponca City, Okla., kept the rendezvous.

Instead of his comrades, he found letters from relatives giving this information:

Billy Mathany, Cleveland, was paralyzed five years ago.

Leo Bellius and T. J. Templeton of Muskogee, Okla., had died.

Another is a federal prisoner at Leavenworth, Kas.

Ben Lock was killed in France in 1918.

CITY CONQUERS SQUANDERBUND AS U. S. WATCHES

[This is the fourth of a series of articles on Chicago's financial situation.]

BY PARKE BROWN.

Before the six years' battle for Chicago's financial recovery was won the city passed through stormy, trying times that attracted the attention of the nation to the struggle. It knew either the city or the squanderbund must crash.

The review of the last twenty-two years shows they were marked by many disturbances and in a few instances by open, public disorder that approached actual rioting. City officials worked day and night, tore up political precedents concerning jobs and other spoils and still were bedeviled by employés, jobseekers, creditors, and taxpayers alike.

Special meetings of the city council were followed by special sessions of the state legislature and these in turn were followed by frantic pilgrimages to Washington that, while they brought some aid, never produced the full amount of relief sought.

Children of Whoopee Era.

All these things were chiefly the direct result of the shameless squandering of public money in the whoopee era that began twenty-two years ago.

An important year in tax matters was 1927. The Illinois statutes require that as a basis for the distribution of the tax burden there shall be a revaluation of all real estate in each county every four years. And 1927 was revaluation year.

The first of the resulting tax bills had just become known to property owners when Chairman Malone of the state tax commission—who four years later ran for governor on his record — leaped into a prominence never approached by any predecessor in the office. Protests of inequalities were widespread and vociferous. The Dauley legislative commission was presenting its expose of tax sins.

Malone's First Order.

Malone issued his first reassessment order on May 7, 1928. Attorney General Carlstrom ruled that Malone had no power to issue it. Gov. Small called a special session of the legislature which granted Malone the power he sought, and a second and effective order was issued on July 10. Harry S. Cutmore was given charge of the revaluation. From that point there was war with the tax boards as they existed at that time on one side and Cutmore and Malone on the other.

The property owners and the public took more and more part in tax affairs as the months passed. A rescue committee headed by Silas H. Strawn went into action in 1929. Early in 1930, with Philip R. Clarke at the head of the drive, that committee performed the biggest single piece of financial salvation work performed during the six years' tax depression.

The banks had helped materially in each of the successive crises up to that time, but now a direct appeal to all men of means was issued. Between Feb. 23 and March 6, 1930, the Clarke committee obtained $74,000,000 in tax warant subscriptions. The squanderbund bill was being paid.

The Strawn Program.

The same year saw the special session of the legislature which passed the Strawn program of financial reorganization for the local governments of Cook county. That program included provision for an unprecedented bond issue of $7,000,000 to pull the city's corporate fund out of the hole.

By the time the Strawn committee had worked out what was considered the best possible program to remedy the situation, the tax strikes, which were to continue for about two years under the leadership of such organizations as the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, had gained some headway. The flood of lawsuits started. As early as the spring of 1930 some 3,000 taxpayers united in demanding an injunction to stop the collection of the 1928 tax bills, that first which had just been delivered. Later there were times when as much as $50,000,000 in tax money was tied up by protests. To a large extent this was a demonstration against plundering.

At this time demands for the abolition of the unsatisfactory and ineffectual five man board of assessors and three man board of review began to take form, growing as the existing boards continued to quarrel with Reassessor Cutmore. Cutmore eventually was fired on June 20, 1930, on charges of insubordination. Mayor Cermak led the demand for the replacement of the old boards with a single assessor and a board of appeals.

There followed the appointment of J. L. Jacobs as county assessor. His telephone directory list of personal property assessments was one of the high spots in the early months of the grinding of the new machinery, affording grounds for sympathy with tax protestants who still continued their activity. Then came horizontal slashes in assessments, one 15 per cent cut and then another, with the result that actual tax collections continued in turmoil.

Skarda Act Is Passed.

In 1933 the legislature passed the Skarda act providing for the appointment of the city treasurer as receiver for properties delinquent in the payment of their taxes. But even the employment of this drastic measure failed to bring collections up close to normal.

During these troubled times the city hall was battling day and night to make both ends meet in its corporate revenues and expenditures. It was spared strikes of its employés, or even such mass street demonstrations as were staged by the school teachers, but it went ahead retrenching, first forcing workers to take extra vacations without pay and later actually cutting their compensation a fixed number of days a year.

With the squanderbund driven out of office by the election of April 7, 1931, Mayor Cermak immediately began by slashing expenditures to the bone. Among other things he immediately discharged 2,000 employés pronounced unnecessary.

Slash Too Deep.

Present opinion is that in some ways Cermak slashed too deeply. It is certain that his reductions in the pay of judges and employés of the Municipal court were ineffective ultimately. The original salaries were restored by later court orders. The burden of the back salaries imposed on the Kelly administration in 1935 amounted to $738,000 and the restoration of the court employés to a full pay-basis cost a total of $1,030,000.

The Cermak administration cut so deeply into repairs and maintenance that this saving also has had to be made up in later years. In 1935 the Kelly administration paid back to employés one-half of the amounts cut from their salaries in 1931 by Cermak. That restoration meant $1,498,634 added to the budget.

Police and Firemen Decrease.

Throughout the depression other savings had been made at the cost of the protective services. Police and fire personnel had been allowed to decrease. In 1935 Mayor Kelly added 500 new police and 200 new firemen to the city's forces. They went on the force for five months in that year, but in 1936 the increases meant approximately $1,000,000 additional for police and $500,000 for firemen.

In 1935 also, having "caught up" with the pay roll time schedule in 1934, the Kelly administration reduced the "cuts" in employés' compensation and again reduced them in 1936.

These and other reasons accounted for the fact that the corporate expenditures of 1935 and 1936 were higher than those of 1934.

[The fifth and last article of the series will be published in an early issue.]

M'REYNOLDS WRITES HE WILL NOT RETIRE FROM HIGHEST COURT

Santa Barbara, Cal., April 2.—(AP)—The Rev. James Clement Reid said today he received a letter from Supreme Court Justice James C. McReynolds, a so-called conservative, in which the 75 year old justice said:

"Against my inclinations to seek freedom from incessant demands on my time and strength, it is not my purpose to retire from the bench."

No direct mention was made in the part of the letter the Rev. Mr. Reid made public of President Roosevelt's judiciary proposals.

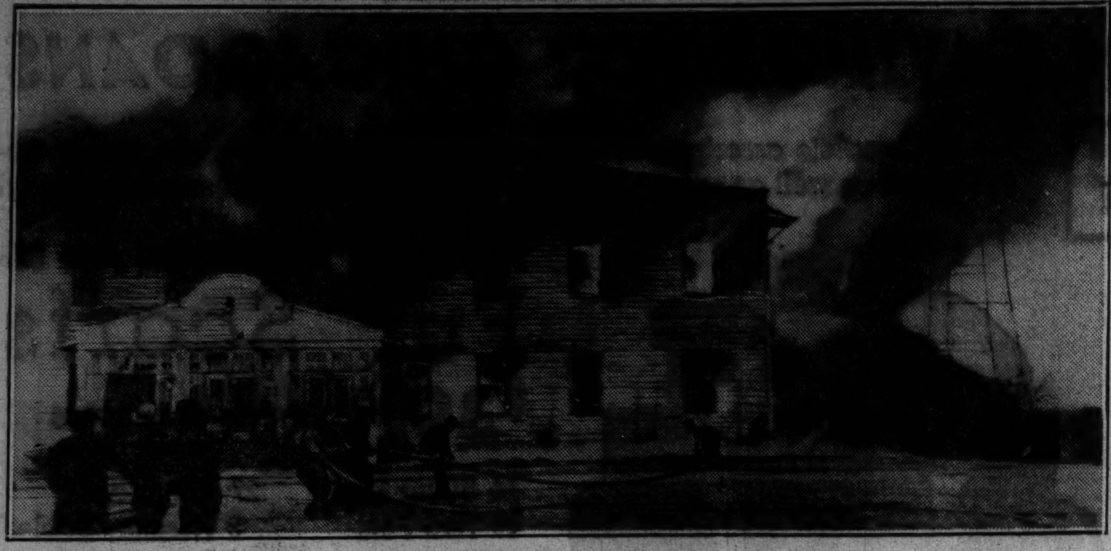
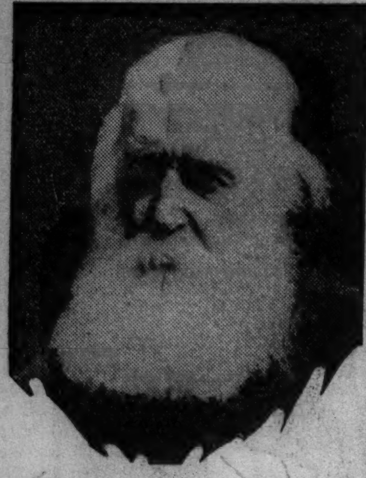
$600,000 Fire Ends an Early Chapter in Zion—Dowie's Shiloh Tabernacle



Shiloh temple, Christian Catholic Apostolic house of worship in Zion, goes up in flames with a loss estimated at $600,000. Ground will be broken next Monday for a new fireproof structure, Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva announced. Presentation of Passion Play will be resumed shortly, he said.



The late John Alexander Dowie, founder of sect, who built Shiloh temple in 1900. It originally contained an auditorium seating 8,000 persons.

precious possessions of the church lost in the fire.

It was in his preaching missions in Chicago that Dowie attracted nation-wide attention. He was a preacher of power and a great actor. He packed his sermons full of invective, abuse of those who opposed him, such as the city authorities, the press, and the medical profession. When he spoke of a dog he got down on his knees and barked.

He was against the use of tobacco and liquor and his tobacco juice sermon became the talk of the town. He employed a small girl for this show. He would take a mouthful of coffee grounds, chew vigorously, and let the juice stain his white beard. Then he would turn to the child and say: "Come to grandpa."

The little girl would shake her head and say:

"No, grandpa chews tobacco. Grandpa is a stinkpot."

A Celebrity 40 Years Ago.

Dowie became a celebrity in Chicago by 1896. He started his church in tents at first, then moved to a hotel building at 12th and Michigan, but soon left this for the Zion colony. He had purchased 6,600 acres at a nominal price and stood to make many millions in the sale of lots to church members. They flocked there with enthusiasm, built their homes, made the town liquorless and tobaccoless, and had a chief of police who preferred to discuss religion rather than mundane affairs. No profanity was allowed in the town.

In 1903 Dowie got a bit too ambitious and sought to convert New York. His $300,000 campaign failed.

He next turned his eyes toward Mexico. On his second trip there in 1906 he was stricken with paralysis.

Voliva, who came from a farm in Indiana and who had studied theology, entered the Dowie church and became a friend of the founder. In 1901 Dowie sent him to Australia, where the church had first been started, and where it had fallen into slack ways and was not producing the tithes that it should. Voliva did so well here in reorganization that when Dowie was stricken he sent for him to come back to this country and made him leader of the church.

After looking things over, particularly from the financial standpoint, Voliva decided that the church at Zion would have to be reorganized, too, and that its finances should be administered for the good of the people rather than for the schemes and ambitions of Dowie. He charged Dowie with immorality, extravagance, misuse of investment funds, and polygamous teachings.

Deserted by a Faction.

There was a spectacular court battle. Many of Dowie's deacons and other supporters deserted him. Dr. Archibald Church pronounced him insane on the witness stand. He had quarreled with his wife, Jane, and his son, Gladstone, whom he referred to as "my unkissed son," and refused them admission to his home when he was dying. He died in 1906 in his $30,000 house on Shiloh boulevard, a few blocks from the tabernacle.

In the meantime Voliva was left in control of the church and its property and has continued the church and its activities amid growing division and backsliding from the church members and financial troubles.

He refused to let his latest misfortune down him. He said arrangements were being made to resume the broadcast of his Passion Play tomorrow and to begin the spadework for a new temple Monday.

A $50,000 FRAUD SUIT RECALLS A TRAGEDY OF 1927

Jury Chosen in Trial Over Harry Levinson House.

A jury was selected yesterday in the Superior court of Judge Martin M. Gridley to try a $50,000 suit in which fraud is charged in the sale of a house in Glencoe once owned and occupied by the late Attorney Harry C. Levinson and his wife, Mrs. Fannie C. Levinson. The Levinsons were central figures in a domestic tragedy ten years ago.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Stella Reynolds Powers and Miss Mary K. Reynolds, sisters, of 330 South California avenue, against Henry G. Hart of Glencoe, a State street store executive, and his wife, Selma A. Hart, 485 Sheridan road, Glencoe.

A Story of 35 Years.

The story of the house, which stands at 525 Sheridan road, in Glencoe, begins in 1901, when Levinson and Hart, then young bachelors, became close friends. After marrying, the chums lived next door to each other, first in Hyde Park, then in Glencoe. In 1927, Levinson suddenly sold his house to Hart, and Hart sold it to the Reynolds sisters.

Shortly afterward, Attorney Levinson sued his wife for divorce and testified before Judge John J. Sullivan in the Superior court that a missent letter had disclosed to him a year previous that his wife and his chum were guilty of misconduct. A year after his discovery, he told the court, his wife confessed having kept clandestine appointments with Hart for 13 years.

Not many hours after Attorney Levinson won his divorce, Mrs. Levinson tried to end her life in a hotel here, and three months later her former husband was found dead in another hotel. A coroner's jury attributed his death to heart disease. His former wife attended the funeral. His will did not mention her but he left $110,000 in insurance to carry on an annuity for her established before the divorce.

Object to Price Paid.

According to the Reynolds sisters' suit against the Harts, the house was three years old when they bought it. They allege that it cost originally $35,000 and that Hart paid Levinson less than $50,000 for it, but that Hart told them during the sale negotiations that the residence had cost $130,000 and that te had paid Levinson $115,000 for it.

The sisters' bill, which was filed by Attorney Julius H. Selinger, says they bought the home for $72,000 and assumed a mortgage for $50,000. They charge that the foundation rests on quicksand and that the heating plant was second hand when installed and was ineffective. The Harts have filed a counterclaim for $18,000 with interest.

Judge Gridley is to hear opening statements in the case on Monday morning.

W. B. LEEDS TO SELL ESTATE AT AUCTION AND LIVE ON YACHT

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—Because he intends "to pass about ten months of the year cruising in southern waters," William B. Leeds, tin plate heir and well known millionaire sportsman, has decided to auction off his fifty-four acre estate on the north shore of Long Island.

According to his real estate broker, Leeds bought the estate in 1926 for $475,000, and his total outlay has been $750,000.

WORKERS BEAR RACKET BURDEN, JURORS ASSERT

Say Gangsters Get Money Due Employes.

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—The greatest victims of an industrial racket are the workers, a grand jury reported today to Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook. This was the jury that returned the indictments against the seven restaurant racketeers convicted of extortion last week.

The elimination of gangsters and of union officials who turned labor racketeers should materially advance the cause of labor, the jury held. Money paid to the racketeers should have gone to the employés in the form of salaries and wages. Sincere union sympathizers realize these facts only too well, the jurors declared.

Victory for Honest Labor.

"Honest union officials should invite investigation," they said. "Public confidence in their integrity is essential and confidence can best be inspired in this way.

"We regard this case as a signal victory for community decency and for the honest forces of organized labor. The unions in the restaurant industry should now go forward with added vigor, freed of the unhealthy tint of racketeering and the fatal hindrance of corrupt officials."

The grand jurors held the conviction of the two lawyer defendants, Harry Vogelstein and Abraham Cohen, in the restaurant extortion trial to be of special significance.

Bar Purged of Two.

"The bar has been purged of two of its members of a type calculated to bring it into undeserved disrepute," the presentment continued.

"Lawyers are bound, when called upon, to defend men charged with crime. This duty should not be interpreted as a right to instruct criminals in the conduct of their nefarious enterprises, nor is it to be construed as a right to participate in their operations and to share their profits."

Reviewing its work, the jury stated that, although it was customary to sit only two hours a day, it had sat seven and eight hours a day on many occasions since it was impaneled last August. During this period it heard testimony concerning rackets in many different industries in this city. Most of these matters undoubtedly will result in later indictments and subsequent grand juries, it predicted.

NIGHT AND DAY WIFE FILES SUIT TO LOSE NO. 2

Mrs. Helen Pool Watts Betenas Russell, a blonde who had a night and a day husband, filed suit yesterday in Superior court for annulment of her marriage to Grant Russell, her No. 2, or day husband.

Mrs. Russell in her bill filed by Attorney Victor Frohlich, said she felt so badly because her No. 1, or night husband, disappeared for three months that she began drinking and taking sleeping powders. Under this influence the plaintif, who is 27 years old and lives at 6346 Maryland avenue, said Russell persuaded her to marry him on Feb. 26.

DUTCH VILLAGE'S TULIPS ABLAZE AT FLOWER SHOW

Exhibit Will Open Today for Eight Days.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Visitors at the preview of the 11th annual Chicago Flower show at Navy pier last night stepped into a Dutch village ablaze with tulips.

This village, with its tulip beds, bay trees, canal and miniature houses, is the combined effort of the Lake Forest, Winnetka, Evanston, and Kenilworth Garden clubs to introduce the visitor to the flower show that opens to the public today for eight days.

After the village the visitor moves on to fresh surprises. Mrs. O. W. Dynes, Mrs. Warren W. Shoemaker, Mrs. George Plamondon, and the other women who stage the show year after year for the Garden Club of Illinois somehow manage annually to produce completely new exhibits as well as novel interpretations of the standard ones.

Forest Preserves Show Shelter.

The women have effective help. The forest preserves are showing one of their outdoor shelters, a three sided log cabin set in a bit of woodland. For three months Arthur Korsgaard, chief forester of Cook county, has nursed trilliums and hepatica into bloom for this woodland scene.

It is just a few steps from the woods to the dunes in autumn. Beach and lake in the background, and in the foreground sand and hills and a scrub oak and a brook and forty varieties of grasses and flowers, dried gentians still blue, and goldenrod, butter and eggs, and bittersweet, all collected by Mrs. Homer Horton and fellow members of the Glencoe Garden club.

Farther on, a tropical garden, Spanish moss, and orchids twined among the trees, a waterfall, and a quiet pool, and a path of bamboo winding among rare crimson arthurium, orange bird of paradise flowers from the Andes. A gold medal for this went to the University Horticultural society.

Small Greenhouse Exhibited.

A small greenhouse opening off a garden workroom with a box of seedlings just ready to be placed in the sun is a realistic feature of the exhibit of the Lake Bluff Garden club.

Among the new features this year are silhouettes, cattails, delicate grasses, miniature trees thrown in shadow on a screen to form exquisite black and white compositions. Prize awards were announced as follows:

3 SCHOOL GIRLS LINKED IN LOVE NEST PARTIES

Los Angeles, Cal., April 2.—[Special.]—"Flaming youth" parties at a Culver City rendezvous for Beverly Hills high school students tonight resulted in morals charges being filed against four young men. The action followed stories of all night drinking, dancing, and other revels told by three 16 year old Beverly Hills high school girls. Thirty-six persons, many of them girls from prominent Beverly Hills families, were questioned.

Florence Woodhead.

Deputy District Attorney Florence Woodhead said some of the parties were held at the elaborately furnished "love nest" in nearby Culver City, which police raided.

The three girls who sobbingly confessed participation in the revelry were held by juvenile authorities. The students, victims of alleged attacks, were Barbara Page, Marjorie Folsom, and Valee Rice.

Frank Bauer, alias "Speed" Morgan, prize fighter, was accused of plying Miss Page with liquor and was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Statutory charges were filed against Elwood Jackson III., 19; Harvey Rubie, 24, and Ted Barber.

Jackson was accused of taking Miss Page to the "love nest" in Culver City and then transporting her to Mexico, where they planned to be married at Tia Juana. The ceremony never was performed because they didn't have the $25 marriage fee.

Rubie was accused of attacking Miss Folsom on a state beach. The charges against Barber involved Miss Rice, daughter of wealthy parents.

TRAINS CRASH ON 60 FOOT VIADUCT; 8 KILLED, 40 HURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 2.—A crowded suburban train standing on a 60 foot viaduct just outside Battersea park was struck in the rear by another heavily loaded train today and eight persons were killed. At least forty were injured. A third train was prevented from crashing into the others only because it was flagged down by a passenger who extricated himself from the wreckage and rushed along the track to give warning.

One of the cars of the rammed train left the track and halted at the very edge of the viaduct. Another, hurled across the live rail of the electric line, caught fire, but the current was shut off and the blaze put out.

Seven of the dead were found in the rear wooden coach of the standing train. A torrential rain was falling when the crash occurred.

THE LEGISLATIVE VOTERS' LEAGUE.

It is reported that lack of financial support threatens the continuance of the Illinois Legislative Voters' league. If the league dies the responsible citizenship of this commonwealth will be deprived of an aid for intelligent voting which every citizen needs in every election of the state legislature. It takes very little experience and very little reflection to make clear to the voter how much he needs guidance in selecting from the welter of candidates the more trustworthy men to serve him as the makers of his laws. It was a realization of this need that caused the formation of the league, a citizens' agency, apart from partisanship, whose duty it is to examine the qualification of candidates for the assembly, to follow the record of incumbent legislators, and to offer for the consideration of voters in primaries and elections recommendations based upon nonpartisan judgment of character and legislative competence.

This service is, of course, supplementary to other sources of information and influence, to the press, to party organization, to other civic agencies. But it is a special service which none of these other agencies is suited to perform. It concentrates its study and report upon legislative personnel, upon the basic questions of fitness for the legislative office, and upon actual performance of incumbents. These are questions which the conscientious voter, preoccupied as he or she is with private duties and responsibilities, must usually find it difficult and often impossible to answer for himself or herself. The need of the voter for the help of a disinterested informant if he is to use his franchise conscientiously in his own and the community's interest hardly needs statement. Responsible newspapers seek to give this information to voters, but they cannot concentrate upon it and every conscientious editor has been glad to share the benefits of the league's records. It is noteworthy also that legislators and political leaders who serve the public faithfully and have nothing to hide support the league and find support in its service.

That in spite of these considerations the league now finds itself seriously embarrassed for necessary funds is a sad commentary upon our present political state. It is, no doubt, explainable, for in the midst of political, social, and economic turmoil the orderly processes of representative government are overshadowed and forgotten. Nevertheless they must be defended and maintained while democratic government remains to us. One of the worst enemies of democratic government is incompetence and unfaithfulness in legislation, and there has never been a time in its history in this country when competence and fidelity in government were more urgently our need than in the present.

We appeal, therefore, to the responsible citizens throughout Illinois to see to it that the Legislative Voters' league shall continue the service it has given the intelligent voter and his commonwealth for a third of a century. To permit the league to die would be a failure of civic spirit and of civic intelligence in a community rightly proud of both.

THE FIFTH THOUSAND.

One needs only to pause at the curb of any busy boulevard to see why the massacre toll on Chicago streets is increasing by leaps and bounds. It is easy to recognize certain barbarian types of automobile drivers who constitute perhaps twenty per cent of the total. They are potential killers every time they start their engines. They may readily be divided into three groups—the speed maniacs, the habitual lawbreakers, and the horn drivers. Are you positive that you are not leaning toward the practices of one of these classes, Mr. Motorist? If you are, you are due to join the 3,000 conscience stricken drivers who, since the first of the year, have learned that recklessness does not pay.

We are all well acquainted with the speed maniac. He entertains a crazy antipathy toward the driver of the automobile ahead of him, and, irrespective of pace, will weave through the trafic with set teeth and a continual flow of muttered execrations. For some unaccountable reason he believes that the boulevard was built for his personal convenience. Oddly enough, when he gains a clear place in the road the chances are ten to one that he will slacken his speed.

More conspicuous perhaps is the habitual lawbreaker to whom a trafic signal appears as an infringement on his personal liberty. He may be driving at reasonable or even less than average speed until he approaches a green light which is perhaps due to change. With a maniacal urge to beat the red, he will jump on the accelerator to tear across the intersection with his car absolutely out of control, despite the threat to vehicular and pedestrian trafic alike.

Finally, there is the egomaniac who believes that his horn should command the same respect as the siren of a fire truck. He uses this signal to demand the right of way, entirely ignoring the natural inclination of other motorists and citizens to defend their equity to a share of the highway. The inability of unfortunate pedestrians to look all four ways at once means nothing because he is firmly convinced that they have nothing to do but look out for him. This attitude is particularly apparent when rounding a corner. The horn blower thinks that his vehicle license entitles him to check the flow of trafic in both directions.

Such drivers may possibly save five minutes in a ten mile drive through the city streets, but at what a cost! The mark of 5,000 casualties for the year 1937 has been reached fully three weeks ahead of the same record for 1936. It must stop somewhere. Will you analyze your driving habits, Mr. Motorist, or will you take heed only when some one is pulled from beneath your car with a broken neck?

MR. SABATH'S RED HERRING.

Congressman Sabath was accused on the floor of the house at Washington of having used his select committee on real estate reorganizations to profit himself and his friends at the expense of bondholders whose interest he was supposed to be defending. His defense included aspersions on Judge John P. Barnes of the federal District court in Chicago.

Mr. Sabath seems to have two complaints against Judge Barnes. The first is that at Judge Barnes' order a fee of $6,400 which had been awarded Congressman Sabath's law firm was reduced to $2,500. It is possible to sympathize with Mr. Sabath over the loss of so much money but it is quite impossible to discover how the incident reflects upon the judge's wisdom and integrity.

The second of Mr. Sabath's complaints is that Judge Barnes received a fee of $35,000 for services in the Garard Investment Trust case and that the money was paid him after he was appointed to the bench. Other members of the Sabath committee have also referred to the $35,000 fee as if it reflected upon Judge Barnes' good name and established the innocence of the committee.

The tactics of Mr. Sabath and his associates are beneath contempt. They have tried to evade an accusation against them by accusing some one else of something else. The trick is an old one. Their use of it was particularly dispicable because Judge Barnes, being a judge, is in no position to defend himself. Finally, the implication of wrongdoing which they sought to convey was wholly unmerited. The fee was earned before he became a judge and it was not excessive for the services rendered. It left Judge Barnes under obligations to no one. The transaction was wholly aboveboard, wholly honorable.

In this community, where Judge Barnes is known and respected for his ability and integrity, Mr. Sabath has done himself no good by his mud-slinging. If Mr. Sabath can make no better defense of his committee's conduct than to besmirch an honest, capable, and fearless judge, the people of Chicago will be forced to conclude that no defense of the committee and its $110,000 appropriation is possible.

Representative Church, whose attack forced Mr. Sabath to attempt to defend his conduct, has now asked the judiciary committee of the house to examine into Judge Barnes' record. This is the least which can be done to right the wrong which Mr. Sabath and his colleagues have done.

ITALY IN SPAIN.

It should be interesting reading when the world discovers just what Italy has been doing in Spain. Censorship is up to its usual tricks with the customary consequences. What may be the greatest exaggerations flow out with a lack of corroborative detail, and public opinion is exposed to the manipulations of persons who seek to create impressions by distorting or magnifying facts.

Italy has concealed the extent to which its support of Franco's Fascists has been carried and the Spanish government may have greatly exaggerated the number of Italian troops serving with the insurgents and have magnified their failure.

If 40,000 Italians are representing Mussolini's legions in a war he secretly fights in Spain and if so considerable an army is defeated the effect of the full revelation on general European conditions may be considerable and it might be beneficial. Although not much of the truth has as yet come out of Ethiopia, it is bound to come out of Spain some of these days, because there it cannot forever be bottled up by difficulties in the way of getting news and sending it out. The Spanish story will not have to wait for the historian, and when it is fully known a good many European arrangements may be rewritten.

GREAT SNAKES!

[New York Times.]

Representative Alfred N. Phillips Jr. of Connecticut, who has been making congress hum since he joined up, has a plan to save America from poisonous reptiles by stuffing forthwith all those now impounded in zoos, lest they escape in an earthquake or flood or something when nobody is looking. The legislative St. Patrick doubtless fears the peril is all the greater because our herpetologists now are importing serpents from the tropics, cobras, fer de lance and the like, whose venom our good, old-fashioned snakebite remedy, once again happily dispensed at every tavern, may not be able to counteract.

It also was Representative Phillips who submitted to the house judiciary committee an ingenious bill to curb objectionable editors by choking them with government propaganda which they would be compelled by law to print. Both plans have their points, but wouldn't it be better to combine the best features of each? We suggest that he draft a bill to turn the poisonous snakes loose on the venomous editors and let nature take its course. This would dispose of a double menace in a single gesture.

The record discloses that Representative Phillips hails from Stamford, where he did a stint of mayoring. Otherwise we would have thought him a product of Winsted, the quaint community that used to send out those delightful little nature fakes about singing squirrels, calves with wings, lame ducks and similar entertaining oddities.

APRIL IN HOMETOWN.

April came, and the rutted lane down which the horses from Luke's livery stable were led to water was covered with petals that rained from the apple trees. A wind as soft as a baby's coo listed from the far knobs, bringing down the haze of their summits and scents brewed from the blood of springtime. . . . The tramp printer, four days on the job and a good workman, sniffed. Then he threw down his stick, washed his hands with tar soap, deliberately put on his coat and hat, and went in to the editor. . . . "Got to go," he said. The editor protested; this was press day. "I know," said the tramp sympathetically, "but I can't help it." The printer's devil looked on enviously as the wanderer, with three-fifty in his pockets, rounded the corner. Short handed, now, and he had to work late that night. And as he loitered home under kindly stars set against a sea-deep sky he wished rebelliously that it had been his lot to travel the April-world in a buckboard, helping a man with a goatee sell snake oil and swap horses. . . . Gone the printer, gone the editor, gone the devil's youth. Only the spring and the wind and the apple blossoms are left . . . and where?

DREAM.

I love the organ grinder's tune;
  I'm crazy over it.
It makes my ancient feet pick up
  And almost dance a bit.
Some time, from writing verse and things,
  When I've made loads of pelf,
I'm going to buy one, full of tunes,
  And grind the thing myself,
And friends who list in rapt'rous mood
Will cry: "My dear, you're VERY good."

Load Off the Chief's Mind.

DICTIONARY'S OVERSET.

Sir: I speak in behalf of the Forgotten Word. We have heard so much about pleonasms and clichés that I think it appropriate some underworked words should be given a hearing. Many an expressive and long established mot has become musty through disuse. From a large collection of these, the underprivileged, I offer a few in the hope that they may find their way into more frequent use: impinge, kowtow, germane, impasse, haggle, tatterdemalion, cull, trenchant, and thwack. Joe C. Ryan.

Most of these sound well, and we have a fondness for mouth fillers like locution, logothete, and panhypersebastos. Very difficult, though, to find ways to thwack them into conversations.

SAILOR CHANTEY.

I loved the salty highways—
The charm of open sea,
And roamed foreign by-ways,
For they were home to me.
I sang the sailor ballads
From China to Capri;
I ate both soup and salads
Beside the Zuider Zee.

No need to be a sailor
To sail the salty sea,
For now I have a trailer,
And it is home to me.
I have no further cause to roam
Now that I go abroad at home;
I need not seek romantic lore
While wonders pass my trailer door.

Martha M. Wendt.

THE LIE THAT MATTERS.

I protest. Those pictures they've been printing in THE TRIBUNE lately in which the subject is chopped right off at the Adam's apple are very annoying. They look like the other half of the Headless Horseman—or do your photograve snatchers always get their men in barbers' chairs? It doesn't matter if it's only a Zintak juror or a senator, but when they print a picture of Edward and we gents can't see what sort of tie he's wearing—that's just too much. Vique.

WE WISH folks would quit sending us the gag about the dude who told the cowboy he wanted a saddle without a horn, since the trafic looked pretty thin on the prairies. As a 'prentice columnist we printed it last summer and we know now that it will have its silver jubilee in June.

ART IN GOOD ODOR.

Ora Fice gradually lost interest in the pictures at the Art institute. "Who," she demanded of her sister Soph, "is that distinguished looking man over there?" Soph's attention was immediately diverted and she asked where. Ora elaborated: "The one with the little beard and the perfect clothes." Said Soph: "Oh, him! Seems to me I heard some one say he's a painter." Ora announced she had thought he was somebody. "But," she added doubtfully, "it's funny; he don't smell like a painter." P. C. K.

"NOW," insists the mordant Maxellus, "is the time for enterprising two pants suit manufacturers to start making two seat pants."

URINARY TROUBLES IN CHILDREN.

PUS in the urine is never a welcome symptom. In the first place it does not belong there and it betokens inflammation of bacterial origin somewhere along the urinary tract—in the kidneys or the bladder.

Pyelitis is a disorder which involves the collecting space [the pelvis] of one or both kidneys, and means that the mucous membrance lining this area, or in some cases the renal tissue proper, has become infected. There, organisms are growing actively and pus is being produced and discharged with the outflow of urine.

In two-thirds of the cases the patients will be under 2 years of age, and four times as many girls as boys will be afflicted. The disease may occur, however, at any age and manifest itself in adults as a complication of a focus of infection elsewhere in the body.

An attack may be ushered in with a chill, followed by a high fever which may last from one to several days, after which the youngster may feel as good as ever. Even during the seizure he may not seem to be acutely ill, although the temperature is usually quite high—103.5 to 104.5 degrees F. The child may then appear perfectly normal for several days or weeks, only to have the situation repeat itself with identical symptoms.

There is very little pain, as a rule, but occasionally the patient will complain of aching in the thighs or in the back. In older children definite signs may present themselves, such as distress in the lower abdomen, burning on urination, and frequency. If the urine is examined during an attack there will be found numerous pus cells and many microbes, either the colon bacillus, the staphylococcus, or the streptococcus.

◆

How do germs reach the kidneys? From the blood, or they may ascend along the urinary tract. We must recall that the urethra in females is an exceedingly short tube reaching from the outside of the body to the bladder, and if urine is retained within the pouch for any length of time bacteria that gain entrance may find a suitable location for growth.

Now and then these affairs accompany other conditions, such as a flareup of tonsilitis, and in such circumstances we must wait until the tonsils have become entirely free from inflammation before they are removed. As a rule, this procedure will end the trouble, although collections of pus elsewhere in the body should be sought for and eliminated, if found.

◆

The first thing to do is to make sure that the flow is adequate. If there are obstructions along the urinary tract they must be relieved. Kidney stones will perhaps give less trouble under high vitamin A feeding and the amount of fluid taken with the diet and between meals should be greatly increased. In most instances the urine will be found to be alkaline in reaction and suitable doses of mandelic acid, acid sodium phosphate, or the ketogenic diet will be useful in changing it to the acid side. With children, however, mandelic acid should be used with caution. Sometimes it is desirable to turn the urine from acid to alkaline, and sodium bicarbonate and potassium citrate may then be needed. In the meantime the patient should be at rest in bed and a light, nonirritating diet is advised.

The diagnosis is often overlooked because in children the urine may not be examined with care and the high temperature interpreted perhaps as an indication of some general upset which, however, fails to materialize. A test of the urine will settle the question.

We need not look upon pyelitis as particularly dangerous. Nevertheless, many of these youngsters are acutely ill and it may require from one to several months to clear up the condition completely, as there is a tendency for one attack to follow another. Children with colon bacillus pyelitis may have from three to five recurrences each year.

It goes without saying that the more prompt the treatment the more favorable the outlook, as we should not give bacteria time to imbed themselves in pockets deep within the kidney tissue.

LIMITS FOR DOGS.

W. D. writes: My daughter and son-in-law love dogs and have several in their house. They sleep in the same beds with the family. Their home is full of fine hair which flies all over. My daughter has coughing and sneezing attacks every morning and I claim it is because of this insanitary custom.

REPLY.

Sleeping with dogs is definitly insanitary. Even if they are clean, the breathing of dog-haired air is injurious to human beings. Your daughter probably has an allergic condition similar to hay fever, which may be caused by inhalation of hair and dandruff from these animals. Dogs are our prize pets but there are limits—or should be—to personal contacts.

IRITIS.

F. E. P. writes:
1. What is iritis?
2. What causes it?
3. What is the best way to remedy it?

REPLY.

1. Inflammation of the iris.
2. Iritis is most frequently dependent upon some systemic disorder. It may be caused by a septic focus in some part of the body: for example, teeth, tonsils, nasal sinuses, prostate, female genital organs, the intestinal tract, and the skin. It can also be caused by rheumatism and gout. Much less commonly it is associated with tuberculosis, acute infectious diseases, and diabetes.
3. A skilled ophthalmologist should be in charge. Important indications include absolute rest in bed in the early stages, protection from light, light diet, abstinence from alcohol, and avoidance of the use of the eyes for near work.

◆

ALBUMIN.

Mrs. H. L. writes: Is albumin in the urine of a 2 year old child alarming?

REPLY.

Many children show a persistent excretion of albumin for some weeks at a time, unassociated with symptoms or with other signs of renal damage and not influenced by posture. It disappears spontaneously but may recur. The cause is obscure. Albuminuria appears in certain children on exposure to cold, as after cold baths. Of course, true inflammation of the kidney should be considered and your physician no doubt is alert to this possibility. As a rule, however, causes other than nephritis will be found.

From the Tribune's Columns

20 Years Ago Today

APRIL 3, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Amid demonstrations of tumultuous enthusiam such as seldom has been seen at the national capitol, President Wilson asked congress to declare the existence of a state of war with Germany, brought about by the acts of the Berlin government. A joint resolution to this effect, and empowering the President to employ all the resources of the country to carry on the war, was introduced in both houses of congress.

NEW YORK.—The American steamship Aztec, owned by the Oriental Navigation company, the first American armed ship to sail from an American port, was sunk by a German submarine, according to advices received by the company from the United States consul at Brest, France. It was reported that 28 of the crew were missing and 19 had been picked up.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Patriotism held sway in every corner of the national capital. It thrilled not only those present in the house chamber while the President was addressing the joint session but also the crowds gathered about the capitol and along the entire stretch of Pennsylvania avenue from the White House to Capitol hill.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Pacifists who came to Washington by the thousands to protest to congress against war were given anything but a cordial reception in the capital, which was bedecked with the national colors and overflowing with patriotic enthusiasm.

CHICAGO.—Recruiting for the United States army and navy is going forward in Chicago at the greatest pace since the Spanish-American war. Men stood in line before the doors of the enlistment offices and many of them had to leave at the end of the day without being able to place their applications before the military and naval officers, so great was the rush.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson's indorsement of universal liability to military service in his war message to congress has added tremendous force to the support of such legislation, in the opinion of advocates of such a system for land defense of the nation.

NEW YORK.—Unprecedented demands for American flags of all sizes, from great banners to be flung to the breeze down to small emblems to be worn in the buttonhole, have swamped flagmakers far beyond their capacity, inquiry among local manufacturers here revealed. Unparalleled calls in the last 48 hours have put the flag factories three to five days behind their orders.

POLICE EXAMINATIONS.

Chicago, March 25.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly advise me when the next examination for city policemen will be held, the age limit, and any information you may have. If consistent, would you place my name on your mailing list? G. Y.

I wish to inform you that the last day for filing of applications for the examination now going on for patrolman was March 12, 1936. Another examination will not again be called for several years, but we have placed your name on our mailing list for notification of same when called.

The age limits for this examination are 21 to 28 years. The minimum height required is 5 feet 9 inches, minimum weight 145 pounds. JAMES S. OSBORNE,
Secretary Civil Service Sommission.

SIGNATURES ON WILL.

Chicago, March 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it legally required of witnesses to a will that they sign their names to every page of the will?

2. In the event that the witnesses of a will are not available at the time of probate, what is the procedure?

A. E. B.

1. No, the reason for such signing in the margin is to guard against possible substitution pages.

2. If their unavailability is due to their being outside the jurisdiction the proof would be made by deposition. If it is due to death, then the proof would be made by witnesses as to the handwriting.

THE NEW STAMPS.

Mount Pleasant, Ia., March 29.—We hear that the south in general and Atlanta in particular, doesn't think much of the army stamp which was just recently issued by the postoffice department. We believe it was one of these three Ohio boys whose picture adorns this stamp who said war is hell and then all three of them proceeded to prove the statement true. I believe the south must admit they did a good job.

The ill feeling for the south has long since passed away in the north, but I fear the hatred for the north still abides in the bosom of the south. I haven't heard that Chambersburg, Pa., refused their supply of the 4 cent issue of the same series of stamps.

QUINN R. HUFFMAN.

THE MENACE OF WIDE STREETS.

Oak Park, Ill., March 23.—During his broadcast last evening Judge Gutknecht sounded a bit perplexed at learning that most of the victims of automobile accidents meet their deaths while crossing the wider streets. Isn't this natural when one realizes that more time is required to walk, or run, across the wide avenues, not to mention the unhealthy habit of standing in the center of these streets awaiting a gap in the trafic flow?

VINCENT V. LOTTS.

A FEDERAL LAW.

Chicago, March 30.—I wonder what law allows the county assessor to have access to the federal income tax returns and to photostat them for the purpose of trying to add more personal property taxes to the already tax ridden individual and business concern. READER.

WE PRINTED THAT, TOO.

Chicago, March 30.—The printing of an intimate personal letter in the "Carol G." case forces the conclusion that THE TRIBUNE falls short of being a gentleman. The only chivalrous note in the whole mess is the statement of Mr. Gardner. GEORGE M. SHERWOOD.

QUOTATION.

Chicago, March 16.—I sincerely commend to the attention of President Roosevelt the advice of Gardiner, English bishop and lord chancellor, given to Henry VIII.: "Better that he should make the law his will than try to make his will the law." RENARD.

CONDOLENCES.

Chicago, March 20.—I was greatly surprised and touched by the message of sympathy sent to this country by the German leader, Adolf Hitler.

Naturally everybody is horror-stricken at the terrible disaster to the Texas school children and filled with sympathy for their bereaved parents, but though I have no German blood, I think it was a remarkably kind and friendly thing for a man who has just been publicly insulted by the mayor of one of our leading cities to make a personal expression of sympathy to our President.

L. MARTINE.

APRIL 6.

Chicago, March 26.—Some great things have happened on April 6. George Washington was elected first President of the United States on April 6, 1789. The battle of Shiloh was on April 6, 1862. Admiral Peary discovered the north pole and claimed it for the United States on April 6, 1909. The United States declared war on Germany April 6, 1917. On this April 6 we will celebrate Army day and the twentieth anniversary of the United States' entry into the world war. Let us all fly the American flag on that day. FRANK CONTE.

TWO QUESTIONS.

Chicago, March 26.—Two questions which you can't, naturally, print: [1] Let the Mongols come whenever they're ready, or do you seriously believe it's worth while to try to save a civilization which has produced Hitler, John L. Lewis, and the strip-tease? [2] Chicago may not be the ugliest city in the world, but did you ever look northwestward from the intersection of La Salle and Randolph streets? JAMES F. GLOVES.

LAST REFUGES.

Chicago, March 27.—Profanity has been called the last refuge of those whose language is inadequate to an occasion. So the charge of communism is the last refuge of those who are unable to answer the labor movement any other way. K. S.

TOWARD FASCISM.

Chicago, March 29.—If labor unions demand exclusive bargaining, suppose the employer demands the same privilege? Then the workman cannot quit his job or work for any one else. Thus we travel quickly on the road to Fascism.

LITTLE ENTENTE REJECTS HITLER ANTI-RED PACT

Approves New Jugo-Slav Treaty with Italy.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, April 2—(AP)—The foreign ministers of the little entente [Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania] issued a communique tonight intended to reassure the world of their continued loyalty to each other. The document also endeavored to show continued security within the Balkan entente [Greece, Turkey, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania], friendship with France, and adherence to the league of nations.

It expressed satisfaction with Jugo-Slavia's new nonaggression pact with Italy and Jugo-Slavia's good neighbor agreement with Bulgaria, signed last January. Hope for closer political and economic coöperation between the little entente also was expressed.

The statement strongly opposed joining any bloc for the sake of international political ideology. This was interpreted by Jugo-Slav political circles as refusal to join Germany's proposed anti-communist bloc.

Rumanian Political Shakeup.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 2—(AP)—The man who brought King Carol back from exile again shared Rumania's political spotlight today as a possible head of the National Peasant party.

The party's president, Ion Mihalache, despairing of becoming premier, resigned. He urged that the leadership be restored to former Premier Juliu Maniu, once the party's chairman.

Mihalache's party formed the chief opposition to the Liberal party government of Premier George Tatarescu.

"I have failed to unseat the Tatarescu government, so my resignation is a natural consequence," Mihalache said.

Injects New Uncertainties.

His action astounded the Peasant party's general committee, injecting new uncertainties into the internal political situation, recently disturbed by the activities of the Iron Guards, a militant Nazi organization, and of Nationalists.

Maniu, supporting King Carol upon his return to the Rumanian throne several years ago, later broke with the ruler and quit the premiership.

Known as a bitter opponent of Magda Lupescu, Carol's Jewish mistress, Maniu appeared today to have the best chance for election as president of the Peasant party. He maintained silence as to his intentions.

War on Foreign Writers.

A number of correspondents for newspapers and news agencies in the United States, Germany, and other countries were faced with expulsion today under a charge of sending out stories injurious to the state.

Expiration of the time extensions granted the correspondents after the orders of expulsion were served was understood to begin today.

Dr. Eugen Kovacs, correspondent of the New York Times, was the only one of those ordered expelled who did not ask a time extension. He sought to prove in court he is a naturalized Rumanian citizn.

Others included in the ban were Julius Koever, correspondent of the United Press, and three correspondents of Austrian, Hungarian, and German official news agencies.

The expulsion was demanded by Nationalist and Nazi groups who have insisted that foreigners should give up their jobs to Rumanians.

WALES WILL ASK PARLIAMENT FOR OWN SECRETARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 2—"The political need of Wales for an acknowledgement of her national claims is urgent; it is confidently asserted that this need best can be fulfilled today by the appointment of a Welsh secretary of state, and the institution under him of separate Welsh departments of state."

Such was the decision of the North Wales Liberal federation, representing the eight North Wales constituencies, meeting in Bangor to officially take up the Welsh claims for a measure of "devolution" under the administration of a Welsh secretariat.

The conference, presided over by Maj. Goronwy Owen, M. P., adopted the memorandum prepared by its advisory committee. The committee considered "devolution" in all its aspects. Its advice was to reject Home Rule as impracticable and unpopular at the present time, and to concentrate on the more certain prospect of devolution of control in agriculture, education, health, transport, and employment under a Welsh secretary of state.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Social Themes Underlie These Recent Novels

'Bread and Wine' a Rich and Moving Story.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

TWO novels concerned with the right of every man to liberty and the pursuit of happiness were published this week. A third is frivolously concerned with the right of one man and one woman to freedom from publicity, a fourth with the right of one woman to what she considers her personal liberty.

A Compelling Chronicle of Contemporary Italy.

"Bread and Wine," by Ignazio Silone. [Harpers, $2.50.] Published yesterday. April choice of the Book of the Month club.

Ignazio Silone.

Consecration to an ideal—to liberty—is the motif of this rich and moving novel, but it is a motif only of a whole elaborate symphony. "Bread and Wine" is a novel of contemporary Italy, with a socialist as the hero of the tale. It chronicles political unrest, with the whole fabric of the passionate lives of the peasants of the Abruzzi woven intricately and beautifully into its impelling pages.

To readers of any political faith "Bread and Wine" must needs be a compelling novel. In our day there has rarely been such apparent verity in the Italian fiction which has come to us in translation. The peasants live in these pages as naturally as a trillium grows on the banks of the Des Plaines river. They are neither sentimentalized nor looked at through a microscope. They just live and breathe.

That they live always without physical comfort and often breathe hotly with fear of autocracy is set down as fact, not as phenomenon, and that is what makes "Bread and Wine" a fine novel instead of merely a proletarian novel. By that very fact, also, it is as powerful as the more violent and more obsessedly proletarian books are not.

Josephine Johnson's Latest Lacks Reality.

"Jordanstown," by Josephine Johnson. [Simon & Schuster, $2.] Published Tuesday.

"Jordanstown" is a case in point. Josephine Johnson's first novel, "Now in November," a spectacular critical success, was the record of a year of the drouth on a Missouri farm. It was a sustained and indigenous work of art. It stated the facts of privation in human terms and it stated them in beautiful English prose. It was a book with blood in its veins.

In her new novel Josephine Johnson has written about a small Missouri town in a book which can best be characterized as she characterizes one of its characters, saying: "He seems to have belief instead of blood in his veins."

"Jordanstown" tells of a young man, passionately moved by social injustice, who buys the town paper and devotes it and his life to trying to open the eyes of his townsmen to the plight of their fellows. It is often written in beautiful prose, but it lacks reality. It is not good proletarian literature because it is not good literature. "Jordanstown" is a manifesto rather than a fine novel.

This Novel Unlimbers Some Satirical Barbs.

"I Would Be Private," by Rose Macaulay. [Harpers, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

A situation which two years and eleven months ago would have been utterly fantastic is the foundation for Rose Macaulay's satiric tale.

A hard-working London bobby dazedly finds himself the father of quintuplets. How hard it is to find privacy for himself and his wife and the output makes an unimportant but diverting tale, which jaunts to the West Indies and is filled with Miss Macaulay's customary gibes at mortals and her satiric arrows pointing at what fools they be.

Story of a Woman's Futile Quest in Life.

"Today Is Forever," by Ramona Herdman. [Harpers, $2.50.] Published last Thursday.

Ramona Herdman, who wrote a memorable first novel in "A Time for Love," concerns herself in her second novel with the problem of the woman who doesn't know just what she wants but insists, at whatever cost to herself and others, on trying to get it.

"Today Is Forever" is not, it seems to me, as interesting a piece of work as its predecessor. Technically it is more intricate, for it reviews the whole life of the heroine through her memories as she physically retraces the pattern of her life, returning from France to her birthplace, to the college town where her brief married life was spent, to the dramatic stage where her next flight took her. It is the story of a woman really escaping from reality in her blind search for it.

Book Views and Reviews in Brief

Provincial Lady Casts Merry Eye on Russia.

"I Visit the Soviets," by E. M. Delafield. [Harpers, $2.50.]

The inimitable provincial lady casts a merry eye over Soviet Russia, its prejudices, its discomforts, its achievements, its foibles and its oddities.

Miss E. M. Delafield was sent to write "something funny" about Russia. She has in "I Visit the Soviets." But her remarkably clear mind gives us, too, as intelligent a picture of the country and its peoples as a more profound writer on economics might offer.

The universal dogmatic rebellion against criticism of the communist state annoys her. But she finds her people interesting, from the workers on a collective farm to her strange assortment of fellow travelers.

In her cleverly restrained manner she comments on guides, Lenin, the lack of prostitutes, tea with lemon, rustic water closets, Stalin, Mrs. Pansy Baker and the flea, the universal lack of rubber goods, abortion as a national conversation topic, and other pertinent subjects. J. H. T.

Novel Tells the Story of a Career Woman.

"Manhattan Solo," by Marjorie Worthington. [Knopf, $2.]

"Manhattan Solo" is the career story of a young woman who struggles to the top in the magazine world in New York City. Mary Dobbs is left a widow with a young daughter to support, and no income. Instead of going home to father she goes to work.

From her first job as information clerk in the offices of an antiquated magazine she rises by dint of her grim determination and wit to editor and is the motivating force that modernizes the whole enterprise.

Then, at the peak of her success, Mary Dobbs is dealt a terrific blow by fate. The rest of the novel is concerned with her reactions and with her late romance.

Miss Worthington had material for a rather tremendous novel, but she makes her chief character such a self-centered, tight and brittle person that the book misses fire. E. W.

A Fascinating Voyage to South Sea Islands.

"Zigzagging the South Seas," by Isabel Anderson. [Bruce Humphries, $3.]

Authorship by Isabel Anderson assures a well written, informative and entertaining voyage for the armchair traveler, and "Zigzagging the South Seas" lives up to its many predecessors in the travel field by this globe trotting writer.

This time Mrs. Anderson and her husband journey from Boston to Java by way of Panama in a de luxe private motor yacht. They visit the Coco Islands, the Galapagos, the Marquesas, Tahiti, Samoa, the Fiji Islands, New Guinea, and the Dutch East Indies. The book is packed with interesting information, is well illustrated and has end paper maps in color. A. C.

The Silver Seventies Excitingly Described.

"Silver Stampede," by Neill C. Wilson. [Macmillan, $3.].

In "Silver Stampede" Neill C. Wilson tells the exciting story of Panamint, today just tumbledown ruins high on the western rim of California's Death valley, but sixty years ago a blood-stirring town.

Panamint really never was more than a sideshow in the drama of the "silver '70s," yet it was typical of the whole exuberant scene. Across its tumultuous panorama paraded such characters as Senator J. P. Jones, the Welsh marble cutter who built Santa Monica's famed Miramar; E. P. Raines, the San Francisco curb operator who never quite drew the lady card; Bill Stewart, who went back to the law after losing a fortune; Cleovaro Chavez, the bandit extraordinary, and a horde of nameless cakebeards, sagebrushers, sourdoughs, desert rats, and last chancers.

Mr. Wilson has told the story of these spectacular men and their camp conscientiously, and he has also told a good bit of that of San Francisco and Los Angeles, the cities which they enriched. Anything that records their speculations, splendors, and rowdy fandangos is an important piece of Americana. E. K.

Professor Views U. S. Under a Critical Light.

"A Declaration of Interdependence," by H. A. Overstreet. [Norton, $3.]

Harry A. Overstreet, head of the department of philosophy and psychology at the College of the City of New York, has been mulling over the state of the nation and has found it very bad indeed. In a "Declaration of Interdependence" he has written a summary of his findings. With polite professorial language he damns practically everything—our government, our banking system, our schools, our religion and our own simple, confused minds.

Then he considers what can be done to straighten out the mess. He disagrees with other students of the question, who answer it by attacking a specific evil—the economic system, or irreligion, or poor education, or any other single factor. Rather, Prof. Overstreet advocates reform along many lines without sacrifices of the American conviction in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. He argues for a new "Declaration of Interdependence."

Prof. Overstreet expects us to synthesize in some way the Jeffersonian and Marxist philosophies "to build a more acceptable order." Extremists will find his "declaration" a milk and water analysis. Moderates will find it an urbane handbook on social problems. C. J. W.

Second of F. B. Austin Books About Napoleon.

"Forty Centuries Look Down," by F. Britten Austin. [Stokes, $2.50.]

To the ever flowing stream of biography and fiction of Napoleon, F. Britten Austin is adding a series of biographical novels. This book, the second of the series, relates Napoleon's campaign in Egypt in 1798 and 1799. The first volume, "The Road to Glory," dealt with the earlier Italian campaign.

While not adding materially to the factual knowledge of Napoleon, this book treats of him introspectively and tries to reconstruct his frame of mind as he dreamed of world dominion. Here is a Napoleon at the height of his powers, his brain racing madly with plans to change the face of the globe, his emotions bound up in love for the faithless Josephine.

The Egyptian warfare is described with detail and fidelity. Many of Bonaparte's letters are given. The pages of this book trip nimbly between fact and fiction.

Young Negro Author's Appeal to Proletariat.

"Let Me Live," by Angelo Herndon. [Random House, $2.50.]

The young Negro author of this appeal to the proletariat decided, after a few doses of discrimination below the Mason and Dixon line, that communism offered about the only hope for equal rights for his people. As an organizer for the party he was frequently in southern jails and eventually drew an eighteen year sentence on a Georgia chain gang for helping organize and lead a relief march in Atlanta. The charge amounted to one of insurrection against the constituted authorities of the state.

The sentence was appealed and now is pending before the United States Supreme court; meanwhile the radical organizations are placing Herndon alongside Tom Mooney and Sacco and Vanzetti. He tells his story in the excitable language of the agitator and it was chosen as the March selection of the Book Union.

A Scholarly Recent Book on "Conversation Pieces"

If you want to know more than the chitter-chatter that every one is talking about the exhibit of modern "conversation pieces" which opened this week at the Arts club, read Sacheverell Sitwell's scholarly "Conversation Pieces" [Scribners, $8.50], recently published. It explains what a conversation piece is [it portrays "definite personalities in their intimate surroundings"], evaluates the work of the great conversation piece painters and has 130 reproductions of famous examples of the genre.

New Theory on Lincoln's Death Rouses Interest

Author Presents Unusual Study of Evidence.

"Why Was Lincoln Murdered?" by Otto Eisenschiml. [Little Brown, $3.50.] Published last Friday.

ONE of the greatest of all American historical mysteries is the subject of this sensational volume, which already, just a week after its publication, is being talked about as though the murder had been committed yesterday.

Such interest is being manifested not because Otto Eisenschiml is one of those heaven born writers who can breathe fire into the nostrils of dead historic dragons, but because he has a startling, not to say astounding, theory, which he states unequivocally and proceeds to try to prove even as he admits that his evidence is entirely circumstantial and his indictment "would stand no chance of surviving a legal attack."

As a relived page of history illumined by diligent and minute research "Why Was Lincoln Murdered?" is extremely interesting. As a record of deduction, of the fitting together of positive evidence, psychological judgment, and detective surmise, it is fascinating.

* * *

The reader realizes very soon after he begins reading that Edwin Stanton, Lincoln's secretary of war, will be the villain, the master mind spinning an intricate plot. When he is through the reader is more dazed than completely convinced—dazed at the incredibly damning evidence against Stanton, dazed by the utter and widespread inefficiency of the government's efforts to capture John Wilkes Booth, dazed by the stupidity as well as the injustice of the trials of the conspirators, and completely befuddled over how, if Mr. Eisenschiml's premise is true, no confessions of the real conspirators have ever reached the public since that fatal April 14 in 1865.

The author makes out a fascinating case on circumstantial evidence. Lincoln authorities praise his skill in digging up facts and collating them, even when they do not wholly agree with the deductions he makes from them.

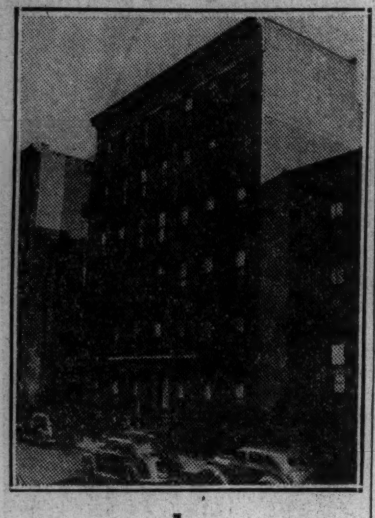
Triple Slaying Still Mystery to Police; Beating Fails to Change Gedeon's Alibi



1.

This is THE APARTMENT in which Mrs. Mary Gedeon lived in Beekman Hill district of New York with her daughter, Veronica, 20 years old, an artists' model. Frank Byrnes, a bartender at a fashionable club, was a roomer there. The apartment house, shown above, is just a block from the one in which Nancy Evans Titterton was raped and strangled on Good Friday a year ago.

2.

MRS. GEDEON, 54 years old, an unusually attractive woman, was estranged from her husband. It was believed she was the first to die at the hands of a triple slayer early Easter morning. She had been strangled and raped. Her body, clothed only in a negligee, lay crumpled under a bed.

3.

VERONICA [RONNIE] GEDEON, a glamorous blonde who had many men friends, was Mrs. Gedeon's second daughter. She loved life, had expensive clothes and was wild, her father said. She returned from a party date at 3 a. m. Easter morning, undressed in the bathroom, and walked into the killers' hands in a bedroom. She had been strangled.

4.

FRANK BYRNES, 35 years old, an Englishman, was a waiter and bartender at the fashionable Racquet and Tennis club on Park avenue. He had been rooming at the Gedeon home for five weeks. He was slain in his own bed, apparently as he slept. He had been stabbed about the head nearly a dozen times with a slender blade.

Since Easter morning New York police have been seeking a solution of a sensational triple slaying, the most recent sex crime to stir the city. Herewith in numerical order is a resume of what police have termed the "Strange Murder of the Artists' Model." The center column gives the details of yesterday's developments.

Day's Developments

New York, April 2.—(AP)—Information tending to support Joseph Gedeon's theory that a mysterious "millionaire" was responsible for the Easter day killings on Beekman Hill was turned over to investigators tonight by a laundryman.

The new informant, Charles Sturtevant, told his story to detectives as Gedeon, who had been described by authorities as the "principal suspect," was being released on bail on a technical charge of possessing a gun, designed to hold him for further investigation.

Following his release from the Tombs late today in $1,000 bail, his attorney, Peter L. F. Sabbatino, issued a statement signed by three examining physicians in support of his charge that Gedeon had been "brutally beaten" by the police.

Police continued their search for five women described by Detective Lieutenant Walter Harding as having been frequent visitors at Gedeon's upholstery shop. The women were sought in the general police effort to assemble complete details on Gedeon's mode of living.

JOSEPH GEDEON, 54 years old, an upholsterer, who said he had been on amicable terms with his family despite their estrangement, found the bodies when he went to his wife's apartment to keep an Easter dinner date. He became enmeshed in a web of circumstantial evidence. Police learned he indulged in erotic practices in his apartment, surrounded by walls filled with pictures of nude femininity and under a ceiling mirror above his bed.

6.

MRS. ETHEL KUDNER, eldest daughter of the Gedeons, and her husband, Joseph C. Kudner, accompanied Gedeon to the apartment where the bodies were found. They were also to be dinner guests at the proposed family reunion.

7.

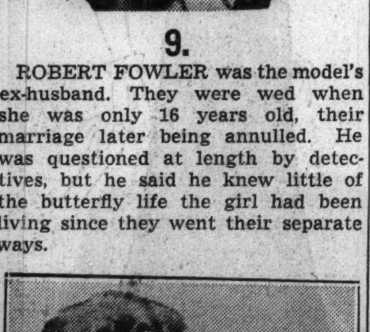
GEORGE [FRENCHY] GUERET, 45 years old, ex-chauffeur and former roomer at Mrs. Gedeon's, was questioned after he was identified as having visited a former residence the day before the slayings to inquire for the Gedeons. Two bloodstained handkerchiefs were found in his room. He was released, however.

8.

JEAN KARP, 21 years old, described as the beautiful model's closest friend, was to have been on the party with Stephen Butter and Veronica on Saturday night, but a cold kept her home.

9.

ROBERT FOWLER was the model's ex-husband. They were wed when she was only 16 years old, their marriage later being annulled. He was questioned at length by detectives, but he said he knew little of the butterfly life the girl had been living since they went their separate ways.



10.

A PEKINGESE DOG was the only living thing in the Gedeon apartment when the baffling sex tinged murders were discovered.

VICTIM OUTWITS MORON POSING IN WOMAN'S DRESS

Young Wife Accosted in Cemetery Office.

A sex maniac masquerading as a woman gained entrance to the office of the Rosehill cemetery, 2200 Peterson avenue, yesterday and attempted to attack Mrs. Frank Vogt, 27 years old, 2242 Winona avenue, a secretary in the office.

Mrs. Vogt was found unconscious when Michael Zito, 2600 Winona avenue, a handy man employed at the cemetery, returned from lunch. He notified the Summerdale police.

Dressed in Woman's Clothes.

After being revived Mrs. Vogt said she was alone in the office shortly before noon when the moron entered, wearing a woman's black coat and black skirt and a turban hat with a veil that concealed his eyes.

Unsuspectingly Mrs. Vogt directed him to the woman's rest room. When the masquerader returned to the office he asked if any one was present who could show the location of a grave. Mrs. Vogt replied that all other employés were absent.

The moron started for the door, then suddenly turned. Mrs. Vogt then noticed the masquerade, slammed and locked the gate between the waiting room and the inner office, and reached for a tear gas gun.

Tries Vainly to Telephone.

"I couldn't operate the gun," she said, "so I dropped it and reached for the telephone. I managed to lift the receiver, but couldn't get any response. While I was doing this the man was shouting and cursing, trying to force his way through the locked gate."

At this point, Mrs. Vogt related, the moron heard five cemetery laborers entering a basement door and he fled. Then she fainted.

Mrs. Vogt described the intruder as 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighing about 140 pounds. His face was swarthy and pockmarked, she said.

FALL FROM AUTO FATAL.

Logansport, Ind., April 2.—[Special.]—Frank Simmons, 22 years old, died today from injuries to his head suffered Wednesday when he fell from a moving automobile.

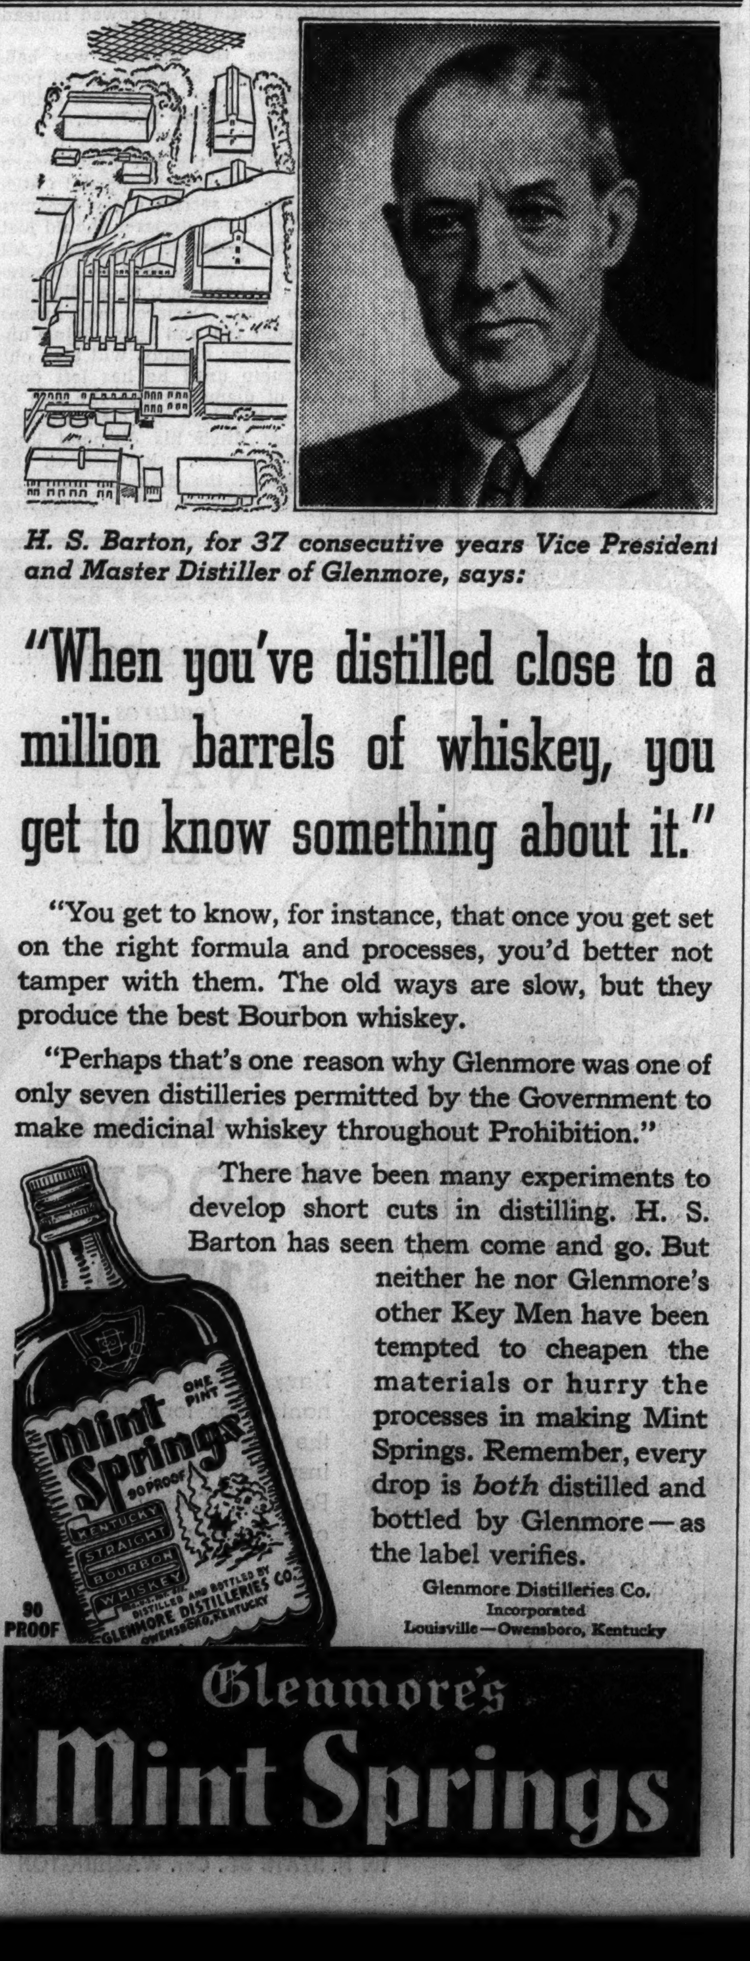
SAVED FROM GAS

Five children of the Salvatore family, 4242 Van Buren street, who were rescued from fumes which had risen from basement. Bobby lies on a couch. Immediately behind him are Joe and Rosie. In the rear are Leonard (left) and Charles.

The five children of Leonard Salvatore, 4242 Van Buren street, a mail truck driver, were partially overcome by coal gas yesterday morning when the flue of their basement furnace collapsed. The mother, Mrs. Theresa Salvatore, said that she and the children, pupils of the Sumner school, arose feeling ill. She was unaware of the cause of the trouble until she found the damaged pipe in the basement, apparently broken by the weight of the soot it contained. A fire department inhalator squad administered first aid and reported that none of the children was in danger.

Maryland House Rejects Child Labor Amendment

Annapolis, Md., April 2.—(AP)—The Maryland house of delegates refused tonight to ratify the child labor amendment to the federal constitution by a vote of 76 to 31.



H. S. Barton, for 37 consecutive years Vice President and Master Distiller of Glenmore, says:

"When you've distilled close to a million barrels of whiskey, you get to know something about it."

"You get to know, for instance, that once you get set on the right formula and processes, you'd better not tamper with them. The old ways are slow, but they produce the best Bourbon whiskey.

"Perhaps that's one reason why Glenmore was one of only seven distilleries permitted by the Government to make medicinal whiskey throughout Prohibition."

There have been many experiments to develop short cuts in distilling. H. S. Barton has seen them come and go. But neither he nor Glenmore's other Key Men have been tempted to cheapen the materials or hurry the processes in making Mint Springs. Remember, every drop is both distilled and bottled by Glenmore—as the label verifies.

"How do you make crisp poppy seed rolls?" one reader wants to know. The secret is a simple one. A moderate oven rather than a hot oven will allow the surface of the rolls to dry out as they bake, and if the rolls are left in the oven after they have been baked and the heat has been turned off this crust will become hard and crunchy. Brushing the tops of the rolls with butter is not a good practice if a crisp roll is wanted. Egg white and water is the proper coating.

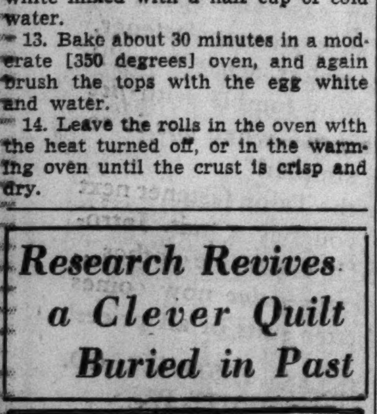
Today's step by step recipe is one for Vienna rolls with a hard crust. They may be sprinkled with poppyseed [over the egg white glazing] before they are placed in the oven, or they may be rolled in the poppyseed for a more thorough coating. Another variation which makes an unusual roll, especially suitable for company affairs, is the marmalade or fruit garnish. A spoonful of marmalade or a piece of pineapple or apricot is tucked into the slash made across the top of the roll just before baking.

Vienna Rolls with a Hard Crust.

6 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups scalded milk
1 cake compressed yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
1 egg
7 cups [approximately] flour

1. Add butter, sugar, and salt to the hot milk. Cool the mixture to lukewarm.
2. Dissolve the yeast in the lukewarm water.
3. Add dissolved yeast and beaten egg to the milk mixture.
4. Stir in the flour gradually, using only enough to make a soft dough which may be handled easily.
5. Place on a floured board and knead with the hands until the dough is smooth and elastic, adding more flour if necessary. The dough should be softer than a bread dough.
6. Place in a bowl, cover the bowl, and let the dough rise for several hours, or until doubled in bulk. Room temperature or the surrounding temperature should be about 80 degrees.
7. Turn the dough out on to a floured board again, handling it gently.
8. Shape the dough into balls, about two inches in diameter.
9. Line the balls up on the board and cover them for about 15 minutes before shaping them into rolls.
10. Roll each ball under the hand to about five inches in length, tapering the ends.
11. Place rolls about an inch apart in a shallow, greased pan. Slash the top of each lengthwise, using a sharp knife.
12. Let the rolls rise again until they have more than doubled in size. Brush them with an unbeaten egg white mixed with a half cup of cold water.
13. Bake about 30 minutes in a moderate [350 degrees] oven, and again brush the tops with the egg white and water.
14. Leave the rolls in the oven with the heat turned off, or in the warming oven until the crust is crisp and dry.

Research Revives a Clever Quilt Buried in Past



Tete-a-Tete Block.

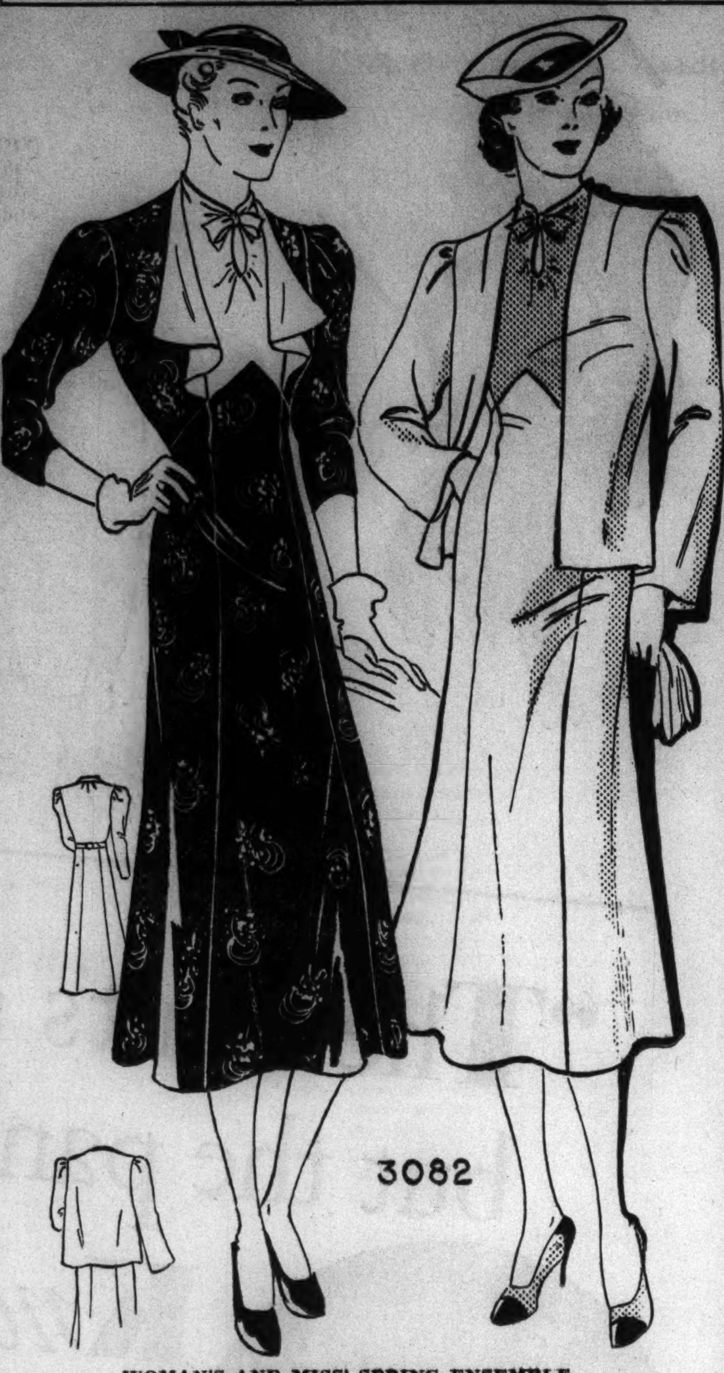
BY NANCY CABOT.

This clever pieced block has been virtually lost in the present day hustle and bustle. Many years ago this design was one of the ranking favorites but, for some unknown reason it dropped from sight. Diligent research over a period of time brought this one time favorite to notice. It is not a difficult pattern to piece, and has much charm and distinction when set together with plain colors.

For All Daytime Occasions



WOMAN'S AND MISS' SPRING ENSEMBLE.

There isn't a single afternoon event at which you couldn't wear this smart jacket ensemble. It combines perfectly the indispensable charms of utility, tailored lines and feminine grace. You may wear the dress alone, under the spring coat, or wear the jacket with the frock when days become balmy enough to allow you to leave your topcoat at home.

The jacket is straight and easy to wear. It has no collar and falls full and comfortably from the shoulders. Its sleeves are puffed at the shoulder and are full all the way to the wrist.

The dress has puffed sleeves, too, and a high neck that adopts shirring for softness. The rippled revers conspire in this respect, too. The waistline is high, dipping up into the bodice, and paneling carves out a slender silhouette for you, no matter what your tape measure indicates. The original of this ensemble is created in print, the jacket, too. Plain crêpe in a shade found in the print is used to trim the dress.

Plain crêpes, too, may be made up into enchanting ensembles, by the clever combination of colors. Here are some ideas in this connection. Fashion is sponsoring unions of black and beige, gray and "earth," navy and yellow, etc. You must have your own favorite scheme, and this ensemble gives you a perfect opportunity to indulge it.

Style No. 3082 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅞ yard of 39 inch contrasting for the dress. The jacket requires 2⅜ yards of 39 inch fabric.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Some fiend in human form, probably feminine, lifted one of our favorite lipsticks a couple of months ago. A beauty specialist had given it to us last fall. It was her "top" lipstick formula, in the swankiest of gold sheaths, and we loved everything about it—color, texture, and its imposing case.

But we're comforted by the fact that this same fine formula is now used in her newest lipsticks, which have just come to the beauty market. What makes their arrival most exciting is the news that the sticks aren't expensive. Formerly they were marketed only in the de luxe cases. Now we have them, six shades in all, in simple enamel cases, priced at a figure you won't have to think about twice.

This, we think, is a wonderfully rich texture, soft and creamy, but not too greasy. It isn't "runny," you understand, but neither does it even verge on the tight, thick consistency that cakes, and rumples, and just generally makes your mouth look as if you'd made it up hurriedly in the dark.

All of the shades are lovely. Our pet is a darkish one, somewhat somber looking in the stick, but luscious and velvety on the lips. Your favorite might be a red raspberry, geranium, coral, or a bright, lively Chinese red. Or, if you like the faintest hint of a brownish undertone, there's a terra cotta color that's a pet of the dark skinned girls.

The cases are pretty; choose the one that matches your costume. The sparkling enamel sheaths come in thistle pink, delphinium blue, lotus white, mimosa yellow, carnation red, licorice black, and gooseberry green. Nice names, aren't they? And what's inside the cases is just as nice.

When You Feel Face "Jelling" Relax, Girls!

"Soft" Expression Is More Conducive to Beauty.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Let's talk a little more today about tense, hard nerves and the unyielding facial expressions that go with them. I recall one woman who will spend an afternoon a week having her face done up beautifully with professional massage and makeup. The minute she puts on her hat, however, she puts on that old, stern set of jaw and hard eye gleam. She may have been quite relaxed and happy looking a few minutes before in the salon chair. But habit has invested her with the donning of her tight-set facial mask along with her hat and coat.

Why is this? Why not keep the relaxed facial expression until one gets home and there try it out on the family? It's such a nice habit, and an especially beautifying one.

The trouble with us women is that we've been putting all our eggs in the cosmetic basket. We think that if we get the lips blotched with color and the cheek blushed up a bit, that's all a face should ask. Which isn't a bit of fun for the face, really. It wants to please, but those hard, bitten nerves and habits of face jelling just won't allow it. It isn't of only the worried look I speak. Sometimes that worried look is excusable, although never facially helpful. But all of the women one meets in a day can't be victims of debts, ills, disillusions. Some of them have a right to turn a pleasant face on the world.

I heard a smart looking individual spoken of recently as "that brittle-faced" decorator. Does one have to wear a brittle expression? One doesn't. One could just as well adopt a "soft" expression, since either way it is a habit. I think some one ought to start an expression massage salon, where the hard, tense, driven old expression could be turned in for a gayer one. Then women would patronize the place and tell others to patronize it, with the result that we all would be more expression-conscious. That's what we need to be.

We have been thinking only in terms of cosmetics for the face, forgetting this other little ingredient in the facial ensemble. It mightn't be a bad idea to suggest that women take out their vanities often, not to restore the wilted makeup, but to see if the expression is jelling again. If you feel the teeth gritting, the jawline setting, the forehead puckering, you may be sure that the artificial bloom on the cheek isn't fooling anybody. It's the young facial expression that makes one look young.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

REVALUATION FOR RAISES.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

When partner has made a suit take-out of the opening bid, and the opener has adequate trump support for the responder's suit, he may count his winners exactly as though he were the responding hand. His count of winners is based upon honor, long suit, and ruffing tricks.

In general, a suit take-out of an opening one bid shows at least three winners, and the opener should raise once if he has five supporting winners. To give a double raise the opener should have at least four trumps and one honor trick more than he needed for his opening bid. Without this additional honor trick, the opener should not give a double raise without very strong distributional support, about six and one-half or seven supporting winners. For example: Opening bid one heart, response one spade. Raise to three spades with ♠Q1093 ♥AK9652 ♦K3 ♣8.

The rules governing the opener's double raises apply primarily to major suits. He should be careful not to raise the responder's minor suit to four, passing the three no trump level, without at least seven supporting winners and four and one-half honor tricks.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson:

"My partner [West] opened the heart king. Declarer won, laid down the spade king, then led his five of trumps and finessed through the 9-4, winning in dummy with the six spot. He then led to his ten of clubs, returned to dummy with the trump ace, and took the second successful club finesse.

"Please give your honest opinion of how much luck was needed to make the slam.

"Disgustedly yours,
"M. R. C., Mobile, Ala."

My correspondent berates the blind goddess for having arranged the cards so favorably for his opponents, but the catch is that she didn't! The declarer couldn't have made the contract if West had been awake! One tiny difference in West's play and the defenders could have crowed instead of squawking.

Of course the contract was bad. North shouldn't have responded positively on the first round with such a bare hand, but, dear M. R. C., try the play of the nine of spades on declarer's lead of the five spot toward dummy, and see what happens! Catch on? dummy's second entry becomes a wilted reed and declarer should just try to double-finesse the clubs! All East has to do, by way of coöperation, is to keep out of a diamond throw-in play. Declarer may finesse to the club ten and then, being unable to reënter dummy, will play out every trump until he has left only the A-9 of diamonds and the A-Q of clubs. If he plays the diamond ace, East must ditch his diamond king like a hot potato, otherwise, on the next lead of the diamond nine, he will be in possession of an expensive trick.

Mental Growth of Youngster Is Gradual One

Lacks Ability to Suddenly Act Like Adult.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

All of a sudden, out of the blue, a father or a mother will announce:

"He is old enough to understand the difference between right and wrong," or

"She's old enough to tell them she needs to go to the bathroom," or

"He's old enough to act like a man."

And, having arbitrarily decided that their child is old enough for this or that or something else, they resort to punishment or other severity when the youngster falls below this standard they have created pretty much out of thin air.

Well, children just don't develop like that. They grow gradually. They develop slowly as a result of the irresistible forces of nature, plus care and intelligent training. Some children do grow and develop faster than others, but all of them, if they have had fairly wise guidance, will be ready for the right thing at the right time. Certainly, to decide all of a sudden that a child is old enough to do this or that or something else, and to punish him if he doesn't, is most unfair.

The child suddenly doesn't learn not to touch things. He suddenly doesn't learn to take his nap without being told to or to eat properly. The older adolescent suddenly doesn't learn to act like a man. It is all a gradual process fostered by understanding parents. With reasonable help a child will acquire the ability to do the things he should.

For the mothers of babies and runabout children who are constantly touching things we have a fully written leaflet, "Don't Touch, How Not to Say It." This leaflet will be sent on receipt of a large, 3 cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in the Sunday Tribune.

Five Weddings Claim Interest of City Today

Saturday Following Easter Is Popular Date.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS, the first Saturday after Easter, is living up to its reputation of being a favorite day for spring brides, for there are five weddings of interest to Chicagoans planned for today. Not all of them are in the Chicago area, however, for young Jay Morse Ely is taking an Evansville girl as his bride and young Francis Manierre is being married to an Alabama belle.

Here, however, there will be a wedding in Lake Forest, one in Kenilworth, and one in town at the Fourth Presbyterian church, to which many Chicagoans will go. The Lake Forest bride is Miss Durie Malcolm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Malcolm, and her bridegroom is Frank John Bersbach, son of Mrs. Frank J. Bersbach of Winnetka. The service will be read at 4:30 o'clock at the Malcolms' home in the presence of just the families, the Rev. Oliver Brackett of the Lake Forest Presbyterian church officiating. A few friends have been invited to join the wedding guests for a reception. The bride will be attended by a sister of the bridegroom, Miss Helen Bersbach, and by Miss Nancy Poole.

William B. M. Hutchinson, who has come from New York to be the best man, was married to Barbara Bersbach several months ago. Ushering will be Nelson L. Barnes Jr. and Hugh Dallas of New York. Mr. Bersbach has chartered the yacht Xanadu, belonging to Charles H. Morse Jr., in which to take his bride on a wedding trip, and upon their return they will live in Chicago.

Miss Jane Dement to Be Bride Tonight.

Kenilworth's wedding will be an evening one, at 8:30 o'clock in the Church of the Holy Comforter, with a reception following at the Winnetka Woman's club. The bride is Miss Jane Dement, daughter of the Merritt H. Dements of Kenilworth, and the bridegroom is John Whitcomb Holloway, son of the Harry C. Holloways of Glencoe. The service will be read by the Rev. Leland Danforth, assisted by Dr. Douglas Cornell.

George A. Holloway has come from New York with his bride of a year, the former Betsey Paddock of Pittsfield, Mass., to be his brother's best man. Mr. and Mrs. Holloway are giving a buffet luncheon at 1:30 o'clock today for them as well as for today's bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Edward T. Herndon, the former Ruth Holloway, also is here from New York to be a bridesmaid for her future sister-in-law.

Miss Dement's other attendants will be Miss Virginia Rich, her maid of honor, and Miss Helen Fulton, Miss Peggy Gould, and Miss Ruth Joyce. Ushering will be Larz A. Holloway, Mr. Holloway's other brother; Gridley Dement, the bride's brother; Frederick Tanner, Francis Holbrook, Benjamin Porter, and Donald McAllen.

Mr. Holloway and his bride are going on a West Indies cruise and will be at home in Evanston after May 15.

Eleanor Coit to Wear Grandmother's Dress.

The wedding this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Fourth Presbyterian church will have unusual sentiment attached to it, for the bride, Miss Eleanor Clinton Coit, will wear the beautiful and delicate old gown in which her maternal grandmother, Lizzie C. Weston, was married to Dr. Robert Hall Babcock in June, 1879, in New York.

The Rev. John Timothy Stone, who

Movie Twins

Billy [left] and Bobby Mauch, movie twins who come from Peoria, Ill., will be guests at a breakfast at the Blackstone hotel tomorrow when they arrive from California. They are going to New York for personal appearances in connection with their latest film, "The Prince and the Pauper," adapted from Mark Twain's story. The film will be released in Chicago the last week in April. A new contract giving each twin $350 a week has been given court approval after the judge had refused to permit a $250 contract to be made.

Roller Skates Are Used for Film Ice Scene

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 2.—[Special.]—It was on the set of "I Met Him in Paris" at Paramount. Robert Young, Melvyn Douglas, and Mona Barrie were engaged in an outdoor winter scene. Behind them the "transparency" showed blowing gusts of snow and white mantled hills and trees.

The action depicts Robert Young starting off stage to catch Claudette Colbert whose voice can be heard, but who is not in camera range. Melvyn Douglas dashes after Young to catch him by the arm.

When Director Wesley Ruggles yelled "action," first Young and then Douglas whizzed by and out of range. Both were on roller skates, but that will not show in the films. The action was supposed to take place on a skating lake.

The tragic scene of Alfred Dreyfus' degradation was shot at Warner studio yesterday, and it was a solemn moment when Josef Schildkraut as the persecuted captain of the 14th regiment, French artillery, was publicly stripped of insignia of his rank, his sword broken over a fellow officer's knee and Schildkraut himself led away to be sent to Devil's Island. The scene was part of "Emile Zola" and followed with utmost fidelity photographs of the incident which took place on parade ground of Ecole Militaire in Paris in 1895. In the film crowd grouped about, and this was not altogether according to the written and photographed records, were grief stricken Mme. Dreyfus, played by Gale Sondergaard; Anatole France [Morris Garnovsky], middle aged Georges Clemenceau [Grant Mitchell].

They felt a great relief when the scenes of Dreyfus' vindication were filmed immediately following his degradation and departure, with, of course, time taken for changes in Schildkraut's makeup. The vindication shots provided the actresses and actors opportunity to let off steam and honestly express the joyousness they felt by comparison with the harrowing scenes shot just before.

Dreyfus himself in the later shots presented a pitiful contrast to his early self. Seven years turned his black hair white. His face was lined with suffering, thanks to makeup man Percy Westmore. Nevertheless, it was a happy scene.

Good Morning!

This tells the story of ties that really bind. Family ties.

Divided—and, for awhile, it looks as if things are going to be that way—the Hardy family would have fallen. But, when crisis comes—united it stands—and the onlooker is conscious of the desire to arise and accord its members one rousing cheer. Because it's so heartening to realize that there ARE still folks like the Hardys.

The tale's locale is the small town of Carvel. Its central figure, Judge Hardy—who has never had a decision reversed. Its axis, his granting of an injunction restraining a group of promoters from proceeding with a certain water project—which his townsfolk, having been wrongly informed, believe would be of great benefit to the community.

Despite the pleas of his campaign manager—election time is almost at hand—and the threats of prominent citizens, including the burg's most prominent newspaper publisher and, finally, the opposition of his family, the judge stands firm.

Because he does it seems as if his youngest daughter's romance would be wrecked. The plight of the elder one—on the brink of being divorced by her husband because of an unwise visit to a shady night resort—is used as a club to frighten His Honor into compliance. His adolescent son looks upon him with eyes of disapproval—till father gives him something to read that turns the kid into an ardent supporter, and Mrs. Hardy is reproachful—though loving.

But Judge Hardy never weakens. As the picture rolls to a close the Hardys, beleaguered, white faced, but gallantly presenting a firm front, confound their foes and go over the top to victory and happiness.

Here is one of those human little photoplays that everybody loves. Lionel Barrymore gives a grand portrayal of the judge. Spring Byington is adorable as his wife. This is the sort of rôle she should always have. She IS the coziest little home maker! I bet she gets no end of fan mail from lonely bachelors and widowers! The young folks are all excellently depicted — with the laurel wreath going to Mickey Rooney as Judge Hardy's youngest. Real American boy, that one!

Ganz Cancels Appearance with Symphony Orchestra

Rudolph Ganz, pianist, did not play his announced engagement with the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon, and Hans Lange, acting conductor of the orchestra, substituted the Brahms second symphony for that composer's first concerto. The orchestral authorities explained that Mr. Ganz had suffered a recent fall and that the heavy strain of Thursday's rehearsal and performance made it necessary to cancel yesterday's engagement.

MISS BETTY BRAWLEY.

Betty Brawley Engaged After 4 Day Romance

A romance that began last Sunday is being climaxed today with the announcement from Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Brawley of the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to Thomas McChesney Torrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Cates Torrey of Grovedge, Scarsdale, N. Y.

It was last Sunday when the young easterner arrived in Chicago to be best man at the wedding of Susan Badgerow to Winston Lewis May Jr. on Thursday, that he and the charming blonde daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Brawley became acquainted. In June Mr. Torrey will come to Chicago again to claim Miss Brawley as his bride and, like the former Miss Badgerow, Miss Brawley, too, will make her future home in New York.

Miss Brawley attended the University School for Girls, the Mary C. Wheeler school in Providence, and was presented to society at a tea at home in the fall of 1932. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league.

Mr. Torrey prepared at the Middlesex school in Concord, Mass., for Harvard, where he was graduated in 1933. He was a member of Phoenix-S. K. club and Hasty Pudding-Institute 1770. Mr. Torrey will return to New York tomorrow and Miss Brawley will go east at the end of a few weeks to visit his parents, who also are in Chicago, stopping at the Blackstone hotel.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Kennon V. Rothchild of La Grange announce the engagement of their daughter, June Irene, to Victor Vernon Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Vernon of Riverside. When her family lived in Lake Forest Miss Rothchild attended the Alcott school, and afterwards she went to the Visitation convent in St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Vernon is a graduate of Brown university, class of 1934. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Wealthy Montreal Girl Marries Baha'i Leader in Palestine

MONTREAL, Que., April 2.—[Special.]—Announcement was made here today of the marriage of Miss Mary Maxwell, daughter of W. S. Maxwell, wealthy Montreal architect, to Shoghi Effendi Rabbani, head of the Baha'i faith, great-grandson of Baha 'ollah, founder of this movement, the North American headquarters of which are in Chicago. The marriage took place in Haifa, Palestine.

Miss Maxwell, who is in her twenties, and distinguished looking, has been a leader of the Baha'i movement here for many years. Her parents are now en route to Haifa. They are both enthusiastic followers of the Baha'i cause.

Many of Montreal's young men learned of the marriage today with dismay, for there had been repeated efforts to win the fair Miss Maxwell, who is rich and talented as well as beautiful.

Young Tories to Seek Policy of Isolation

Parliament Mission Guest of English Union.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The tea given yesterday at the Arts club by the English-Speaking union for three members of the British parliament was one of the most successful parties the union ever has given. The especial guests all spoke informally on the British parliamentary mission which brought them to this country and each talk was highly interesting.

The three guests—the earl of Mansfield, Alfred R. Wise, and Kenneth de Courcy — are all young members of the Conservative group in parliament, and among the younger statesmen in England who, Mr. De Courcy said, favor a policy of nonintervention in the problems and quarrels of European countries. It is for the purpose of studying the way in which the United States handles industrial and social difficulties common to both English speaking countries that the mission, purely an unofficial one, was sent to this country.

Lord Mansfield, a Scotsman, who was introduced first by Samuel M. Rinaker, president of the union, and Mr. De Courcy, who in spite of his French name is an Irishman, spoke in a serious vein, emphasizing the desirability of England and the United States developing a common philosophy and standing together in case of there being small wars, or one large one, between communists and Fascists or Nazis.

An unusual feature of their talks, however, was that they did not proffer advice but said frankly they were here to learn how to make possible better mental coöperation between their country and ours. Mr. De Courcy stressed the fact that opinion in England is changing, due, he thinks, to the fact that the older politicians are resigning or dying and that, because of the losses in the world war, there are few middle-aged men to take their places. This means that young men are becoming leaders. They will not tolerate Great Britain's intervention in the quarrels of other countries, he said, and will not ask Britishers to give up their lives because wearers of red shirts may fight those who wear black or brown ones.

Mr. Wise, the Englishman of the group, supplied the leavening quality, humor, to the afternoon, and brought smiles and laughter many times, although once when he spoke of the fact that England and the United States had fought each other, some one called "Forget it." "We cannot forget it," he replied, pleasantly, "because you taught us something, that has been invaluable in our dealing with our other dominions, and neither can you, for we provided you with George Washington."

Another unusual feature of the tea was that it was given in the large dining room of the club so that every one of the large group that attended was able to sit at a table to enjoy his tea and the talks. Which must have surprised and pleased at least one-half the guests, the masculine ones, for a man's usual reason for disliking a tea party is because he must balance a cup and saucer in his hands while he is trying to be polite and make small talk with his neighbors.

Among the interested listeners were Mr. and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart of Washington, D. C., who arrived yesterday to spend several days with their relative, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, and to attend the badminton matches tonight at the Naval Reserve armory. Today Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams are giving a luncheon at the Casino for the three visiting members of parliament and the McCormick-Goodharts, who entertained the visitors in Washington, D. C. Mr. McCormick-Goodhart is secretary to the British embassy there.

Last night the McCormick-Goodharts were given a dinner by the Chauncey McCormicks. This afternoon the McCormick-Goodharts and Lord Mansfield and his traveling companions are to be especial guests at a cocktail party the Charles B. Goodspeeds are giving.

PEARL MULKEY writes from Western Springs that they were discussing a needed new word for hors d'œuvres. After several had been suggested, she ventured "teasers."

"Then the little ones without covers would be called strip teasers, I suppose," suggested her husband.

SHEPARD VOGELGESANG, speaking on "Colors and Personalities" at the Little Traveler in Geneva the other afternoon, did not mention the personalities by name, and it became a diverting game to identify them by the descriptions. Thus:

In 1933 you got off the elevator in Chicago and stepped out on a balcony on the Riviera. Not the Riviera of 1903 stage backdrops but the Riviera Matisse and Dufy had just finished painting; quite a lot of colors which pass as white, a shot of lemon, and somewhere a note of piercing orange. It was an artist's apartment painted by himself.

And again:

Even if I had not been there before, the low flower border back of the stone wall I remembered they had discussed at much length would have told me who lived in the house . . . a medley of pink and Persian orange zinnias. . . . Not that the colors meant anything special. It was the way they were combined. They were the same artistic expression that placed the ultramarine Redon on the white wall with the narrow gold stripe; of the stick-of-candy striped dress. The flowers were not cultivated—they expressed a culture, that of a family that puts a stamp on things in Chicago.

The art of using color, Mr. Vogelgesang concluded, is like the art of doing anything. "It is mood, selection, order. It is proportion, flow, rhythm. . . . It is not an afterthought but a fact, basic in whatever material we choose. . . . It is ourselves, however we choose to use it."

A CHICAGO artist—one who has taken a number of prizes in Chicago Art institute exhibitions, and who has been working for a number of years in his near north side studio—is departing for Mexico on the proceeds of a recent sale of a painting. He does not intend to come back, and he outlined to a friend some of his reasons for leaving besides the lure of Mexico itself.

"I shall not be sorry to leave my studio, where I have painted for a long time under a strain," he said. "All day long and far into the night cats wail on the back fence; next door demonstrations of a vacuum cleaner are constantly going on, and agents assemble there for pep talks. Back of me is a fish shop, from which a fan ventilator hurls fish odors into my face until I fancy my portraits try to walk out of their canvas. I built a partition to keep out the odors, and the next day I found my auto tires punctured. . . . Then there is an orchestra that practices swing music until I feel my brushes trying to keep time. . . . O, no, I am not sorry to get away to where I hope to paint in solitude."

AN executive of one of Chicago's large industries was scheduled to fly in one of the Clippers from Alameda to Manila in Flight 93, on March 3. A series of storms delayed the departure for several days, which endangered a connection the executive—his name is F. B. Ernst—was most anxious to make from Manila to Singapore. Hence considerable pressure was brought to bear on Pan-American both in Chicago and in San Francisco. Ultimately the skies cleared and it was hoped that the plane would leave on a certain day. The following wire from the manager of the Chicago office to his chief of operations in San Francisco read:

"HAS FLIGHT 93 LEFT WITH ERNST ABOARD STOP IF SO THANK GOD IF NOT O GOD."

SYNOPSIS.

Malcolm and Susan Dubenny's parents died in a flu epidemic during the war. Susan was taken by her mother's parents, the Somervilles. Mrs. Somerville refused the boy in hatred of his father who had eloped with her daughter. Malcolm went to live with his Aunt Lorna and Uncle Hugh Lowell, his father's half brother. Now 15, Malcolm has not seen his little sister for nine years and longs to meet her. He sets off on his bike on a secret mission to Crofter's End, the Somerville estate. In the woods of the estate the children meet. Susan denies she has a brother. Deeply hurt Malcolm leaves. Mr. Somerville's sister, Alison Loftus, returns to England after a long absence and visits Crofter's End. In her Susan finds a friend. Mrs. Somerville maliciously tells her that her aunt disapproves of her. Alison antagonizes Mrs. Somerville by her concern about the fate of the boy Malcolm, and her visit is cut short.

INSTALMENT XVIII.
SUE'S LIFE SAVED.

Susan and Ella Winch walked along the country road in the direction of Crofter's End. It was a spring afternoon and chilly. The Sue of fourteen, taller than Ella now, was tired with the aching lethargy of the season, with her own fast growth, and her steps began to flag.

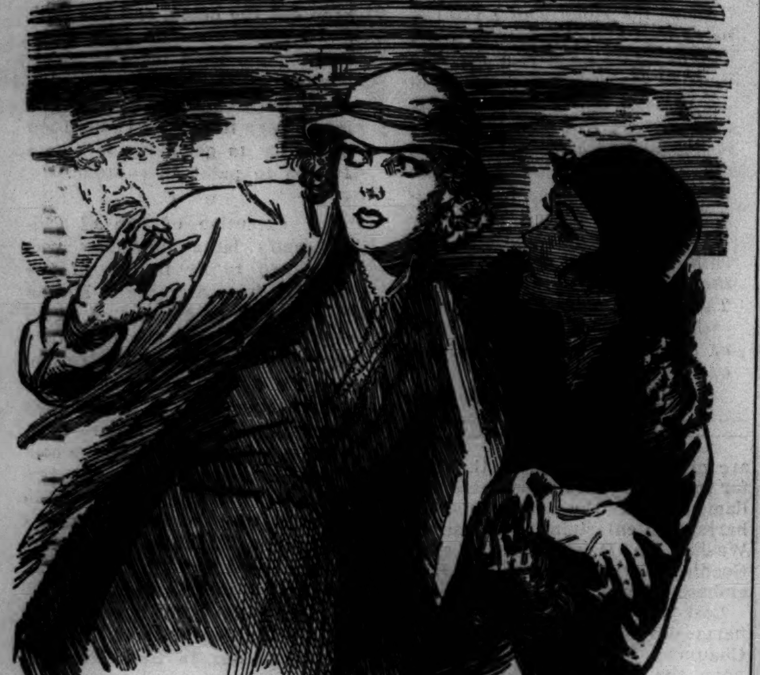
"Tired?" asked Ella, waiting for her. "You are sure to be for a little while, until you get more used to it."

Sue grunted.

How should Ella understand that it wasn't the dancing which had tired her, but the fact of being there at all, among all those girls dressed just the same, while she alone was different, and that while she hated it and wanted to run, she also wanted so much more terribly to stay, to share their dreadful competence.

Sue had been ill in the winter—nothing serious, but cold after cold which left her thin, restless, and pale. The doctor had watched her, and then talked firmly to Mrs. Somerville. The child needed the company of other children, games, physical exercises, regular hours, and occupation. She should be sent to school, and if Mrs. Somerville did not care to have her far away, why not this school at Crofton Beeches, only two miles from her own gates?

Mrs. Somerville disapproved of the school; she had disliked it from the first, having known poor dear Mrs. Fenton. The Fentons had thought themselves extremely fortunate to dispose of their estate in such a way, and the doctor knew it, but he also knew Mrs. Somerville. He found an opportunity to speak to Susan's grandfather.



Ella clutched Sue just in time and dragged her clear.

A few days afterward the rector dropped in on his way from taking a confirmation class at the Beeches. He spoke warmly of the school and its head, who had very carefully preserved the character and beauty of the old mansion, while adapting it to its new purpose, he said.

Mrs. Somerville at length called at Crofton Beeches to see for herself, and it was presently arranged that Sue should attend the dancing lessons.

Mrs. Somerville had condescended, the head mistress had made a concession and both were therefore satisfied. Not so Sue. She was in a state to be upset by almost anything and the ordeal ahead of her had seemed too much. She worked herself up into a state of excitement and rebellion until her grandfather stepped in and told her sharply that she would do as she was told.

It was all his doing, Sue had thought bitterly, and she was right though she did not guess that only a deep concern for her had moved him. She hated her grandfather. He was a tyrant and responsible for every prohibition. He had ordered Aunt Alison out of the house, Maggie said so, Ella said so—as well as granny. Ella with her own eyes had seen him go straight down from granny's room to do it. And although Sue was still doubtful of Aunt Alison, enough of the color and pain of that brief interlude remained to make her feel this infamy.

"Sue? Good heavens!"

Ella had clutched her just in time and dragged her clear as a car came round the bend, missing her almost by inches.

"You frightened my life out," protested Sue.

"You wouldn't have had any life to frighten in another moment," said Ella, who was shaking with terror.

"My deliverer!" cried the unfeeling child dramatically, and then the driver of the car was upon them, full of apologies and concern—a young man with a pleasant ugly face and dressed in rather shabby tweeds.

"I say, are you all right? I'm frightfully sorry," he exclaimed."

"My fault," returned Sue.

"Yes, I suppose it was. But that wouldn't have been much of a consolation, you know. Look here . . . may I . . . can't I give you a lift as far as you are going?"

He was looking at Ella and, finding her voice at last, she replied:

"O, please don't bother. . . . We are only going to Crofter's End. . . ."

"I'm afraid there's some junk in the back, and my dog," said the driver, "but if you don't mind that. . . ."

The dog clinched the matter, for Sue was immediately off to make friends with him through the window, and Ella, beginning to waver, admitted:

"She is rather tired, if you are sure it will be no trouble."

She asked the young man to put them down at the lodge gates to save Mrs. Somerville alarm, and had then to explain that she was not Miss Somerville but a companion and that he had luckily missed running over the graunddaughter of the house.

He was visibly impressed for, he said, Mr. Somerville was a magistrate of course, and he himself just come to live in the neighborhood—to try fruit farming. He didn't want to begin badly by slaughtering the inhabitants.

"Particularly," he added, "such a jolly one," and sent a smile to Sue, busy with his dog in the back seat.

When presently she had to say good-by to the beast who was called Parrot, it was with evident reluctance, and Parrot's owner remarked:

"He's a mongrel, but he has his feelings, so I hope you'll consider him at least a humble acquaintance and not cut him if you chance to meet."

"We'll look out for him," promised Sue with enthusiasm, and shook hands with both owner and dog.

"I don't think you ought to have said that," protested Ella as soon as they were out of earshot. "What he really meant was might he speak to us if we meet."

"Well, why didn't he say so then?" Sue regarded Miss Winch mischievously. "He's in love with you, I shouldn't wonder."

"Don't be so idiotic—a complete stranger, and your granny would probably be horrified that we let him drive us home even. Only you were tired . . . and after such a shock. I don't think we'd better tell your granny though."

"No," said Sue. "Except that you certainly saved my life, old Winch. At peril to your own."

During these years Sue's relations with Miss Winch had changed to a kind of alliance, unexpressed on both sides. They still quarreled, but comfortably and without rancor, and Sue was no longer jealous when Mrs. Somerville preferred Ella's company to her own. Indeed these occasions were very often a relief, for the growing girl had become conscious of the boredom of visits to elderly ladies and of being always responsive to granny's smiles.

She was beginning to acquire opinions of her own in direct contradiction to many of her grandmother's which of old she had taken for gospel, to be impatient, embarrassed and troublesome, despising her governess and defying her with ease.

The governess had taken offense at the dancing class and felt it beneath her dignity to accompany Susan to school, so feigned indisposition as often as possible on Tuesdays. This time it was a cold which Sue, preferring Ella's company, hoped would last forever, or at least till the end of term. In the summer the classes were always suspended, but whether that would be a relief or a disappointment she could not decide.

New Umbrellas for Youngsters Come in Color

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The mixing and matching mania has reached the rainy day apparel, and now small daughter can go shopping with grownups with umbrellas to match the big ones. Visibility is stressed in the new arrivals for both child's size and grownups.

The printed oiled silks are delightfully feminine, with Japanese looking patterns against pale colors. There's an apricot tone that will be grand contrast with tobacco brown clothes, a pale lettuce green that will go out with black and navy, flashing affairs of scarlet and vivid blue, fully guaranteed to make the darkest day rival a sunshiny August morning.

Zippy Scotch plaid patterns are rather unusual in this oiled silk fabric. One has a dark blue background, another a bright red, and there are others in bright tones. These are priced under $3, and the clear, narrow striped cellophane finds are under $2. The prints are under $3. For grownups, more expensive, but well worth every cent, are the heavier cellophane beauties with the stunning wide border. The ribs are of the matching color of the strip around the edge, the decorative handle is of prystal, with a good sized chunk of chromium on which you can have your monogram engraved without extra charge. If you would spend money for a rainy day, invest in these new umbrellas. You can choose from brown, navy, black, or bright red borders against the clear, see as you go cellophane.

Among other new finds for the smaller set are the amusing small money bags, with pink cats or gray puppies in beaded design against the light background of tiny beads. They're small, can be carried easily by small fingers, have regular grownup clasp frames, and, what's the best of all, the thing squeaks when it is squeezed.

Plan Television Station Atop of Chrysler Tower

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If the communications commission approves, the Columbia network will construct a powerful television transmitter atop the Chrysler building in New York. The station would operate with a power of 30 kilowatts, same as the new transmitter being erected atop the Eiffel tower in Paris, decribed as the most powerful to date. Other television stations are operated by NBC-RAC atop the Empire State building in New York, by the Don Lee network affiliated with the Mutual network in Los Angeles and by Philco Radio and Television corporation in Philadelphia and Camden.

News notes: Fred Allen will wind up the series for his present sponsors in June. He plans to make a movie this summer. Whether he will return to radio in the fall depends on several things—his health and whether he can get what he asks both as to salary and type of program. . . . Joe Gallichio, local radio orchestra leader, is leaving for Hollywood today to assume direction of the musical background for Amos and Andy. . . . W-G-N-Mutual will open a Saturday morning concert series by the United States Army band at 10:45 o'clock. . . . Buddy Rogers is back from England and will return to the Victor Moore-Helen Broderick show at 7 tomorrow night over CBS.

Rudy Vallee's former yeast sponsors will present an all-colored show featuring Eddie Green and Gee Gee James, comedy team, and Louis Armstrong's music over NBC at 8 p. m. starting next Friday. Octavus Roy Cohen will write the script.

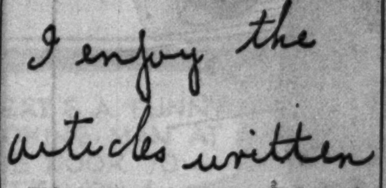
Writing Often Gives Clew to Failing Health

Expert Gives an Example Illustrating Point.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

"My daughter, the writer of the inclosed letter, died very suddenly, and we found this letter on her desk. Since she was so interested in your articles, we decided to send it to you."



I enjoy the articles written

This mother's letter certainly made me feel sad. Of course, she wouldn't have received her analysis in time to have had it do very much good, I suppose, for the mother writes: "She seemed to be in perfect health up until two days before her death." On the other hand, the indications of failing health are so strong in this writing that you can actually see the inward disintegration that was occurring.

A failing vitality is more often of serious consequence to some one who has always been healthy than one who "enjoys poor health" most of the time. Those who have never been seriously ill do not realize what is the matter, and they wait too long before taking proper care of themselves.

If "Depressed Outlook" is marked on your chart you are either physically or mentally exhausted. At least you were when you sent your handwriting in to me.

Watch your handwriting all the time during this spring fever period, and watch that of those you love. If you are so concerned you want to know immediately whether or not a handwriting shows lowered resistance mark the outside envelope "PERSONAL and IMPORTANT."

If you want a quick reply don't forget that self-addressed envelope and the well wrapped dime, by the way. Such little things can hold up the analyses of hundreds of other writings as well as your own.

This article seems to be full of warnings, but I'd like to add one more: When you send in more than one handwriting to be analyzed be sure that the inclosed envelope has plenty of postage. As many as twenty handwritings have come in one envelope, written on a couple of sheets of paper, so that they didn't take up much space. It cost only 3 cents to send for the analyses, and the writer didn't stop to think that twenty charts would require about 15 cents in return postage.

Your Handwriting Analyzed

Any Tribune reader can obtain a personal graphology chart showing his or her assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions by following these rules:

1. Send sample of handwriting to Muriel Stafford, Chicago Tribune, postoffice box 1720.
2. Inclose 10 cents (carefully wrapped) for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.
3. Inclose a self-addressed, STAMPED envelope, folded once.

A Homespun for City Wear That Boasts a Hand Loomed Pedigree

It's Carolina homespun, and for all its hereditary ruggedness, derived from the days when it was woven to stand the gaff of a stern backwoods life, it makes an appearance that is as refined and as well bred as expensive worsted. The man who lives and works in town will see in these Carolina homespuns a chance to satisfy his liking for a suiting that smacks of the outdoors without appearing to be dressed for the country.

From time to time we've done things to foulards that's increased their following as well as made them less easy to detect, but never have we taken the liberties with them we have this season. Hat Brims And Their Width Is Something We Take Seriously

The slightest fraction of an inch one way or the other in the width of your hat brim can make you appear as though you actually believed that a hat was the crowning adjunct to masculine dress or that it was something you wore to keep out the weather. We're of that school of thought that believes that the right hat does more for a man's appearance than practically any other article of dress, and should be bought with an eye to dimensions as well as color. Shown here is the Cork St. with a 2⅜" hand sewn welt edge brim; Fleet St. with a brim that measures 2⅛" in front and 2¼" from sides to back, and the St. James, a soft rolled brim with 2¼" front and 2⅜" side.

BYRON NELSON HOLDS MASTERS GOLF LEAD WITH 138

RALPH GULDAHL AND ED DUDLEY SECOND AT 141

Jones Adds at 74 to First Round 79.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Augusta, Ga., April 2.—Byron Nelson, a young man from whom you can extract nary a boo until you mention golf, today retained the lead in the fourth annual Masters' tournament with a 36 hole card of 138, six under par and three shots better than the field. The 25 year old Reading, Pa., professional, who yesterday spoke his piece with a 66 for a new competitive course record, today crawled back to a reserved par of 72.

It is no more than four years ago that Horton Smith, a Missouri gentleman of rare foresight, quietly suggested that there was a kid named By Nelson coming up from his own southwest, upon whom it might be well to keep an eye. Meanwhile, Horton himself was winning the Masters' twice, in 1934 and 1936.

Plays Perfect Golf.

Today Master Nelson confirmed the prophet of his talents by taking a nine stroke lead over Horton with a picture of golf which was more beautiful to look upon than his fancy 66 of the first round, if only for the mechanical perfection of its execution. The Texas born pro was his reticent self until he strolled off the 18th green to greet the customary jury of waiters thereabout. Questions brought a fluent rush of language which overpowered his listeners, so wrapped up in his profession is this youthful Irish-Swede.

And while Nelson was going about the business of clinging to his advantage over the 45 other pros and amateurs lucky enough to be guests at this all star show, another party was bringing smiles to one and all present. He was Bobby Jones, without whom there would be no Masters' event each year.

Jones Shoots 74.

Yesterday was an occasion for dirges as Bobby struggled and fought for a 41-38—79. Today called for far more cheerful accompaniment. He did not play the golf reminiscent of The Jones. He was still wild off the tees. He continued to shank an iron shot here and there. He lost a ball in the brambles off the short fourth hole. But he shot a 38-36—74. Yes, a 74, two over par, good enough for a man who competes against his former foes once a year. It gave him 153, a tie for 34th place, and of all things a one stroke lead over none other than Gene Sarazen, the noted farmer who won the second Masters' title in 1935.

Squire Sarazen more than bore out his own statement that his game was awry by posting an embarrassing 80 for a 154. The little Italian was in all manner of hot water, three putting the 15th, 16th, and 17th, and taking three from the edge of the 18th.

Dudley and Guldahl Tie.

For the second well nigh unbelievable day in succession, the field found itself walking through an ideal day. A warm sun sent the temperature well into the seventies and chased away whatever vagrant breezes may have annoyed them yesterday. Fair and warmer is still the prediction for tomorrow's third round, with a likelihood of a continuance through Sunday's final eighteen.

Pressing relentlessly on Nelson's heels were several professionals who are more than capable of overtaking and passing him in the stretch run tomorrow and Sunday. Three strokes back of him at 141 were Ed Dudley, the home club pro, and Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, the low scoring champion of 1936 and present Western Open titleholder. After a shaky

AT MASTERS' TOURNAMENT

Feminine golf stars study the tactics of the men. Left to right: Jane Cothran, Katherine Hemphill, and Patty Berg. They were among the gallery which followed the country's greatest golfers in the annual Masters' tournament.

It's never too early to learn. Harry Cooper gives a few pointers to Esky Wallace after finishing a round at Augusta.

Mrs. Francis Francis (left), wife of English golfer, and Mrs. Tommy Armour watch their husbands in Masters' tournament.

RODAK POUNDS OUT VICTORY IN BOUT WITH COHEN

Leo Rodak made the best of an advantage of six and one-half pounds in weight to beat Lenny Cohen in 10 rounds at the Majestic Arena last night. Rodak, weighing 126½, carried too much power, although Cohen made a fight of it all the way. Both are Golden Gloves graduates.

Tommy Howell of Danville won a six round decision over Steve Padon, Chicago, in the semi-windup.

Billy Miske Jr., St. Paul light heavyweight, knocked out Floyd McNulty in the second round of their four round preliminary. Other results:

Christy Mathewson beat Billy Gladstone [4].
Harry Smith stopped Ray Archibald [1].

LEONARD STOPS JOHNNY PHAGAN

Kid Leonard of East Moline stopped Johnny Phagan in the sixth round of a scheduled eight round bout before 800 at Rainbo Fronton last night. Phagan took an early lead, but Leonard opened up in the third and in the sixth scored with a left hook to the body which sent Phagan down for a nine count and broke one of his ribs. Phagan took an eight count, another nine and was down for the fourth time when the bout was stopped. Leonard weighed 156 pounds, Phagan 154½.

THEY'RE HERE! JIM AND ALL THE BOYS FROM NEW YORK

Assure Mayor, Governor Fight Will Be Held.

That loud noise heard in the loop yesterday was created by James J. Braddock, his manager, Joe Gould, and others in the champion's party who came from New York to express good faith and determination to go through with a title bout with Joe Louis in Comiskey park on the night of June 22.

The party arrived during the early morning hours. It was in action until late into the night. There had to be action because one member of the party was Mike Jacobs, who is the co-promoter with Joe Foley of Chicago in staging what they term the big extravaganza.

There were telephone conferences between Braddock, his manager and Gov. Horner. There was a visit with Mayor Kelly in the city hall. And there were handshaking affairs with many other prominent citizens.

And Jim Will Win!

At each and every one of these gatherings, the talkative Gould assured one and all that Braddock will whip Louis next June.

Headquarters were established in the Morrison hotel. Also at the hotel was Dennis Scanlan, said to be Max Schmeling's representative in efforts to induce Braddock to meet the German fighter in Berlin.

"There won't be any fight in Berlin just now," Braddock's manager, the suave Mr. Gould, announced. "All negotiations for that fight are definitly off. Jim will be in Chicago to take a few punches at Mr. Louis. That automatically tosses all other offers into the discard."

During the visit to Mayor Kelly's office the mayor asked Gould, "Is there a chance for the fight to be transferred to New York? The New York athletic body might reverse its decision and not recognize Schmeling as leading contender, which would permit a Louis-Braddock contest there."

"Not a chance in the world!" exclaimed Gould. "Braddock fights Louis in Chicago. So that's that."

Ignores Legal Tangles.

Not once did Gould refer to the legal tangles with the Madison Square Garden corporation in New York. The Garden corporation has a contract with Braddock calling for a fight there against Schmeling on June 3 and to all appearances is endeavoring by court action to force Braddock to live up to the contract.

The Garden's case against Braddock is scheduled for a hearing in Newark on April 12.

Julian Black, one of Louis' representatives, arrived in time to attend the conference with the mayor. He had just returned from Lake Geneva, Wis., where he looked over a possible training site.

Louis, who ended a cross-country exhibition tour at San Diego, Cal., last night, will pause in the loop next week before going to West Baden for a two weeks' rest.

Will Go to Wisconsin.

Plans were completed for Braddock's sojourn at Lake Sissabagma, near Stoney Lake, Wis., for the next four or five weeks. He will leave for this retreat in the woods tomorrow night, accompanied by Sparmates Jack McCarthy and Charley Massare and Doc Robb Lippman, trainer. Manager Gould will return to the east.

Last night Promoter Foley appointed Soldier [Mickey] Farr matchmaker for the Braddock-Louis fight show. Farr for several years has been connected with Chicago boxing enterprises.

Ellsworth Vines Defeats Fred Perry, 2 Sets to 1

Albany, N. Y., April 2.—(AP)—Before 3,000 tennis fans Ellsworth Vines swept through Fred Perry here tonight, 16-14, 3-6, 6-3, to win the 39th indoor meeting between the two professional court rivals. The match left Vines with 20 victories to Perry's 19.

DROP IN ON THE MAYOR

PLATAK REACHES NATIONAL A. A. U. HANDBALL FINAL

Defends His Title Against Atcheson Today.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Joe Platak, defending champion, will seek his third consecutive National A. A. U. handball title tonight at the Lake Shore Athletic club courts. The only man between Chicago's larruping Lithuanian and a record of three championships is that veteran of the courts, Sam Atcheson of Memphis, Tenn. Last night Platak whipped Jack Srenco of St. Louis, 21-4, 21-7. Atcheson reached the finals by defeating Jack Schwartz of Washington, D. C., 21-7, 14-21, 21-5.

The hard driving, youthful Platak, who has been competing in national tournaments only since 1931, and the wily oldster Atcheson face each other this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Immediately after, third place in the doubles and singles competition will be decided, and then at 4 o'clock Platak and his doubles partner, Bob Weiller, representing the Lake Shore Athletic club, play Joe Gordon and Andy Berry of the Elks club, Los Angeles, for the National A. A. U. doubles title.

Platak Shows Power.

Last night's capacity gallery, after watching the finalists in their victories, was ready to wager on Platak to whip Atcheson. The Chicagoan's powerful shots and tireless attack seemed better fitted to overcome the more cautious, and perhaps more scientific game of Atcheson. But when pressed last night Atcheson also demonstrated the accuracy of his kills. Moreover, it should be noted that the finalists have met twice previously and each has been victorious.

Platak nominally is a southpaw, but he has developed a right hand as efficient as his left. This long has been an advantage none the less important than Platak's seemingly endless endurance. Atcheson's condition, aided by his ability to force his opponent to cover the court, at least judged by his performance last night, is equal to that of Platak.

Atcheson Wins Handily.

In his first game against Schwartz, Atcheson was as relentless as Platak at his best. He held a lead of 16 to 1 before he slowed and apparently permitted Schwartz to score 6 points. Then Atcheson went on to win, 21 to 7. In the second game Schwartz came up with a series of perfect line shots which first deadlocked the score at 12 all and then sent him on to win, 21 to 14. The result of the third game never was in doubt. Atcheson was hitting accurately and chasing Schwartz from side to side. After an early lead the Memphis player ran out at 21 to 5.

The Los Angeles doubles team of Gordon and Berry hold the national A. A. U. title by virtue of last year's final victory over their opponents tonight, Platak and Weiller. The Lake Shore pair hope to reverse last year's result, but it largely depends on how Platak fares in his singles battle. Should Platak be forced to his physical limits it will constitute a serious handicap in the doubles contest three hours later.

Play Finals Today.

The schedule for this afternoon's finals is:

Joe Platak, Lake Shore A. C., vs. Sam Atcheson, Memphis, Tenn. [championship].
Lefty Coyle and Eddie Lintz, New York A. C., vs. Joe Goldsmith and Lloyd McGinnis, Pacific club, Long Beach, Cal. [third place].
Jack Schwartz, Washington, D. C., vs. Jack Srenco, St. Louis, Mo. [third place].
Joe Gordon and Andy Berry, Elks club, Los Angeles, vs. Joe Platak and Bob Weiller, Lake Shore A. C. [championship].

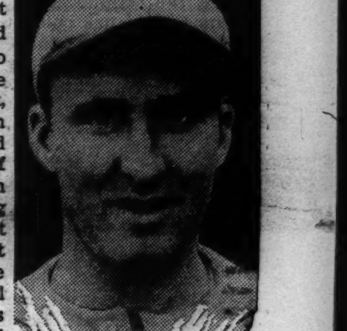
BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Yuma, Ariz., April 2.—The Cubs got around to the performance of a miracle this afternoon. They beat their old Chicago enemies, the White Sox, 1 to 0, in the third battle of their eleven game spring series. It was the first time the National leaguers have slipped over a beating on their city rivals in exactly a year. Since then the American leaguers have registered nine straight victories, and people were beginning to wonder whether the chain ever would be broken.



Rip Collins.

While highly elated over their achievement, the Cubs weren't entitled to shout about the way in which they accomplished it. As hitters they were decidedly feeble. Their net attack was two hits, one a homer by James [Rip] Collins, the ex-Cardinal. The Sox weren't much better. Their total was four hits, all of which were widely scattered.

One Hit Off Kennedy.

There were two reasons for the Cubs not being able to show 1,500 spectators much about the art of hitting. The first reason was Vern Kennedy, who in five innings permitted only one Cub to reach base. That was Collins, who drove the ball over the wall. After that the Cubs, while held to one more hit in three innings, felt better as the result of drawing two passes off Rookie John Rigney. This same pair recently held the Cubs hitless in six innings.

The inability of the Sox to handle Cub pitchers in the customary rough way can be credited partly to Curt Davis, who because of various minor ailments had delayed his spring debut until this occasion. In four innings the Sox hit him twice and drew one pass. The remainder of the Cub pitching job was in the care of Charley Root, and the veteran did nobly, even though pressed in one inning, when his control was shaky.

Frey Proves a Bust.

Manager Grimm's current notion that Linus Frey, the graduate from the daffy Dodger outfit, is going to be the Cubs' regular third baseman didn't enjoy any nourishment in view of what happened during the game. Frey is supposed to be fairly handy with the bat, but the only use he made of it today was to carry it up to the plate and carry it back again. He fanned three times in succession. Frey was also caught napping on a bunt and wasn't especially interested in a leg remover hit in his direction by Steve Mesner, the Sox rookie.

A feature of Kennedy's pitching was his ability to keep the Cubs from hitting fly balls. For three innings they didn't get a ball out of the infield. In the fourth they hit two to the outfielders. In the fifth Collins' homer was the only ball to get past the inner defense. Rigney, who incidentally handled himself like a veteran, restricted the Cubs to two drives to the fly chasers.

Kennedy Beats Out Bunt.

The first of the few Sox who enjoyed a closeup of first base during Davis' régime was Walker. He drew a base on balls with one out, but was given no aid by either Rosenthal or Bonura. The next base runner was Kennedy, who with one out in the third beat out a bunt which Frey

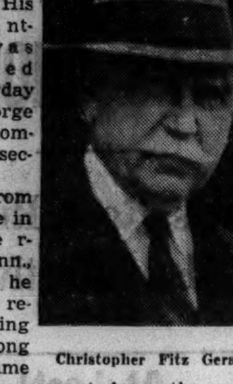
C. J. FITZ GERALD NAMED RACING STEWARD AGAIN

Scramble for $100 a Day Job Ends.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Christopher J. Fitz Gerald is again to be the steward representing the Illinois Racing commission at all tracks in Illinois. His appointment was announced yesterday by George Foster, commission secretary.



Christopher Fitz Gerald.

And from his home in Riverside, Conn., where he has been recuperating from a long illness, came the announcement from the racing official that he had recovered rapidly lately and had accepted the position which he has held for the last three years.

Because of the illness, which followed an operation in a Chicago hospital last fall, the report had spread that Fitz Gerald would give up the $100 a day job.

Wild Scramble for Plum.

A wild scramble for the juicy plum came from many directions. More than 20 persons connected directly or indirectly with racing became active candidates for the position.

Even the racing commission became concerned. The members even had started an investigation into the qualifications of the numerous applicants. This was all ended yesterday when the veteran steward announced that his physicians had told him his health had improved to such an extent that he could accept the post.

Along with the announcement that Fitz Gerald had been reappointed the commission's steward, there came the further announcement that Oscar Bachman also had been reappointed as the commission's supervisor of pari-mutuel and totalizator wagering.

McKillip Veterinarian.

Dr. George B. McKillip of Chicago was reappointed veterinarian to represent the commission.

Fitz Gerald has ruled with an iron hand since he was made the racing commission's steward. It often made him the storm center of considerable turmoil, particularly in the case of John Mikel of Bloomington, who was ruled off the turf for the alleged running of a 3 year old in a 2 year old race. Some of Fitz Gerald's disqualifications for foul tactics in races also brought sharp criticism. He survived these attacks.

Peter B. Carey, chairman of the commission, and the members, Walter B. Peacock and Leo Spitz, all of whom serve without salary, appeared to be happy last night that the situation finally had been put in order.

DERBY WINNER OF 1940 ARRIVES ON KNIGHT FARM

The proudest man in Chicago yesterday was Henry Knight of 1500 Lake Shore drive.

His chest popped way out when he received word from his thoroughbred breeding farm, Almahurst, near Nickolsville, Ky., that one of his brood mares had foaled a bay colt yesterday morning. The sire is St. Germans and the dam is Possible.

You remember a colt called Bold Venture that won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness last year? Of course!

500 ENTERED IN OAK PARK RELAYS TODAY

KENNEL CLUB'S ALL-BREED SHOW WILL OPEN TODAY

Hold Training Class and Field Trials Tomorrow.

BY BOB BECKER.

With the Chicago Kennel club annual all-breed dog show opening this morning at 11 o'clock, and two other dog events also scheduled for the week-end, canine fanciers in Chicagoland have a busy two days ahead of them.

Alex H. Stewart, president of the Kennel club, announces a new feature for the annual show which starts this morning and continues through tomorrow night. This is a dog review under the auspices of the Chicago Charter jubilee. It will feature models attired in period costumes leading dogs fashionable during the period indicated by the costumes. This will be held today and tomorrow at 1 p. m. Following this each day will be an exhibition of trained Dobermanns handled by Willy Necker of Lake Villa.

Multiple entries by Chicago fanciers are numerous in the Chicago Kennel club show. The George F. Henneberrys of Chicago are showing three cocker spaniels, three springer spaniels, two English setters, one champion pointer, and a champion beagle. C. J. Casselman and T. M. Halpin of Chicago have entered an even dozen collies.

In addition to the dog show, which continues through tomorrow night when the best dog in the show will be picked, there are two other dog events on tomorrow's calendar.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock the first meeting of the training class sponsored by the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Club of Illinois will be held in Aurora. The meeting place is the Aurora city hall. This class, unique in dog circles, teaches springer owners how to train their own dogs for hunting or field trials. A. P. Moecher, secretary of the club, is the instructor.

Lewis Stops Barry to Add to His St. Louis Victories

St. Louis, Mo., April 2.—(AP)—John Henry Lewis stretched his St. Louis winning streak to six straight in two years tonight when he was awarded a technical knockout in the fifth round over Donald [Red] Barry of Washington, D. C. Barry managed to stick through four rounds of mauling by the light heavyweight champion, but Referee Tommy Sullivan stopped the fight after two minutes of the fifth round.

Rangers and Maroons Play Again Tonight

MONTREAL, April 2.—(AP)—Only winners of three straight games in the current National Hocky league playoffs, the New York Rangers, will seek to make it four in a row here tomorrow night when they carry on their quest for the Stanley cup against the Montreal Maroons.

The teams will meet in the second game of their best of three semi-final series. If a third game is needed it will be played here Tuesday night. The winner will go up against the Detroit Red Wings, league champion for the second successive season, in the three out of five duel for the cup.

Since the start of the playoffs the Rangers have been consistent underdogs. So far they have refused to pay any attention to the odds.

Walter [Babe] Pratt, 21 year old defense man, has been the offensive star with two game winning goals. Goalie Dave Kerr, a former Maroon, played a big part in turning back first the Toronto Maple Leafs and, last night, his one-time teammates.

Through all three of the Ranger victories has marched one figure obstinately refusing to pay any dues to the passage of time. That's Ivan [Ching] Johnson, veteran of the world war and eleven years of hocky combat.

Unless the Rangers win in two straight, New York has seen its last game of the season.

Little Nineteen Track Teams Battle Today

Ten colleges—Bradley Tech, Augustana, Knox, Wheaton, Elmhurst, De Kalb, Illinois Normal, Illinois Wesleyan, Monmouth, and North Central—are entered in the seventh annual Little 19 conference indoor track and field meet at North Central college in Naperville this afternoon and evening.

North Central, defending champion for the last four years, is a heavy favorite to retain team honors, despite the fact that Jack Lindstrom, consistent point winner in the hurdles and high jump, will be out with a sprained ankle.

Schools conceded an outside chance of scoring an upset victory are Augustana, Illinois State Normal, Illinois Wesleyan, and De Kalb. Events listed are the dash, low and high hurdles, 400, 880, one and two miles, high jump, shot put, pole vault, and 8-11 mile relay.

Points will be awarded on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis. Preliminaries will start at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, with the finals scheduled for 7 o'clock in the evening. The shot put and broad jump will be run off in the afternoon.

CHICAGO GIVEN A. B. C. TOURNEY FOR NEXT YEAR

Musters 312 Votes to 278 for Cleveland.

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—Chicago was awarded the 1938 tournament of the American Bowling Congress at the 37th annual convention tonight. A total of 312 votes was cast for Chicago and 278 for Cleveland, which until today was conceded to hold the strongest hand in the fight for next year's meet. The Buffalo delegation was the only eastern group which backed Chicago solidly.

Chicago was the scene of the first ABC event in 1901 and also was host in 1912, 1924, and 1929. According to the Chicago delegation the 1938 tournament will be held in the Coliseum, starting early next March.

Al Lea, president of the Chicago Bowling association, presented Chicago's bid and letters were read from Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Gov. Henry Horner, and others.

Lattin New President.

Albert C. Lattin of New York succeeded Charles W. Cushing, Peoria, Ill., as president of the A. B. C. At the same time it was decided to table the amendment of H. William Pollack of Buffalo which would double the entry fee and eliminate booster teams.

Chicago bowlers on today's card failed to create any changes among the leaders. Scoring games of 412-399-391, John Quan and Pete Biehl hung up a 1,202 total to top the Chicagoans in the doubles. John Johansen's 639 was best among the Chicagoans in the singles.

Budweisers Get 2,863.

The Budweisers rolled 2,863, best of the sextet of Chicago teams, including three Illinois A. C. entries, which were busy tonight.

Marshall Matz, member of the Waggoner Stations of Chicago shot high game of the tourney. He brought the crowd to its feet when he opened with eleven consecutive strikes and then left the 1-2-4 pins on his final shot for a 297 score.

2 REPORTERS FIND 18 BALL PLAYERS JUST TOO TOUGH

Tampa, Fla., April 2.—(AP)—Eighteen members of the St. Louis Cardinals and two sports writers mixed it up in a clash in the lobby of the Tampa Terrace hotel here tonight. After it was over Jack Miley, columnist of the New York News, had a minor scalp wound and Irving Kupcinet of the Chicago Daily Times nursed a black eye.

Patrons of the hotel, including the Cincinnati baseball team which makes headquarters there, who saw the mêlée, said the Cardinal party was led by Jerome Dizzy Dean. Mike Gonzales, veteran coach of the St. Louis team, got the credit for stopping the row.

From various accounts of the brawl the Cardinals voiced objections to something which had been written by Miley.

Cubs and Sox Play Phoenix Game Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Yuma, Ariz., April 2.—Bill Dietrich and John Whitehead will pitch for the White Sox tomorrow in the opener of the two game series with the Cubs in Phoenix. Larry French and Bill Lee will work for the Cubs.

Yuma, said to be the hottest and driest town in the regular daily list supplied by the United States weather bureau, did not support its reputation in that regard today. It was pleasantly cool and a few drops of rain fell during the second inning.

George Hildebrand, for many years an American league umpire, who is the proprietor of a resort hotel in Brawley, Cal., attended today's game. He's the picture of health.

When Jim Collins knocked his homer in the fifth it was the first time in any full inning in ten games that the Cubs had been ahead of the Sox. Vernon Kennedy had two badly missed strikes on Collins before he socked his homer, the only Cub hit off Kennedy in eight innings this spring.

MAJOR LEAGUES CALLED A TRUST; INQUIRY URGED

Cannon Asks U. S. to Look Into "Monopoly."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—The department of justice was asked today by Representative Raymond J. Cannon [D., Wis.] to conduct an investigation to determine whether club control over baseball players amounts to an organized baseball monopoly, which would constitute violation of the anti-trust laws.

R. J. Cannon.

Cannon, a Milwaukee lawyer, assailed the handling of player contracts in organized baseball as a monopoly. The Wisconsin representative earned his way through Marquette university law school by playing professional baseball in the Illinois-Wisconsin league and after admission to the bar, at the age of 21, in 1915, was given tryouts by the Chicago Cubs, Philadelphia Phillies, and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Points to Club Agreements.

In a public letter to Attorney General Cummings he said an agreement exists between all clubs that no club owner will hire or engage the services of any baseball player if he is unable to reach an agreement with the club with which he has been playing.

"This combination has made it possible for the magnates to dictate and impose upon the players such terms as they desire," the letter said.

Only Publicize Big Salaries.

"In order to hoodwink and mislead the baseball public, the baseball magnates each year permit the publication in the press of the salaries of two or three outstanding players on each team, but refuse to let the sporting writers know what salaries they are paying all of the other players; that is, the hard working, every day ball player who renders services in behalf of the magnates during the best years of his life."

Cannon said he called Cummings' attention to the situation "to show you how daring, brazen, and bold this band of tyrannical club owners have become."

POLO TEAMS TO DECIDE WESTERN TITLES TONIGHT

Two western indoor polo championships will be settled tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street.

The opening game will send the Chicago Shamrocks against the 1st Cleveland Cavalry, winners in their respective circuits, for the right to represent the west against the east in the Sherman cup class for teams rating five goals or less.

In the second game, the Detroit Gold Hats, conquerors of the 122d Field Artillery in the semi-final, will meet the Cleveland Riding club in the junior or 6 to 12 goal division. The Cleveland team drew a bye in the three cornered title battle.

Veterans to Play.

Two members of last year's national championship Shamrocks, Capt. Les Ireland and Lieut. Chris Schuh, will be with the Shamrocks again tonight.

In goal ratings, the Shamrocks and Cleveland are evenly matched man for man. Lieuts. Bill Kirby and W. A. Weaver are one goal players. Capt. Ireland and Dr. F. C. Kadow are rated at two. So are Lieut. Schuh and Maj. O. I. Gaites.

Detroit at 10 Goals.

Lieut. Weaver and Dr. Kadow are newcomers to local polo fans, but Maj. Gaites played here for Cleveland in the 1933 national tournament.

Detroit, a 10 goal combination, will give away two points to their eight goal Cleveland opponents. The Detroit lineup will be the same as downed the 122d Field Artillery by 9 to 8 in the semi-final Thursday.

TRAIN ON NORTH SHORE SMASHES AUTO; 3 INJURED

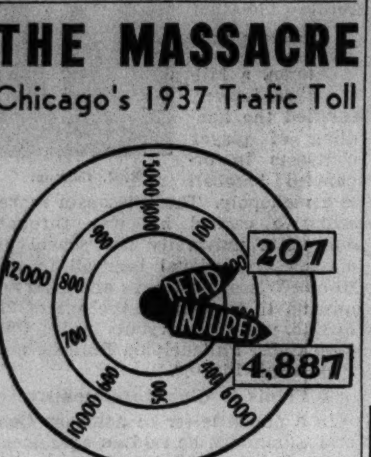
Mrs. Robert Tieken and 2 Children Escape Death.

Mrs. Dorothy Tieken, wife of Attorney Robert Tieken, and her two children, Linda Meyer, 13 years old, and Husted Meyer, 9, escaped death yesterday afternoon when a five car North Shore line electric train struck their automobile at the Westleigh road crossing in Lake Forest.

The train, traveling at 70 miles an hour, hit the rear end of the automobile and flung it into a ditch. Mrs. Tieken and her daughter were thrown from the car. The mother received a broken nose and severe bruises, and the daughter, hip and knee injuries. The boy was only slightly hurt.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1937 Trafic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Treated in Hospital.

After being treated in Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest they were taken to their home on the Belvedere road five miles north of Libertyville. Mrs. Tieken is the daughter of former Judge Theodore Brentano.

Palm Dietrich, 9 years old, 173 Hill street, was critically injured yesterday when he roller skated into the side of a truck in front of 201 Hill street. He was taken to Henrotin hospital. The truck driver, Nicholas Riccio, 23 years old, 817 South Bishop street, was not held by the police.

Hugh Williams, 87 years old, who was planning to return to Belmont, Wis., today after visiting relatives at 4446 North Austin avenue, was critically injured last night when he was struck by a hit and run automobile at Austin and Montrose avenues. Williams was taken to the County hospital.

Four Hurt in Collision.

Four young persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, in a collision of two cars at Elston, Damen, and Fullerton avenues early today. They were Miss Helen Kieduck, 23 years old, 1620 North Bell avenue; Andrew Bik, 21, of 1326 Cortez street; his brother Frank, 21, of 1432 Augusta boulevard, and Miss Anna Kopis, 19, of 1430 Augusta boulevard. Miss Kieduck suffered a skull fracture and may die. All received first aid from Dr. Herman Schneider, 2405 Elston avenue. They were returning from a party when their car was struck and overturned by a car driven by Ted Smigielski, 21, of 2237 Montana street.

Unhurt in Viaduct Crash.

Patrick Rice, 23 years old, 3018 South Tripp avenue, narrowly escaped without injury early yesterday when his automobile crashed through a guard railing of the Pulaski road viaduct over the Santa Fe railroad tracks at 37th street and Pulaski road. The machine skidded to the side, jamming the front wheels between two telephone poles and leaving the rear wheels suspended over the tracks 30 feet below. Rice, who was able to climb out, said that another car had forced him through the rail.

No motor fatalities were reported to the coroner's office during the 48 hour period ending at 4 p. m. yesterday. At that time a total of 257 persons were killed in motor accidents in the county since Jan. 1. In the same period 207 were killed and 4,887 injured in automobile accidents in Chicago.

What he allegedly did with the gun led to his arrest yesterday and the arrests also of his girl friend, Jerry Le Blanc, 18 years old, and of Anton Antonpoulos, also 18, and Peter Arhontas, 36, of 1928 Sheffield avenue.

According to police, Pecones and Miss Le Blanc confessed several holdups. They named Antonpoulos as an accomplice, and Arhontas as the man who had sold them three revolvers found in Pecones' room.

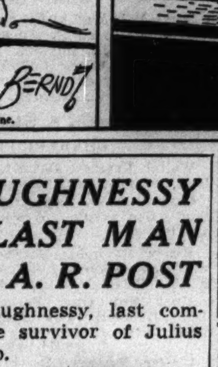
T. O'SHAUGHNESSY DIES; LAST MAN OF G. A. R. POST

Thomas O'Shaughnessy, last commander and sole survivor of Julius White post, No. 740 of the G. A. R., died last night in his home at 3425 Adams street. He was 95 years old on March 24.



Thomas O'Shaughnessy.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy, who was born in London, England, served with the 44th Massachusetts infantry in the civil war. He came to Chicago more than 60 years ago. Long active in Republican politics, he was appointed appraiser of the port of Chicago by President Theodore Roosevelt, retiring in 1914.

As the years passed membership of the Julius White G. A. R. post dwindled until, on Feb. 3, 1929, Commander O'Shaughnessy waited in vain for some one to join him in the meeting hall. He thereupon mailed the post's charter to national headquarters.

He is survived by three sons—Richard, who is in the coal business here; John, vice president of the Mercantile Trust and Savings bank, and Thomas, who lives in New York—and five daughters, Mrs. Mary McDonald, Mrs. Elizabeth McCoy, and Miss Margaret O'Shaughnessy of Chicago, and Mrs. George Coleman and Mrs. F. STUDY LEGALITY OF PLAN TO MOVE AIRPORT TRACKS

Purchase and Sale of Right of Way Involved.

Enlargement of the Chicago airport awaits solution of a legal problem, believed to be the last obstacle hindering removal of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tracks, Mayor Edward J. Kelly declared yesterday.

On an extension of 59th street, the C. & W. I. right of way bisects the mile square tract available for a city airfield. These tracks have crowded the airport facilities into one corner of the area.

Under the latest plan, the mayor disclosed, the city proposes to buy a half interest in the right of way of the Indiana Harbor Belt line railroad along 54th street. In exchange for its right of way across the airport and a cash consideration, the city will then turn over this half interest in the belt line to the C. & W. I.

The present belt line right of way was acquired by condemnation of private property. The question now, according to the mayor, is whether a part of this right of way can be sold legally by the railroad for the eventual use of another.

City representatives and railroad attorneys, Mayor Kelly said, are examining the actual condemnation proceedings to determine if there is any clause which might prevent this transaction.

"Both railroads have indicated they will approve this plan if it's found to be all right," said the mayor.

An alternative plan was for the C. & W. I. to lease track rights from the belt line. This fell through when possible difficulties were foreseen in establishing leasehold rights.

CORN, SOY BEANS CLIMB 4 CENTS, LIMIT FOR DAY

Buying Rush Drives Prices Upward.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Yesterday's closing prices on grain for delivery in May, with comparisons, follow:

	Yes'd'y.	Thurs.	Wk.ago.	Mo.ago.
Wheat	$1.43	$1.41⅝	*	$1.35⅝
Corn	1.35⅝	1.31⅝	*	1.08
Oats	.49⅞	.49½	*	.48½
Rye	1.15⅝	1.13½	*	1.06¾
Soy beans	1.71	1.67	*	1.53½

*Holiday.

May corn and soy beans yesterday advanced 4 cents a bushel, the maximum permitted for one day under exchange regulations, with corn selling at the highest level since March, 1925.

Shipping sales of 450,000 bushels of cash corn and prospects that local stocks might be reduced about 750,000 bushels for the week caused a rush of buying. The highest price level of the day was established at the close. Deferred futures of corn closed 2¾ cents a bushel higher.

The bid price on soy beans for May delivery opened 4 cents a bushel higher and remained at $1.71 through the day, but no offerings were made at that price. A sale of a small lot of beans for delivery in October, which represents the new crop, was made at $1.32 a bushel.

Other Grains Advance.

Strength in corn had considerable effect on other grains. Wheat closed 1⅜ cents higher, while gains on oats were ⅜ cent and in rye ranged upward to 2⅛ cents a bushel.

Estimates by Chicago statisticians suggesting farm reserves of only 381,000,000 bushels of cash corn on April 1, the smallest holding during the eleven years for which records are available, were said to have caused a stampede on the part of consumers to cover their requirements of cash corn. Within the last week shipping sales reported by Chicago handlers have aggregated 850,000 bushels. Total stocks of corn in Chicago a week ago were 2,617,000 bushels.

Despite the advance of 17¾ cents a bushel in the May delivery of corn in Chicago there has been comparatively little domestic grain bought for deferred shipment from the country.

Farmers Retain Corn.

Failure of farmers to sell freely, it is said, has added to the strength of the market. Some traders yesterday expressed the belief that May corn had "cornered" itself. At the opening of business yesterday there was a total of 10,630,000 bushels of uncompleted contracts in the May delivery.

A revival in the foreign demand for cash wheat with reports indicating international purchases had aggregated around 2,000,000 bushels, including 650,000 bushels of Canadian said to have been sold by English interests to France for transhipment to Spain, had considerable influence on the world markets. Winnipeg advanced as much as 2¾ cents a bushel on futures, while Liverpool was unchanged to ½ cent higher. Buenos Aires developed a much stronger undertone and was 2 cents higher at the time American markets closed.

Weakness in stocks had a depressing effect on wheat early, but that factor was largely disregarded in the later trading.

A membership on the Chicago Board of Trade was sold yesterday for $5,400, net to buyer. The last such transfer was for $5,200.

LABOR STRIFE CUTS WEEK'S AUTO OUTPUT

Widespread labor difficulties in the automobile industry resulted in a decline in production this week, estimates of two leading statistical agencies disclosed yesterday.

Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., placed output at 96,710 cars and trucks, compared with 101,115 last week, and 106,325 in the same 1936 period. Cram's Reports, Inc., estimated assemblies at 99,425, against 101,946 and 108,426, respectively.

Cram's placed General Motors' production at 51,800, against 53,635 last week; Ford unchanged at 34,800. Ward's estimated 48,925 for General Motors, against 52,785, and 32,825 for Ford, against 32,450.

Offers Bill to Cut Rate on Loans to Home Owners

Washington, D. C., April 2.—(AP)—Representative Henry Ellenbogen, Pittsburgh Democrat, introduced a bill today to amend the Home Owners' Loan act by reducing the rate of interest from 5 to 3½ per cent and extending the time of maturity to 25 years, instead of the present 15 years. Ellenbogen said unless refinancing rates and terms are liberalized, "we will have a repetition of the home distress which HOLC was created to abolish."

Estate of Marshall Field Buys Property in Berwyn

The estate of Marshall Field yesterday purchased from the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, the northwest corner of Cermak road and Oak Park avenue, in Berwyn, for a reported $137,500. The 109x125 property is improved with a one story terra cotta front building containing ten stores. The Walgreen company and the Jewel Tea company occupy double stores.

Dawes Visions U.S. Near Peak of Prosperity

BY WILLIAM YATES.

This year and next will probably witness the peak years in the present period of prosperity, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the City National Bank and Trust company and former Vice President of the United States, asserted yesterday.

Gen. Dawes.

Addressing a regional conference in the Palmer house of the Robert Morris associates, an organization of bank credit officials, on the policy of trust investments in common stocks, Dawes said that responbilities of a greater magnitude than ever before now rest upon trustees in connection with common stock holdings or proposed purchases.

"When I say now," he said, "I am referring to this year and next, which two years will probably cover the peak years in this present period of prosperity."

Advises Shift to Bonds.

It is now the part of wisdom, he continued, for those trustees who during the depression purchased common stocks because of the existing unprecedentedly low interest rates on prime bonds and mortgages, to change their common stock purchases into good bonds and mortgages.

"That the interest rate on the latter," he added, "is bound in the natural course of events to rise, is as certain as the present market price for stocks on the average will be lower in the not too distant future."

Dawes declined to amplify his statement as to what period is encompassed in "not too distant future."

Hints of Lower Stock Prices.

"The wise trustee," he continued, "must realize that the indefinite retention in a trust portfolio of an assortment of common stocks inevitably means in the course of time a considerably lower range of market values compared with those of this particular period of prosperity.

"Many a trustee will fare better in the long run by losing interest in keeping investment funds in cash until interest rates on prime securities have their inevitable rise, than by investing in stocks at their present range of prices. One of the Rothschilds once said he had made his fortune because he discovered there are times when one should not try to make money."

Hear Other Speakers.

Henry H. Heimann, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, told the meeting that labor in the near future will be assured certain rights frequently denied in the past but it will likewise have certain responsibilities to business and the general welfare, and will be answerable for its conducts.

The group also heard Warren H. Sapp, general manager of Armour & Co., who discussed packing house practices; Arnold B. Keller, treasurer of International Harvester company, "The Sinews of Agriculture;" Arthur W. Newton, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, who discussed conditions in the automobile finance business, and Richard I. Mansfield, a director of the Chicago Board of Trade, who described the technique in the grain trade.

BRITISH REFINER OPPOSES CUT IN SUGAR OUTPUT

LONDON, April 2.—(AP)—Sir Leonard Lyle, one of Britain's leading sugar refiners, opposed curtailment of sugar production tonight on the eve of an international conference to seek stabilization of the industry. Such a policy, he said, would cause Britain's colonies to depend on treasury subsidization "for all time."

His views were expressed as delegates from twenty-two countries gathered for formal opening of the conference Monday.

Sir Leonard warned that any limitation of output would make the producers depend upon increased prices as a source of profit rather than upon increasing economies effected by large scale production. He cited figures to support his contention there is no need for artificial control of the industry because the free play of natural forces is gradually causing a decline in available sugar stocks.

CHICAGO CUSTOM RECEIPTS GAIN OVER YEAR AGO

Customs receipts for the Chicago district in March totaled $1,630,846, compared with $1,315,779 in February and $1,262,224 in March, last year, Joseph A. Ziemba, collector of customs for the Chicago port, announced yesterday.

No particular commodity accounted for the improvement over last month and last year, as increased collections have been well spread out over the general list, the collector said. Customs receipts here have shown a steady month to month climb during the last half year.

Mattress Manufacturers Purchase Chicago Plant

Ostermoor & Co. of Bridgeport, Conn., mattress makers, yesterday purchased the two story building at 2317-19 Calumet avenue, containing 36,000 square feet, from the Tung Sol Lamp Works, Inc. Building and contemplated improvements will represent a reported investment of $65,000. Frederick E. Hummell & Co. and Drake Realty company were brokers.

American Car to Pay Senior Stock Dividend

The American Car and Foundry company, a leading manufacturer of railroad equipment, yesterday resumed preferred dividends after a lapse of nearly five years with declaration of a $4 payment to be disbursed April 20 to holders of record April 13. A number of other corporations also announced dividend declarations.

Charles J. Hardy, president of American Car and Foundry, indicated in a letter to stockholders announcing the preferred declaration that payment of a dividend on the common might not be far off. The last previous payment on the 7 per cent preferred issue was $1.75, disbursed July 1, 1932, and nothing has been paid on the common since a 25 cent dividend on Oct. 1, 1931.

Seek to Avoid New Tax.

The preferred payment, which aggregates $1,200,000, represents the present estimate of net profits for the fiscal year ending April 30, 1937, Hardy said. He pointed out that in order to secure credit against the undistributed profits tax checks must be in the hands of stockholders before April 30 and thus the declaration had to be based on estimates rather than actually determined earnings.

Directors of Niagara Hudson Power corporation declared a special dividend of $25.09 on the second preferred 5 per cent series B stock. The declaration was made, directors said, in accordance with terms of the certificate of consolidation forming the new Niagara Hudson Power corporation and eliminating the Mohawk-Hudson Power corporation, an intermediate holding company subsidiary, from the system through absorption.

Pays Dividends in Arrears.

The dividend, payable May 1 to holders of record April 15, makes final provision for payment in full of all dividends accumulated and not paid on shares of the second preferred stock of Mohawk Hudson Power to the date of consolidation, Feb. 1, 1937.

Initial quarterly dividends of $1.25 a share each also were declared by Niagara Hudson Power directors on the first preferred, series A second preferred and series B second preferred stocks.

The Birtman Electric company, Chicago, declared an extra dividend of 2 cents and a regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, also a regular quarter dividend of $1.75 cents on the 7 per cent preferred stock.

Atlantic Coast Fisheries company resumed common dividend payments with declaration of 35 cents. The last payment was made in June, 1930.

Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd., declared an extra dividend of 5 cents and the regular monthly dividend of 5 cents.

BURRY BISCUIT COMPANY PLANS ENGLISH PLANT

George W. Burry, president of the Burry Biscuit corporation, yesterday announced that the concern has purchased a site for a biscuit baking plant near London, England, and will enter the English market as soon as construction work can be completed.

A site for a second factory in the Midlands, England, also is being considered, Burry said.

The concern now has bakeries in Chicago and in Linden, N. J. No previous attempt has been made to expand operations outside the United States, Burry said. The company now operates throughout eastern and central United States through its own sales organization and through the Educator Biscuit company, a subsidiary.

Expect Big Rail Shipments of Iron Ore to Gary Mills

Superior, Wis., April 2.—[Special.]—Nearly 3,000,000 tons of iron ore will be shipped by rail from Superior to steel mills at Gary, Ind., this season, Great Northern officials announced here today. Shipment by rail will be necessary because demands for steel are so great that boats on the Great Lakes will be unable to handle tonnage speedily enough to take care of the mills' needs, it was pointed out. Superior is looking forward to the greatest ore shipping season in history with total shipments expected to reach 24,000,000 tons.

PIT GONG WILL START CHICAGO GRAIN BOARD ON 90TH YEAR TODAY

When the big gong in the Chicago Board of Trade which regulates trading hours is sounded this morning it will launch the exchange on its 90th year of operation. The exchange was founded April 3, 1848, by a group of citizens who sought to provide a market for farmers' grain, just then commencing to flow from the newly broken prairies around Chicago.

Richard I. Mansfield, a director of the exchange, in discussing its history, said that crude wagons, even ox carts, then brought the grain to the muddy village of Chicago from the even more muddy morasses of the prairie trails. They would find a spot near some sidewalk and the farmers would offer the grain for sale.

Unscrupulous sharpers took advantage of the situation, the lack of market facilities and price information, to fleece the sellers, thus giving Chicago a bad name commercially.

It was to correct this situation that the group of men gathered on March 13, 1848, to discuss the needs of a central market and plan a way to meet them. The result was the founding of the Board of Trade a few weeks later.

INCOME TAXES RUN 140 MILLION UNDER ESTIMATE

Washington, D. C., April 2.—(AP)—The treasury's March income tax receipts totaled $700,372,831, an increase of 69 per cent over the same month last year. It was about $140,000,000 short of informal estimates, however.

The treasury statement for March 31 showed that all receipts for the first nine months of this fiscal year aggregated $3,726,449,453, an increase of $628,469,615 over the same period a year ago. Gross expenditures also climbed, standing at $5,520,989,140, or $183,871,791 over a year ago.

The higher total spending represented an increase in general governmental outlays which were offset, in part, by a reduction in emergency expenditures.

General expenditures for the period this year totaled $3,386,007,605, compared with $2,906,809,460 a year ago, the increase resulting from larger outlays under the social security act, river and harbor programs, national defense activities, and inclusion of emergency conservation work in the "regular" budget.

Spending for "recovery and relief" totaled $2,134,974,534 for the nine months, compared with $2,430,300,889 last year.

The deficits for the respective periods were $1,792,532,687 and $2,237,130,510.

EUROPEAN STEEL MEN TOO BUSY TO ATTEND MEETING

New York, April 2.—(AP)—Rearmament programs abroad have so pushed the European steel industry that its leaders have no time to attend conventions, it was indicated today.

The American Institute of Steel Construction, which was to have acted as host, announced that "owing to the extreme pressure of business, combined with the emergency work which is being undertaken in Europe," the sixth international congress for steel development, which was to have met here in June, had been canceled.

The request for cancellation came from the steel industries abroad. No date or place for the postponed meeting has been named.

Elevated Lines Report Another Drop in Trafic

The Chicago Rapid Transit company yesterday reported a decline of 0.62 per cent in travel on the elevated lines in March as compared with March, 1936. In February 10.48 per cent fewer passengers were carried on the "L" than in February of last year.

Chicago Phone Stations Rise to Recovery Peak

Preliminary figures show a total of 914,561 telephones in use in Chicago at the close of March, an increase of 5,098 in the month. This is the twentieth consecutive month in which a gain has been shown, placing the total at a new peak since recovery began.

Rail Freight Sets Another High for Year

A new 1937 high mark in the railroad freight movement in the United States was reached last week for the fourth successive week, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

A total of 761,109 cars was loaded during the period from March 21 to March 27, inclusive, topping the record of the preceding week by 1,840 cars, or 0.24 per cent. Last week's total was 166,390 cars, or 27.96 per cent above the corresponding week in 1936, when freight trafic was reduced by floods in the east and dust storms in the west. The increase over the like week in 1935 was 144,589 cars, or 23.45 per cent.

The rise was contraseasonal. In the classified freight report only three types showed gains over the week ended March 20, but these three were sufficient to more than offset declines in the other lines.

Loadings of various classifications of freight, with comparisons for the preceding week and a year ago, follow:

	Last week.	—Change from— Prec. wk.	Yr. ago.
Miscellaneous	318,490	+4,448	+56,231

TWO COMPANIES ANNOUNCE 10 PCT. WAGE INCREASES

A wage increase of 10 per cent in the hourly rate of employés of the York Ice Machinery corporation, York, Pa., was announced yesterday. It affects approximately 1,700 workers and becomes effective tomorrow. Last Dec. 13, the company hiked hourly wage rates 5 cents an hour.

A wage increase of approximately 10 per cent to 3,000 employés was announced by the Union Electric Light and Power company, St. Louis. The increase will amount to more than $700,000 a year.

Seven hundred union cabinet makers received a wage increase from 75 cents to 82½ cents an hour under an agreement between the St. Louis Cabinet Manufacturers' association and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

The petition said the company is unable to meet its debts as they mature. Phillips Petroleum company's profits for the first quarter of this year were estimated above $5,250,000, or better than $1.20 a share, which compared with $3,156,159, or 76 cents a share, in the first quarter of last year.

Perfect Circle company reported net income of $557,842, or $3.43 a share, against $239,655, or $1.47 a share, in 1935.

Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Ltd., and subsidiaries reported net profit of $2,701,876 in Canadian funds for the quarter ended Jan. 31, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $1.44 a share on the common stock. This compared with $1,859,642, or $1.07 a share, in the preceding quarter.

White Rock Reports Gain.

Net income of White Rock Mineral Springs company for 1936 was $448,655, or $1.42 a share on the common after preferred dividends, compared with $427,626, or $1.33 a share, in 1935.

The final report of the Great Northern Railway company for 1936 confirmed the preliminary net income figure of $9,873,547, or $3.98 a share, against $7,109,367, or $2.87 a share, in 1935.

W. P. Kenney, president, said that the increase in net income was accounted for chiefly by a reduction of $1,455,103 in interest and other fixed charges, and an increase of $1,232,860 in income from sources other than operation of its own lines. He said that after 1937 refinancing has been completed, interest charges on the funded debt will be $4,695,663 less per year than in 1933 and the net reduction in funded debt since Jan. 1, 1933, will be $18,876,600.

Foreigner Sees U.S. Worker Independent, Boss a Slave

Dallas, Tex., April 2.—(AP)—Jan Bata of Czechoslovakia, head of one of the world's largest shoe factories, said here on his tour of the United States that the "American worker is independent but the American industrialist is a slave."

VanSweringen Estate Moves to Regain Rails

Cleveland, O., April 2.—(AP)—J. Paul Thompson, receiver for the partnership estate of the late O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, announced late today he had served formal demand on George A. Ball and George A. Tomlinson that they "protect his right" to purchase controling interest in Midamerica corporation through exercise of a purchase option they gave the Van Sweringens at the time Midamerica was organized.

This demand, Thompson said, was a preliminary to filing of a suit by him within the next week for a court order directing Ball and Tomlinson to sell to him control of Midamerica under terms of the option.

Appointed to Protect Creditors.

Thompson is a court-appointed receiver to protect the interests of creditors of the Van Sweringen partnership. Among these creditors are the liquidators of the Union Trust company, Guardian Trust company, and Midland Bank of Cleveland, and New York banks with whom the Van Sweringens dealt in their financial operations.

This development came on the heels of reports here and in New York that Ball, who owns 90 per cent of Midamerica, was negotiating for sale of the top holding corporation of the Van Sweringen railroad system which he and Tomlinson formed after buying at auction control of the Van Sweringen enterprises in September, 1935.

May Fear Estate Tax.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today that Ball may visualize the three billion dollar system "as a potential liability instead of an asset to his estate."

The paper said, "It was thought possible that Ball, a multimillionaire without his Van Sweringen empire, had given serious consideration to what might happen if an inheritance tax were levied against his Midamerica fortune.

"His Midamerica stock, naturally, is not cash, but an inheritance tax which in this case would be enormous would have to be paid in cash. To make such a payment possible, it undoubtedly would be necessary to sell or liquidate Midamerica."

Tomlinson said the option provided that the 8,250 shares of Mid-America common would be placed in escrow by Ball and himself to be repurchased within a 10 year period by the Van Sweringens or whichever of the brothers survived, at the original cost of the shares plus 5 per cent interest per year.

It also provided, he said, that he and Ball should be satisfied before purchase by the Van Sweringens that the brothers had cleared themselves of their burdensome indebtedness.

CLOTHING FIRM TO HOLD GOLDEN JUBILEE DINNER

Hart, Schaffner and Marx will observe their fiftieth anniversary with a golden jubilee dinner tomorrow night at the Palmer house. The firm was founded in 1887, although it had its real beginning in 1871, when Harry and Max Hart opened a tailoring business on Clark street. More than 200 leading clothing merchants are expected to attend the dinner as guests.

Speakers will include Bruce Barton, chairman of the Batton, Barton, Durstine and Osborn Advertising agency; Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America; B. J. Cahn, president of B. Kuppenheimer & Co., and C. D. Southard, vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Mark Cresap, chairman and president of Hart, Schaffner and Marx, will preside.

AVIATION CORP. REPORTS LARGE GAIN IN ORDERS

The Aviation corporation had aircraft deliveries and unfilled orders of $4,850,000 for the first four months of its 1937 fiscal year, which will end Nov. 30, L. B. Manning, president, reported yesterday.

The deliveries and unfilled orders represent an increase of approximately 38 per cent over sales for the entire preceding eleven months, he said. The company has changed its fiscal year from a year-end basis of Dec. 31 to Nov. 30.

Present bookings on hand, Manning said, include substantial orders from the United States army and navy, several prominent foreign governments, air transport operators, and commercial and private owners throughout the world.

GEN. MOTORS' PROFIT LARGEST SINCE 1929 BOOM

Earns $5.35 a Share on Common Stock.

The General Motors corporation in 1936 had a net income of $238,482,425, equal to $5.35 a common share after preferred dividends, the annual report issued last night disclosed. This was the largest profit since 1929.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr.

In the preceding year the company had a net income of $167,226,510, or $3.70 a common share. In other recent years the company earned as follows: 1934, $94,940,771; 1933, $83,213,676; 1932, $164,979; 1931, $96,877,107; 1930, $153,766,247; 1929, $245,970,393, and 1928, $272,344,270.

Unit sales last year established a new high for the company, totaling 2,037,690 cars and trucks, against 1,715,688 for 1935, and the previous high of 1,899,267 for 1929.

Dollar Volume Below Record.

Dollar value of General Motors products sold, however, was below the records established in the two pre-depression years of 1928 and 1929. The net wholesale value of merchandise sold was $1,439,289,940, an increase of 24.5 per cent over the $1,155,641,511 for 1935, but under the $1,459,762,906 for 1928, and the $1,504,404,472 for 1929.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the corporation, in his report to the 342,384 stockholders said that in 1936 the general upward trend of industrial activity was reflected throughout substantially all of the corporation's operations, both at home and abroad.

"Sales of new motor cars to consumers in 1936, measured by new car and truck registrations recovered in the United States to 91.1 per cent of the pre-depression maximum, and in the world at large to 91.4 per cent," he said.

Effect of Surplus Tax.

Sloan reported that $202,081,519 had been distributed as dividends to both classes of stockholders in 1936, amounting to $5 a share on the preferred stock and $4.50 a share on the common. There was retained in the business for its protection and expansion $36,400,906, or 85 cents a common share.

"In order to do this," said Sloan, "it was necessary to pay additional taxes, as a penalty, in the amount of $2,395,283 [surtax on undistributed profits]." Cash and cash items at the close of the year were $195,658,172. Net working capital was $339,686,551.

Sloan said nothing directly concerning strikes within the plants but asserted that the 1936 average earnings of General Motors workers had a purchasing power approximately 29 per cent larger than in 1929. The average annual earnings of hourly paid employés during 1936 were 7 per cent higher than in 1929, while the cost of living in the United States was about 17 per cent lower than in 1929, he pointed out.

Sees Limit to Wages.

"The wage level," Sloan asserted, "should be as high as practically possible. On the other hand, the wage level of the automotive industry cannot continue to rise faster than the wage level of other industries generally without forcing the prices of automotive products to a point where many consumers will be unable to continue buying, with the inevitable result that production and employment in this industry will have to be curtailed."

The company's pay rolls for 1936 amounted to $385,153,022, an increase of $56,475,398 over the amount paid in 1935. The average number of employés on the pay roll during the year was 230,572, an increase of 18,860, or 8.9 per cent over that for 1935.

Taxes for 1936 totaled $91,150,000, equal to $440 per employé, compared with $63,150,000, or $334 per employé in 1935. These figures Sloan pointed out, include only the taxes definitly ascertainable. For each dollar of pay roll in 1936 the company paid taxes of 25 cents, compared with 21 cents per dollar of pay roll in 1935.

Of the 342,384 stockholders at the close of 1936, the report said that more than 91 per cent owned 100 shares or less of the common stock.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, April 2.—(AP)—United States government bonds turned up in a brisk rally today and most issues finished higher. Elsewhere, however, prices continued to slide, carrying many corporate loans to new lows for the year.

Whether President Roosevelt's warning on prices of some basic commodities had a direct bearing on the treasury list rally was not apparent as the market did not make an immediate clear cut response.

Federal loans yielded to further selling in early trading, some losing as much as ½ point, but braced for the rally which gathered headway toward the close. Final gains ranged from 1-32 to ¾ of a point, with several closing a little off.

Carriers closed sharply lower and most industrial issues were easier.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading on the Chicago Stock exchange was light yesterday and the price trend was downward. More than half of the 130 issues traded, or 77, closed at losses for the day. Volume was to 53,000 shares.

Common stock of Chicago corporation provided the principal trading, 5,300 shares, but closed unchanged for the day at 5¾. Utah Radio dipped ⅛, Consolidated Biscuit ⅝, and Northwest Bancorporation ⅜. General Finance rose ⅛ point.

Bank Stocks.

Continental Illinois common stock rose $3 a share in the Chicago bank stock market yesterday, and First National dipped $2 to $3 a share as quoted by various dealers. Harris Trust and Merchandise Bank and Trust were unchanged to $5 higher. Chicago Title and Trust was unchanged to $5 lower.

LARD

Stocks of cash lard in cold storage at seven leading western packing points increased 12,168,000 pounds in March and totaled 149,169,000 pounds, a new record holding for this season of the year. A year ago supplies totaled 43,721,000 pounds. The effect of the eastern demand for ham was shown in a reduction of over 10,000,000 pounds in that commodity during the last month. Stocks of all cut meats of 225,498,000 pounds showed a decrease of 10,306,000 pounds in March and compared with 148,154,000 pounds a year ago.

Holders of May lard contracts were on the selling side of the market yesterday due to the increase in lard stocks. Closing trades were at net losses of 5 to 7½ cents. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed unchanged to 7½c higher. Cash lard was quoted at $12.17½; loose, $11.45; leaf, $11.37½, and clear bellies at $16.25 per 100 pounds. Prices per 100 pounds follow:

Commodities

Live Stock.

Weakness prevailed in all branches of the live stock and meat markets yesterday despite continued light receipts at the stock yards. Widespread strikes and rapidly increasing imports, chiefly of pork products, were believed to be the main causes of the lack of demand on recent sessions. Beef sold as much as 50 cents per hundred pounds lower, veal and pork as much as $1 lower, and lamb meat $1.50 lower. Declines were sharpest in the east in all meats.

Buying of meat animals reflected the condition of the wholesale meat trade and some commission men locked live stock up for next week's selling rather than accept further declines. A few scattered lots of choice 190 to 330 pound hogs held steady, but other hogs were weak to 10 cents lower.

The top moved down 5 cents to $10.20, but few sold above $10.10. The average of $9.90 compared with $10.30 Friday of last week.

Lambs sold steady to 25 cents lower, the bulk of the crop of wool stock bringing $12.25 to $12.35, with top city butchers at $12.65.

The clearance in the cattle trade was the most unsatisfactory in many months, most of the meager supply of steers on the market going over unsold on weak to unevenly lower bids. No top grades wer offered. Beef cows, hefers, canners, and cutters met narrow demand at lower rates. Calves slumped 25 to 50 cents.

Butter, Eggs.

A decline of 1½ to 2 cents a pound in the spot butter market led to increased pressure on futures on the Mercantile exchange yesterday with the close ¼ cent lower on April. November contracts were unchanged at 31¾ cents a pound. Sales were 23 cars.

Egg futures declined early, but rallied later with the close ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower, the former on October, which finished at 26⅝ cents a dozen. Sales, 100 cars. There were no trades in frozen egg futures with whole frozen $18.15 bid and $18.45 asked. Trade estimates indicate production of frozen and liquid eggs this year will total 210,000,000 pounds, a record figure.

Reports of a good demand for seed potatoes and a somewhat steadier tone in Idaho led to buying of futures and an advance of 5 to 10 cents. May closed at $2.26 per 100 pounds.

Cotton.

Weakness in commodities in general and in the stock market, combined with announcement that the government would continue to sell its holding of spot cotton until April 30 started a selling movement yesterday in American cotton markets which carried prices off around 30 cents a pound, or $1.50 a bale, before aggressive buying developed. Commission houses were heavy sellers, and there was considerable pressure on the October contract from foreign interests.

Closing trades on cotton futures in Chicago were at net losses of .20@.23 cent. Other American markets declined .19 to .27 cent a pound. It is estimated the government held 1,850,000 bales of spot cotton on March 31. Trade reports yesterday indicated there had been large purchases of Brazilian, Argentine and Paraguayan cotton made for shipment to the United States. Spot cotton closed .15 to .25 cent lower with New Orleans, 14.70 cents; New York, 15 cents; Houston, 14.50 cents, and Galveston at 14.45 cents a pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

PERKINS URGES HIGHER TEXTILE LABOR STANDARD

Conference on Industry's Problems Opens.

Washington, D. C., April 2.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins said at the opening session of the world textile conference today that better labor standards would help cure industry's ills. She and Secretary Roper were the principal speakers at the technical conference on the textile industry held under the auspices of the International Labor organization.

"No area in the world," Miss Perkins said, "can view the future with complacency except as there is a leveling up of labor standards in all countries."

Her premise was that a "sick" industry could get on its feet only by increases in the purchasing power of the underlying populations throughout the world. Textile manufacturers employ approximately 14,000,000 workers.

Gives Views on Profits.

"Measures that are designed primarily to maintain the rates of profits in an overexpanded industry accentuate its ultimate difficulties," the labor secretary said. Shorter hours and higher incomes are a necessary accompaniment of rising productivity, she said, adding that "advantages derived from low wages are only temporary." She estimated the world could use five times the amount of cotton textiles now consumed.

Secretary Roper said: "Wages and working conditions are being maintained at a level enhance operating efficiency, and I confidently believe future legislation, future court attitudes, and executive responsibilities will seek to assist farsighted employers in maintaining these gains."

Roosevelt Sends Message.

President Roosevelt sent a message to the conference expressing confidence that its deliberations would have "a far-reaching effect upon the ultimate prosperity of the industry and the well being of the millions whose livelihood depends upon it."

"For the first time the representatives of employers and of workers in an international conference, with equal powers, meet with the representatives of governments to seek a greater measure of social justice in life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," said the President.

"The conference will discuss vital problems as they affect one of the world's oldest and most highly competitive industries."

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw sugar was easier today and prices declined 2 points to the basis of 3.48c per pound for spot and forward. Sales reported were 30,000 bags of Cubas for April shipment and 58,500 bags Philippines for April-May and May-June shipment at 3.48c to 3.50c.

Futures were easier under commission house liquidation and hedge selling, influenced by the easier spot market and the decline in London. No. 3 contracts closed at the lowest and 1 to 4 points below the previous close on sales of 10,050 tons. No. 4 contract, after declining 3 to 3½ points on more active positions, rallied near the close. Final prices were 2 to 3 points net nower. Sales 36,450 tons.

Automobile Production.

The amount of business the automobile industry enjoys has a far reaching economic effect. The volume of its business, of course, determines whether or not this large industry is making money and whether its hundreds of thousands of employés—from assembly line men to salesmen—are prosperous.

But in addition its operations affect business in diversified lines. The automobile industry is a large user of steel, cotton, wool, glass, rubber, electrical equipment, and paint. It supports many thousands of fabric company employés and provides jobs for other thousands of transportation workers who haul the raw materials and finished product.

Estimates of the industry's production are made weekly by two statistical agencies which issue their reports on Friday. The agencies are Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., and Cram's Reports, Inc. Other figures on the industry's operations are compiled by the Automobile Manufacturers association, which includes all major companies except Ford.

Individual companies also issue reports, usually containing figures on sales to both dealers and consumers, and domestic and foreign shipments.

Tomorrow: Security Underwriters.

ROOSEVELT HITS METAL PRICES; MARKETS BREAK

Would Halt U. S. Buying of Durable Goods.

an economic standpoint, durable goods have advanced well ahead of consumer goods. Attention should now be concentrated upon a leveling of durable goods prices, and a lifting of consumer goods.

As soon as the President's statements reached the New York stock market a heavy selling movement set in. Trading was heaviest around midday, when the dumping of basic industry shares forced the ticker several minutes behind. Sales slackened somewhat in the closing hours and a mild recovery set in, but could not make appreciable dent in the day's losses.

Steels and coppers took a real drubbing. U. S. Steel dropped 3 points, Bethlehem 2, Crucible 3½, and National Steel 3. Gulf States Steel, after tumbling 10 points, closed $6 a share lower.

Coppers were equally hard hit, with Chile off 4, Anaconda 1⅞, Cerro off 1¾, Kennecott 2⅝, and Roan Antedope 3¼.

Commodity Shares Drop.

In sympathy with the declining leaders, commodity stocks, particularly rubbers, lost up to 3 points. Building and construction shares lost about as much.

Rails held losses to smaller figures than did the industrial stocks. New York Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, and Pennsylvania led the rail group downward.

The utilities pushed their combined averages down to a new low for the year or more, although American Telephone closed with a fractional gain. Electric equipments continued weak, Westinghouse dropping over 2 points.

Indicative of today's widespread sell-off, declines were shown in 658 stocks. Stocks which closed higher today numbered 101, while 114 issues remained unchanged.

Copper Declines Sharply.

In the New York metal market copper for delivery in May fell to 15.05 cents a pound from 15.50 cents Thursday.

Export copper continued to ease and prices at one time during the session reached 16.35 cents a pound, compared with the domestic price of 17 cents. Foreign copper prices, however, firmed in afternoon trading and recovered part of ground lost earlier in the day.

Cotton fell about $1 a bale under heavy liquidation induced by uneasiness in other markets. The July contract sold off from 14.32 to 14.11 cents a pound. At the lows of the day losses ranged from $1.50 to $1.85 a bale.

Rubber, a leader in the rapid climb of commodities in recent months, showed net losses of 0.35 to 0.40 cent a pound for the day. Hides, another leader, were off only 0.05 to 0.07 cent.

Prices Compared with Year Ago.

The rapid rise of commodities, basis for the President's statements, was illustrated in many market centers by comparisons of prices yesterday with prices a year ago.

On April 1, 1936, steel billets were quoted at Pittsburgh at $28 a ton. The price yesterday was $37. Copper, now at 17 cents a pound, was 9.25 cents a pound a year ago. Lead has jumped from 4.6 cents to 6.90 cents at New York, zinc from 4.9 cents to 7.5 cents, and rubber from fractionally under 16 cents to 27 cents.

Bearish news in metal markets included reduction by American Smelting and Refining company of one dollar a ton in the price of lead for immediate delivery, making the new price 6.90 cents a pound in New York. Most other nonferrous metals for immediate delivery remained unchanged.

From Pittsburgh came announcement that the price of number one heavy melting steel scrap had been reduced 50 cents to $23.50 a ton. This was the first decline in the recent upward movement of scrap at the peak of which prices were the highest in 12 years.

Plan Puzzles Financiers.

The confusion resulting from the program brought the quick response from some financial interests that it would be difficult to encourage consumers' goods buying and at the same time discourage purchasing of durable goods. They pointed out that some master machinations would be required to provide the public with funds to buy consumers' supplies if business were taken away from sources which provide much of the public's income.

Merely shifting the force of government spending from capital to consumers goods could not mend the situation materially, bakers contended. They declared the real need was cessation of federal spending for all types of goods and prompt balancing of the federal budget. Others recalled the American Steel institute's recent statement that the recent rise in steel prices had failed to offset increased costs brought about by higher prices for materials and increases in wages. This was stated in answer to reports that the steel industry was much to blame in the "vicious cycle of rising wages and prices."

ORDERS FOR NEW RAIL EQUIPMENT MOUNT RAPIDLY

First Quarter's Total Far Above Year Ago.

Orders for new railroad equipment increased at an accelerated rate during the first quarter of 1937, the magazine Railway Age said yesterday. New locomotive orders numbered 108, freight cars totaled 27,613, and passenger train cars amounted to 386, the journal said.

Compared with the first quarter last year locomotive orders increased nearly 50 per cent, freight car orders were more than three times as large and passenger train car orders were more than five times larger.

Of the 108 locomotives, 92 were steam and 16 Diesel. In the same months last year locomotive orders totaled 73, of which 63 were steam and 10 Diesel. March orders totaled 29 and at the end of the month inquiries were outstanding for 22 additional engines for service in this country.

The total of 27,613 freight cars exceeded the 12 month total of any year since 1930 with the single exception of 1936, and showed an increase of 210 per cent over the 8,913 cars ordered in the first three months of last year. The 27,000 mark, passed last month, was not exceeded in 1936 until the first week in July. In addition, there were outstanding at the end of March inquiries for 11,000 freight cars for domestic use.

Passenger Cars Up 460%.

The 162 passenger train cars ordered in March brought the three month total to 386, an increase of 460 per cent over the 69 cars ordered in the first quarter of 1936. The three month total also exceeded the 12 month orders for all years since 1930 with the exception of 1934 and fell below the 1934 full year total by only 2 cars.

At the end the quarter inquiries were outstanding for 39 additional passenger cars for domestic use.

The ferry will head into the river at Detour Monday and is expected to reach here before nightfall. Marine men predict little difficulty in the upper river.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

A Feud Settled.

April 2, 1937.

A PROPERTY settlement has just been effected on the Wheaton experimental farm to eliminate all the bickering and fighting between the geese and the swans. The big pond has been divided by a fence which puts the black swans at one end of the pond and the geese at the other end. From now on these birds should have no more quarrels about which are going where next. Each group has its own area. The white swans will be kept in a special pool near the northeast corner of the farm, about a half mile from the other birds.

A Mascot for Duck Clan.

There's one duck on the farm that will be glad when the young Muscovys are moved to one of the small ponds. This is the mallard drake that walks with a limp. When we were in the barnyard the other day we saw this tame bird all by itself limping around with the Muscovys. It goes wherever it pleases because it can fly as well as a wild duck.

Just as soon as the Muscovys are taken to the small pond this little mallard will join them, because for two summers now he has spent his time with the bigger birds.

The Muscovy ducks are well along on their plans for raising families. Two of them already are sitting on nests in one of the barns and a couple others are almost ready to start their five week "sitdown." We noticed that the ducks which are on the nests have plenty of down around their eggs. The weather has been a bit cool for this spring work, so the extra down was necessary. . . . It won't be long now until the turkey hens will start making nests. Rawlings reports that the birds are making frequent trips to the woods in search of nesting sites.

Runt Lamb Made a Pet.

There are no bottle lambs on the Wheaton farm this season, but there is one pet, nevertheless. He is a little fellow, now two weeks old, called Tiny.

This youngster was about one-third ordinary size when born. Even now, at the age of two weeks, he is smaller than most lambs are at birth. There were doubts that he would survive, but now he is almost as active as any lamb on the farm, even though he is a runt. When we were there the other day Tiny was taking a morning snooze in one corner of his stall, but Rawlings says that at feeding time the youngster jumps and clowns along with the rest of the flock.

The latest figures on the lamb population show 238 lambs from 166 ewes, with 68 more ewes still to have lambs.

Caught in the Act.

Little Louis Thurow had an exciting story to tell us when we arrived on the Yorkville farm the other day. It seems that a 'possum has been paying too many visits to the chicken house. Most of these visits have been made in the night, but the other day the 'possum got bold and called in the middle of the afternoon. Louis' father was called, and when he finally caught up with the 'possum it was in one of the chicken nests looking for eggs. The season on 'possums isn't open now, but the chicken house visitor was scared enough so that he probably won't care to make any more calls.

Art Wade witnessed quite a fishing contest in the Fox river a few days ago. As he was crossing the river bridge on his way home he noticed a lot of thrashing around in the water and saw a gull battling a big fish. The bird had picked on a carp about a foot long and the fish was putting up a good fight, but eventually gave up.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

F. W. Woolworth Company.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information regarding F. W. Woolworth company stock.—P. E. Z.

Answer: Grown from a single store opened by the late Frank Winfield Woolworth in 1879 in Lancaster, Pa., this company now operates the largest chain of variety stores in the world. It was built on a policy of selling merchandise only at 5 and 10 cents per article, a policy which was maintained steadfastly until 1932 when the maximum price was increased to 20 cents. Success of this move encouraged the company to introduce goods at still higher prices in 1935. This is mostly in the 40 to 50 cent range.

Departure from the traditional 5-and-10 policy is regarded as significant, inasmuch as stores selling lowest priced merchandise are the last to be hit by depression or to benefit from business recovery. Raising price limits is designed to offer a wider variety of goods to meet a larger proportion of customers' shopping needs, but is not intended to supplant the fundamental 5-and-10 lines.

There were 2,757 Woolworth stores operating at the end of 1936—1,847 distributed through every state of the United States, 143 in Canada, 8 in Cuba, 677 in Great Britain, and 82 in Germany. Expansion, all financed out of earnings, has proceeded steadily. It was most rapid in the United States from 1923 to 1929, has doubled stores in Britain in the last eight years.

Operations of the foreign affiliates have been eminently successful, earnings from them averaging nearly 30 per cent of total net income in the last eight years and reaching 39½ per cent in 1936. This has offset decreased profit per American store.

Negligible depression effect is attested to by the following record:

	Sales.*	Net income.	Income per shr.
1936	$290,387,000	$32,625,000	$3.36
1935	268,750,000	31,247,000	3.22

*Sales in United States, Canada, and Cuba. †Including $9,977,000 profit on sale of stock in British subsidiary.

Domestic sales were $38,408,000 in the first two months of 1937, compared with $35,999,000 in January and February, 1936.

Capitalization consists solely of 9,703,613 shares of $10 par common stock.

Liberal dividends have been paid without interruption, the annual rate being $2.40 a share since 1930.

The stock is high grade.

Educated Men

We offer dramatic proof of what educated men can do in our business. Our scientific cookware and 35% comm. plus bonus offer unusual opportunity as shown by the following letter to a close friend:

"Herbert, you are young and should make good at anything you do. I would like for you to be thinking something of this work which I am in. I came in here the last of the week and went to work at 4 o'clock Friday evening, was out till ten o'clock, and worked five hours Saturday. Only made four calls from the lecture and sold $134.85. My commission is 35% so my part was $47.19. This I have in my pocket. You see I am already paid and, just think, you will have to work three weeks and not make quite so much." E. E. Brown.

RADIO CHASE TRAPS BANDIT

Alfred Maurice Hopland, a Minnesota ex-convict, was captured yesterday in Lake county after a wild chase starting in Kenosha when he tried to break into a filling station. The map and pictures below illustrate various incidents of the chase, which was organized by police radio systems. (Story on page 4.)

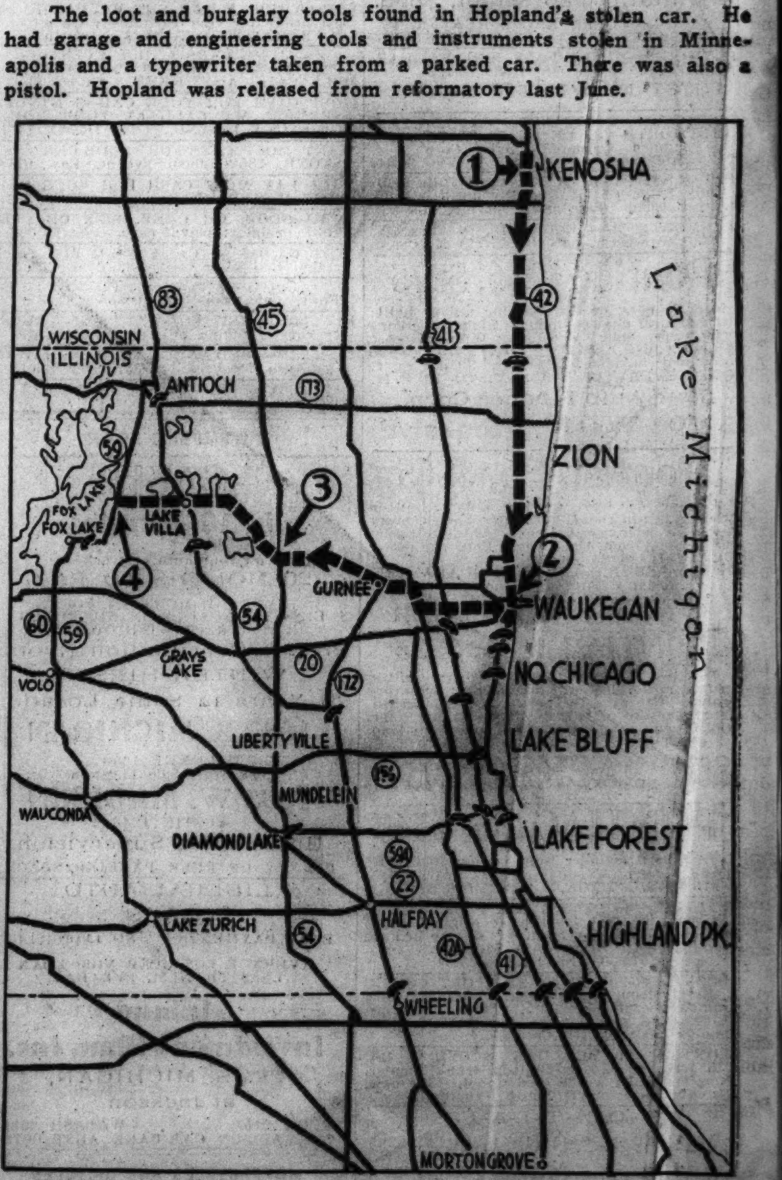
A bullet from police gun crashed through windshield of Hopland car at Zion as he sped south toward Waukegan at 70 miles an hour.

At Wedges Corner, ten miles west of Waukegan, while racing west, his car hit a tavern, leaving trunk and rack on doorstep.

Still going west, with most roads blockaded by police cars responding to radio alarms, Hopland's car sheared off these posts at intersection of Route 59 and Grand avenue before crashing.

He wrecked his car at above described intersection and fled on foot to Otto Lehmann estate, where he was caught as he tried to steal another car. No. 5—Hopland, after capture, was returned to Waukegan for questioning.

The loot and burglary tools found in Hopland's stolen car. He had garage and engineering tools and instruments stolen in Minneapolis and a typewriter taken from a parked car. There was also a pistol. Hopland was released from reformatory last June.



A map of the chase. The dotted line shows route south from Kenosha to Waukegan and west to point of capture. No. 1—Hopland entered Illinois and was soon fired at by police. No. 2—Police in Waukegan fired on him, forcing him to turn west. No. 3—He crashed into tavern. No. 4—He wrecked car, fled on foot and was captured. The black cars on highways in the area indicate where police radio network set up blockades.
